Unmatched freedom, career opportunities, and personal accomplishment are a few of the many reasons why people decide to become pilots. Although operating expenses may be equally shared with your passengers, you may not fly for compensation or hire as a private pilot. However, you can fly any airplane you are appropriately rated for to thousands of public airports, day or night. If you wish to fly for fun or are taking the first step toward a career as a pilot, there is much for you to learn both on the ground and in the air, but it is not too difficult! If you can ride a bicycle or drive a car, you can probably fly an airplane. Many people might consider learning to fly beyond their capability or budget, but it is not as difficult, time consuming, or expensive as generally believed. Gleim Aviation goes beyond preparing you to pass the required tests. Coordinated training makes you a safer, more competent pilot, in less time while reducing frustration. Obtain a 3rd Class Medical Certificate Individuals desiring a private pilot certificate must obtain at least a third-class medical certificate. The FAA medical examination is a routine exam administered by FAA designated doctors called aviation medical examiners AMEs, who will issue your medical certificate after the exam. Even if you have a physical handicap, medical certificates can be issued in many cases. Operating limitations may be imposed depending upon the nature of the disability. Call if you have questions. Obtain a Student Pilot Certificate Getting a student pilot certificate is one of the first steps toward becoming a private pilot. This certificate must be obtained before you are allowed to fly solo. You must be at least 16 years of age and be able to read, speak, and understand English to receive a student pilot certificate. To apply, you will meet in person with a Flight Instructor, FAA inspector at a local Flight Standards District Office, designated pilot examiner, or airman certificate representative from an approved Part flight school. Upon approval, your student pilot certificate will be mailed. Purchase the Gleim Private Pilot Kit. This kit includes everything you need to study and reference in order to prepare for the FAA Knowledge Test, also known as the written exam. This computerized test has 60 multiple choice questions. This course guarantees you will pass the written exam. Choose a Flight School Visit several flight schools, if more than one is available, to talk to flight instructors about flight lessons. Alternatively, look for aircraft schools, airplane instruction, aircraft sales, airports, etc. Indicate that you are interested in taking flight lessons to become a sport pilot. It is important to choose a flight instructor with whom you will feel comfortable. This may be difficult to determine after only a short meeting or introductory flight; however, you will certainly learn more when you are ready to learn and comfortable with the learning environment. Speak with several instructors. While there are no perfect answers, the following questions should be asked. Questions to ask a flight school or flight instructor Do you instruct part time or full time? This information concerns availability only. Part time does not imply less proficiency or less availability. Compare it to your Gleim Private Pilot Syllabus. How long does your average student take to solo? How many total hours of solo and dual flight do your typical students require? Ask about a typical lesson. Ask about their time commitment. Where do you recommend that I take my pilot knowledge and practical tests? Ask about the estimated costs as well. What are the solo and dual rental costs for your training aircraft? What are your instruction costs? Do you have an introductory flight for a nominal fee? May I take it with no further obligation? Make sure that the CFI is familiar with Gleim pilot training materials the books with the red covers and is enthusiastic about using them. If you encounter hesitation, call Make a Plan Once you have made a preliminary choice of flight instructor, you need to sit down with your flight instructor and map out a plan. When and how often you will fly. When you will take the FAA pilot knowledge test. When you should plan to take your FAA practical test. When and how payments will be made for your instruction. Take and pass your knowledge and practical tests!
