1: Oracle8i Feature and Option Availability

Microsoft has engineered Sql server with a particular strategy in mind argues the author. This strategy is integration with all the other Microsoft products. Oracle in contrast has the strategy of integrating everything into its core database product.

Acrobat Reader is available for free download from the Adobe web site <http://www.adobe.com>. Disk Space Requirements The disk space requirements for installing the on-line documentation are listed in the table below. It is not possible to customize the installation. By using the Oracle Universal Installer included with your Release 8. You must use the Oracle Universal Installer, which is new with Oracle8i. If you install both the platform-specific documentation from the product CD and the generic documentation from the generic documentation CD-ROM into the same location, the Oracle Universal Installer will create a combined documentation installation for you. You can access the documentation by loading products. The location of the installed documentation files is determined according to the following rules: See "Tools Requirements" for information about the tools necessary to view the documentation. It provides a "tree" view of the documentation library for random file access and allows you to perform searches across the library. If you have problems running OIN, or you would like to view the documentation without frames, please see the note under Step 1 about viewing the documentation without OIN. Use your browser to open the top-level index. If you do not wish to launch the Information Navigator Java applet, open the file products. The OIN requires a frames-enabled, Java-enabled web browser. To start using the Information Navigator, point your browser to: When you open one of these pages in your browser, the OIN applet loads, and the OIN utility displays in a separate window. If the OIN window is not visible after loading, it may be behind the main browser window. The OIN may not be fully compatible with all browser, platform, and Java environment configurations. If you run into difficulties, you may choose to view the documentation without the OIN. To view the documentation without launching OIN, load the top-level file products. For information on how to use the Information Navigator, click on the Help button in the Information Navigator window. The help screens display in the main browser window. To do so, follow these steps: Open Acrobat Reader or Acrobat Exchange. Clicking on this bookmark takes you up one level in the PDF index hierarchy. In the resulting dialog navigate to the file you wish to view, select it, and click the Open button. PDF files are named for the part number of the manual e. PDF files are located within the following directories: That manual is in the "Server and Data Warehousing" category, and the part number is a From the main page, click on the "Database" tab, and then on the "Documentation" link.
