Writing Tech and Crypto. He must be the most expressive Fortune CEO, not shy of taking a challenge on Twitter, swift to purposeful charitable actions that touches him, dares big things and not afraid of failure? No wonder people like him. Did I mention he is cool? But what does all that mean for Tesla? Just Tesla; is it a product genius or a trial version business? I have not and do not work for Elon Musk or any of his business offsprings. This is not meant to insult or make fun of Tesla. I do respect Elon Musk and what he does. This is a perspective piece meant to probe the minds of interested people in the tech world. So I listened to the point of the hedge fund manager. I kind of bond with that though. He said Tesla has not made profit. He said every time, they keep postponing it. This move, he believes, will get Elon fired. What exactly is Elon doing not making profit? Initially, I had forgotten about writing this, but then an incident happened recently. Tesla had to lay off some staff, in my view to become more efficient. And then Elon had to say that it is not about making profits. He says because Tesla the renewed Tesla under his leadership has not made profit so far, so it is clearly not of optimum priority. So what then is Tesla? A company or a charity? My guess is that it is neither. The edge that Tesla claims over other automobile companies is that it is a fully electric auto company. Honestly, it was a big dare when Elon went into it. What Tesla claims to be is the future of the automobile industry. But after these years, we must ask ourselves, is that future coming or nah? One thing I have learnt so far in life is that the future is not predicted, rather it is made. You can predict what you want, but if one of the major players decides to make something different happen and plays well, you can only watch helplessly from the sidelines as the wish of the player plays out, unless you are a player yourself. Robots have been predicted since the 50s to be a big part of the future. This is and we are still awaiting robots to go mainstream. The future is what we make, not what we think. Tesla was branded around this. They were seen to be the leader. Now, every automobile company is racing for supremacy in electric cars. In fact, it is said that some traditional car companies now have their electric car section bigger than Tesla. Plus, those companies are making profits. Yes, Tesla does but eventually reality will swallow up crafted social image. The electric car is not the shining light of the future anymore. Now, everybody is excited about self-driving cars. Everybody seems to be in on self-driving cars, even Google and Uber. But look how sincere those who ought to lead the charge have been. And those were those who were caught. Certainly, some were not caught or perhaps, many. Elon should be credited for just limiting himself to electric. Like I said, the future is made, not predicted because there are active players. But something has to change if something radical will happen. Eventually, what the numbers say will win. Maybe they are living off profits from elsewhere. Jim Chanos, the hedge fund manager, mentioned something in that interview I saw. Elon mentioned something futuristic on his Twitter account, and Jim traced the timing to the release of the quarterly earnings report. However, this piece will not be complete without the honorable mention of flamethrowers. Or maybe I should call it by its revised name, Not-a-flamethrower. It met with a lot of success in sales. Can this model be leveraged to deliver profits to Tesla? But let me tell you what I saw. He is very likable. While Elon tries as much as possible to keep the price at the barest minimum, it is still yet to have a breakthrough on that area. Why did the flamethrower do so well? Electric will remain expensive for the foreseeable future. In the upper class neighborhood, there are not so many Elon fans. There was once a comparison of a Bugatti and Tesla Roadster. The Tesla was significantly ahead in a number of areas. What options does Tesla have? First, make friends in the upper class neighborhood. As good as the marketing strategy of Tesla is, it has to be directed to what will bring the big sales in. This option cannot be applied alone, otherwise the original fans will feel betrayed. So, option number 2; create a luxury brand car of Tesla. Something that will catch the eye of the upper class neighborhood. Detach it from the Tesla brand. Change the overall look and feel, make it dope and then, crazy expensive. Option number 3; create more non-car products. Create more household products consistent with the Tesla philosophy. Transition to manufacturing from just automobile. Create more things Tesla fans can buy. Things college kids can buy, things high school kids can own and get a sense of connection to Elon and his ideas. Option number 4; acquire some innovative startups with impressive sales and sales prospects and then scale them up. So, Elon becomes a kind of lead dreamer in a house of dreamers. The success of these acquisitions can help Tesla get a balance in sales reports and there will be lesser and lesser pressure on Tesla car-making section to make profits. Option 5; decentralize and go full crypto. Of course, Elon will have to learn a lot to head in this direction. The concept here is that you will only be able to buy a Tesla car for Tesla tokens. And the value of the Tesla tokens with USD will change with time. This means people will have an option to either to sell their Tesla tokens at a higher price or use it to buy a Tesla car. Plus, anyone who has cash who wants to buy Tesla will first have to buy Tesla tokens. It will be a hit coin! They will have massive initial problems with regulators though. Finally, Tesla going into obscurity is not good for anyone. Even Jim Chanos hopes to see a change, his bet is based on the fact that there will be none. Honestly, the way Tesla is currently headed is not so promising. The future they are currently preparing for is quite far and may not even arrive. I hope one of these options or a variant of it appeals to Tesla and Elon.

The day most people worry about Matthew 6: The day many people foolishly waste Proverbs 6: The day in which we can work 1 Corinthians The day for which we can only wait Acts 1: The day of present opportunity Ephesians 5: The day of future uncertainty Proverbs The day which may never arrive Luke Make plans for the future. Leave God out of my plans. It is never wrong to plan for tomorrow today see Proverbs 6: According to Matthew 6: Suppose as a lumberman, your assignment is to cut down an entire forest. Pour all your strength and energy and effort into the work, and you will be amazed to see several tall trees fall down each day. Soon you will realize that the forest was not as big as you first thought it was. Before too long not a tree will remain standing. The legend is told of one lumberman who worked in this way, giving his all to the job each day. Remember, the man who removed the mountain had to start by carrying away small stones! Worry is unable to cut down even one tree! The Lord Jesus said we must not worry about tomorrow whether the forest will be cut down! With these things in mind, how would you begin to solve these problems? Your English teacher requires you to read a page book and then to report on it in two weeks. Your history teacher assigns you a 20 page paper. Your Mother is rushed to the hospital and must remain there for two weeks. You are responsible to do most of the shopping, cooking, cleaning and washing for the entire family. You have been given a part in a Sunday School Play, and you must memorize three pages of material. Football season will be here in three months after the summer months and you are concerned about whether or not you will make the team. What must I do with my care and worry 1 Pet. In 1 Peter 5: How much of my care and worry should I throw upon the Lord 1 Pet. It would be wonderful if he could handle all of your cares. Whenever a problem or difficulty should arise, all you would need to do is tell him about it, and he would worry about it for you! You would not have to worry about it at all! That would be his business. You would then be free to live as if you did not have a care or worry in the world! You have thrown all your care on another person. You do not even need to worry about how much money you should pay your friend for doing all your worrying for you. That is his worry! Adams, You Can Stop Worrying, p. Yet the Lord tells you to throw all your care upon Him. If you give your cares to the Lord and leave them with Him, then you will be free from worry! Let God carry your cares: The burden of your cares is too great for you to bear! The worry and care will crush you unless you throw it all upon the Lord! Why should you decide to throw your care and worry upon the Lord 1 Pet. God is concerned about you. It matters to God about you. It is a concern to Him about you. He ever cares and He never stops caring about you. Does God care for birds Matt. Which would cause you the most concern and which would you care about the most? Losing a quarter or losing a twenty-dollar bill? Often we see dead animals by the side of the road, and we pay little attention to them. Sparrows are important to God! Who is much more important to the Lord Matthew On the average, the human head has about , hairs. If you do not believe this, count them for yourself! The Lord knows exactly how many hairs there are on your head! If you were to lose one hair and several fall off each day , you would think nothing of it! But is God mindful of that hair? Believers often worry because they foolishly think the Lord does not care. Did the worried disciples think the Lord cared for them Mark 4: In this important verse, the Lord first tells us what we must not do, and then He tells us something that we must do: In the days of the King James Bible the word "careful" meant anxious, full of worry and care Luke Today this word is used in a good sense, and it means "to exercise a healthy care and concern, to be cautious. Young people and older people should be very careful about what kind of thoughts find their home in the mind Phil. God tells us not to be careless in the way we live: Have you ever seen a cat walk around and among delicate pieces of furniture? Cats are not careless. Why can the believer be free of care 1 Peter 5: Let God know about your problems and your needs. Does the Lord already know about these things Matt. He wants you to ask Him to take care of whatever you were worried about. HOW in what way should my requests be made known? Our verse Philippians 4: In Everything I must worry about nothing, but I must pray about everything. In every situation and circumstance of life I can let my requests be made known. In every problem and difficulty I face, I can ask God to work it out. Prayer can be applied to any problem and to any and every situation. We must send our requests towards the ONE who can really do something about them. In the middle of our troubles, where can we look for help Psalm If I look at my broken watch, then I will get all worried. If I look toward the watchmaker who can fix it, then I can relax because I know my watch is in good hands. Should a person look at his broken leg or should he look in the direction of the Doctor? By Prayer How can I let my requests be made known? This word "prayer" is used many times in the New Testament Acts 1: Very Conscious of Who God Is. I do not understand. I cannot solve my problems. God has the solution! Nothing is too hard for Him and no problem is too big Gen Through Him I can do all things Phil. He will never leave me nor forsake me Deut. He never asked me to solve the problem by myself. The Living God is my Helper Hebrews Also He knows how much I can bear 1 Cor. He also knows the best solution. In other words, if He took care of my greatest problem my need for salvation , then certainly He can take care of the lesser problems that I face day by day. The God that helped David, Daniel, Paul, etc. I can always count on God being God Heb.
