God desires you and your business to be blessed, fruitful, and prosperous. Here are 7 powerful verses along with 7 sample prayers to better position yourself and your business to receive the prosperity of God. Lord, teach me how to prosper in my body and in my spirit, for then I am well equipped to receive your blessings over me and my business. For then you will make your way prosperous, and then you will have good success. And the Lord will grant you plenty of goods, in the fruit of your body, in the increase of your livestock, and in the produce of your ground, in the land of which the Lord swore to your fathers to give you. Lord, keep my paths straight. Correct me if I wonder or get off course. Help keep me wholeheartedly committed to obeying Your commands so that we are blessable in Your sight. Lord, grant me everything I need to continue your good works as You direct me. Encourage me to point to you as my great provider, to introduce them to you, and to offer to them the opportunity for you to become their great provider, too. Lord, how I celebrate your joy in the prosperity you share with me and all those associated with this your business. I am humbled and forever grateful. May I always remember all prosperity comes through You. Here is a fast-start prayer plan to prosper you and your business: Copy and paste these prayers into your daily calendar – one verse and prayer per day for the next 4 weeks. Every morning read the verse, meditate on it, use my sample prayer as a beginning point, then pray YOUR prayer out loud. Repeat that days prayer 3x a day. Journal how God begins to prosper your soul 1 and ultimately brings forth celebration in your heart and business 7. Business Principles from Successful Dental Labs The New Year is typically a time when we reflect on the past year and, inevitably, thoughts go to what we wish we would have done better. The start of a new year is the Perfect time to put those thoughts into actions. Success in This year, business is at the top of my list. If it did, then we all better start getting smaller, hunkering down, laying off employees, lowering prices, stop advertising, and stop spending money on training. Just try to survive until they tell us it is ok to get back to the business of prospering. On the other hand, we could look around and see if there is anyone in our business prospering. If there is, we need to find out what they are doing and do that. I know of several dental laboratories that are, and have been, prospering and expanding despite the current economic scene. There are a few very basic principles they have followed that I believe are the source of their success. I would like to share what I believe are the most important with you. The truth is that you already know what they are and many of you probably have tried them this past year. Maybe they worked, maybe not. If not, I hope I will be able to shed some light as to why not. Business Principles for Success The first and most important principle is that they ignored the doom and gloom economic news. They refused to become a part of the down statistics. Most, in fact, hired employees instead of laid off. The second is that each of them had developed a clear vision for what they wanted their business to look like. Third, they all had clearly defined plans on how they were going to achieve their vision and continued to execute those plans faithfully. Fourth, they had in place marketing and sales strategies and continued to promote, they continued to think of new ways to inform their customers of their efforts to provide new and better products and services by holding Doctor Training courses. Last, they continued to train their technicians. They sent them to courses on the new technology, but equally as important, they increased their training in the fundamentals. As a matter of fact, it is their training in the fundamentals that brought their success to my attention. My discussions with them confirmed what most of us already know but so often fail to truly understand. And that is without a clearly defined vision, there can be no plan. When there is no clearly defined plan things only get done according to the most urgent problem at hand crisis management. When one is constantly fighting the next crisis you simply do not have the desire, energy or foresight to create a well thought out vision. I think this quote by Michael Gerber, author and business guru, says it very well: That gap will tell you exactly what needs to be done to create the business of your dreams. It also must be noted that no matter how you decide to improve your business, everything depends on well trained technicians. Why not take that first step?

Photo archive by Roberto Hugo Gonzalez Dr. Villarreal to hear his powerful expose of government corruption which had relentlessly targeted Texas dentists like himself. The good doctor thanked his audience and signed countless copies of his book: The courageous doctor wrote this powerful book to describe his struggle with the top bureaucrats of the Texas Health and Human Service Commission and its Office of Inspector General who had targeted him and his practice in with serious but false allegations of misconduct within the Medicaid program. The ensuring battle tested his belief in himself and pushed his practice to the brink of financial collapse with the state withholding over a million dollars in payments for services delivered to poor children in the Rio Grande Valley. How could he pay his staff? He describes it as the confrontation had by little David of Bible times with Goliath, a fearsome giant of a man. His story is a first-hand tale of right and wrong. Like the shepherd boy, the doctor bravely took on an intimidating giant, and in both battles, the little guy won. But, here we are. Let me begin by telling you who I am, the story of my experience with governmental corruption, and why I had to write this book. His business has grown to be one of the largest single family dental facilities in the state and the country with employees and twelve doctors of dentistry on the staff. They were obviously trying to ruin me and my dental practice, as this put an extraordinary amount of financial burden on us. It is now available on line at Amazon and elsewhere. Truth Decay, book written by Dr. Villarreal Foreword By Dr. This is the true story of the best and worst of human nature. Unfortunately for the victims, the story you are about to read is true. There are two sets of victims. Strong only in numbers. Weak in that they are just children. Children born into poor families. Children whom we are bound to protect. Children whose best health interests became an inconvenient cost to state officials whose twisted sense of mission led them far astray from their sworn oaths of duty. How is it possible that nobody knew what was going on? Dentists must maintain their license to practice in order to make a living and support themselves and their families. The threat of loss of license and practice due to conviction on fraud charges regardless of whether or not those charges have any basis in truth weighs like a boulder on the chest and in the minds of the accused. Furthermore, the cost of being accused, the freezing of money already earned but not yet dispersed, can be equally if not more intimidating than the potential court cases and defense of their licenses and good names. Dentists have been afraid or unable to fight back. Nobody was willing to challenge authority. Nobody was willing to stand up for the three million plus children and be their voice. This is the story of David and Goliath. This is a tale of right and wrong. Villarreal was willing to stand up and fight back at great risk and cost to himself. Juan chose to fight back for all of those who could or would not. Juan gave voice to the three million plus children.

Dentistry might be seldom discussed in architectural circles, but it's proved to be a lucrative primary business for the Denver-based firm Joe Architect. Earlier this year the four-year-old, five-person firm expanded to sevenâ€”adding another licensed architect and an architectural intern to the staffâ€”because of its specialization in designing offices for dentists and orthodontists.
