

1: Little Scholastic: Petting Farm Set by Beth Bryan and Jill Ackerman (, Novelty Book) | eBay

This innovative board book format provides a fun and stimulating way for curious preschoolers to learn about farm animals by seeing, hearing, and touching them. The minute DVD brings the animals to life!

A mobile petting zoo business can take the animals to the birthday boy or girl, arrive at events, hit the local park and go anywhere there is a need for a petting zoo. A mobile petting zoo helps reduce property insurance costs that one run out from a business or home location incurs. As a business owner, you also broaden the range of customers, because the business goes to locations that are convenient to your customers. Acquire the animals for your petting zoo. Add a couple of medium-sized animals such as a goat and a miniature pony. The rest of the animals can include rabbits, a puppy and chickens. Socialize the animals from a young age by inviting friends and family with children to visit. Get the animals used to being handled. Purchase equipment and supplies. You will need a trailer and truck to transport the animals. Buy or build fencing that you can put up and take down easily. Other items needed include hay, feed for the animals and small cups that the children can carry the food in when feeding the pets. Obtain licenses and insurance. You will need a general business license available through the secretary of state. Check with the board of health in your area to see if there are any special requirements for livestock businesses. Contact your insurance agent and inquire about business automobile insurance and liability insurance in case an animal were to bite a child. An Association of Zoos and Aquariums membership and accreditation will likely reduce your insurance costs. Hire and train employees. It is vital that children have proper supervision while attending your mobile petting zoo. Trained staff can step in and direct the child in how to treat the animal so both the child and the pet are protected. Promote your business and gain customers. Create a website showcasing pictures of your animals and information on your mobile petting zoo. Purchase business cards with your business name and contact information. Make up a brochure that lists party packages and prices. Pass out brochures and business cards to everyone you know and ask them to spread the word. Send a press release to local newspapers. Post a flyer at the library and grocery store.
