Use a rubber spatula to mix press down on large lumps as required until there are no large lumps of ricotta. Add flour, baking powder, sugar and salt. Mix until just combined. The batter should be fairly thick. Place egg whites in a separate bowl. Whisk vigorously by hand for 30 seconds until foamy. Fold the egg whites into the batter and mix until just combined. The batter should be quite thick - thicker than normal pancake batter. Heat a non stick skillet over medium heat. Cook for 40 - 45 seconds or until a few bubbles appear on the edges Note 4 and it is golden underneath. Flip and cook the other side for 40 seconds. Remove from the skillet and repeat with remaining batter, using extra butter as required every 2 or 3 pancakes. Note 5 Serve warm with maple syrup and strawberries. Set aside for 10 minutes to allow them to sweat and soften slightly. Some ricotta that comes in tubs or fresh ones from Italian delis are very soft and creamy. This recipe needs firmer ricotta. I get mine from the deli at Coles and Woolworths in Australia, but the tubs in the refrigerator section are ok too. If your ricotta is quite watery, then place it in a fine colander for 20 minutes or so to remove some of the water and make it thicker. The step to melt then wipe off most of the butter is the secret to ensuring that the first pancake comes out beautifully evenly gold all over, rather than splotchy! Not an essential step, but I like to do this. It applies to normal pancakes too! I like to use an ice cream scoop with a lever because when I press the lever, it scoops all the batter out cleanly from the scoop. The cook time is the same -ish because the batter, although thick, is light because of the foamy egg whites. They are meant to look rustic - just as they do at bistros! PS No counting calories for weekend brunch!

What started as a random idea of mounting a bicycle on the wall, has led to a full-fledged collection of two-wheeled, three-dimensional wallpaper. Pot plants hang in this green shed on Glebe Point Road, but arguments usually rage over who sits under the bicycle. But everyone gets free WiFi. For a bit of dizziness to a balanced breakfast, order the Tunisian date syrup on the side. If you steer away from the red lights and clubs, however, and pass on the greasy deluge of cheeseburgers and kebabs, good taste is only a few blocks away. There are no extra sauces: The Lebanese-inspired breakfast menu is why loafers dawdle into on weekends. From chickpeas to muffins, nothing comes out of tins or tetra packs. Naturally, everything comes with Lebanese bread. Grab a few toothpicks of the free flourless brownies on your way out. The Moroccan lampshades, stringy Arabic music and Turkish coffee at Kazbah is a journey to the Middle East in the middle of stylish Balmain. The mystification subsides as the food arrives. The avalanche of roasted vegetables includes spinach, roast capsicum, roast tomato and caramelized onion. For herbivores, a vegetarian option is available with pumpkin. Kazbah, Darling St. When posh Sydneysiders and a fancy breakfast menu combine, you get a table at Bills. There are also enough greens to impress your mother. A side of creamy avocado salsa brings them to life. Bills, Crown St. Just pick something from the extensive and colorful blackboard menu and order. A thick slice of tomato and a lemon wedge add to the flavors. It looks more like a burger than a muffin. And is just as satisfying.
