Wednesday, May 16, For the fourth day, players are permitted to stay at the NovaCare Complex for four hours, as they have been for the Phase 1 and Phase 2 portion of the offseason. All workouts are voluntary. Head coach Doug Pederson offered some first impressions of his first two draft picks, tight end Dallas Goedert and cornerback Avonte Maddox, based on the past weekend. On Goedert, Pederson said: He moves around extremely well. Wilson, a longshot of longshot, takes the next step. For Pederson, Wilson embodies the very message the head coach delivered when he gathered the players for their opening meeting at the NovaCare Complex: He flashed for us during the Rookie Minicamp and really did some nice things not only as a receiver but potentially as a returner. He gives us some depth at that slot receiver position, where is where he will primarily play. He deserved an opportunity to come to Training Camp. Many, many, many more steps to go for Wilson. Brent Celek is no longer on the roster. Bryan Braman is an unrestricted free agent. There is always going to be change on special teams, but the Eagles lost some key players, Burton notably. Kamu Grugier-Hill is one of the leaders of the special teams pack and there is going to be quite a bit of competition. That means that Nick Foles and, particularly, Nate Sudfeld will benefit from extra reps. Joe Callahan, formerly of the Green Bay Packers, will be the third quarterback. If competition brings out the best in players, this is a very good situation for the Eagles. Long way to go for Maddox, but as you read above he had a good first weekend and could get an initial look in the slot at cornerback. And that means what for the rest of the cornerback group? The Eagles, early in this offseason, appear to be in promising shape here. And finally, speaking of roster depth, the Eagles are going to have some fun sorting through the offensive line behind the projected starting five of Jason Peters, Stefen Wisniewski, Jason Kelce, Brandon Brooks, and Lane Johnson. Matt Pryor and Jordan Mailata are the rookie draft picks. This is going to be fun. Honestly, this may very well be the deepest roster, on paper anyway, the Eagles have had in many, many seasons at this point in the offseason.

The Phillies had 18 hits, including five home runs. Aaron Altherr had his best game of the season with a two-run homer, a three-run homer and two singles. He scored three runs and made a terrific base running play. The Phillies are four games over. Yes, Rhys Hoskins was in the lineup. He started at first base – his natural position – for just the third time this season. Carlos Santana started at third. Could he be back at first base next season? Phillies officials have discussed it see story. Energy and confidence Altherr played with energy and confidence. You could see both when he made a terrific base-running play, scoring from second base as Quinn was beating out a potential double-play ball that would have ended the fourth inning. Not only did Altherr exhibit his speed, he made an athletic slide to get by catcher J. Roman returns Quinn returned to the lineup – in center field – nine days after suffering a broken toe on his right foot in Miami. He had a big game. In addition to beating out the potential double play that resulted in two RBIs in the fourth, he hit a laser-beam homer to left in the second inning. Quinn has three doubles, three triples and two homers in his last 13 starts. He has stolen playing time from inconsistent Odubel Herrera. If he can stay healthy. That has always been a challenge. More on the Phillies.
