When we are given the opportunity to view a Rainbow we become mesmerized and enchanted by the breathtaking Beauty which appears in the untouchable distance; a Beauty which comes to us directly from the paintbrush of Divinity. Fire, Earth, Air and Water. The Rainbow is created by the first rays of the Sun Fire piercing through the heavenly dew Water which is still suspended in the sky above Air after a rainstorm. And the Rainbow touches the ground below Earth at both ends of its majestic arc. The Symbolism of the Rainbow is both rich and ancient. First of all, the Rainbow looks just like a bridge which links two parts of the earth. However, as the highest point of the Rainbow touches the heavens, it also represents a link, or bridge, between the Spiritual realm above with the realm of matter below. In this respect the Rainbow, as a bridge, is a pathway, a Ladder, or an intermediary by which Spirit can descend into matter and matter can ascend back to Spirit. It also represents the link through which the worlds of Spirit and matter can communicate with each other. And, as being a link between heaven and earth, or gods and mortals, it therefore represents the colorful medium through which Divine Speech, Word and Instruction is bestowed upon humanity. The leprechaun wears a green jacket and green is the color of the evergreen, or eternal. It is also the color of fertility and abundance. Gold is a Symbol for the untarnishable and the incorruptible. Noah saw a Rainbow at the end of the great and turbulent Flood which signified the end of his voyage and a return to calmness and peace. In this respect the Rainbow is also a Symbol for cleansing. As A Symbol for Cleansing: As the Rainbow only appears after stormy skies, it is a Symbol for the restoration of cosmic order. And, just as turbulent storms are necessary for Nature to cleanse and feed the Earth, so too are emotional storms necessary in our lives in order to cleanse away our burdens and feed our souls. In this respect the Rainbow also Symbolizes the peace and calmness which comes to us at the end of unsettling periods of our lives. For, after our emotional tears are finally drained from us our Road ahead becomes clear, our Rainbow is shining above it, and the Path we must follow toward our objective, our "pot of Gold", now Becomes clear to us. A seven-colored Rainbow is created when invisible light passes through Water particles in the sky. The seven colors of the Rainbow are also brought into view when invisible light passes through a prism. This passing of invisible light through either Water particles or a prism Symbolizes the manifestation of Spirit into matter. It is the manifested "appearance" of invisible Deity in the physical realm. When we gaze upon a Rainbow we are granted a brief glance at one of the beautiful physical aspects of the Divine Unknowable. The seven colors of the Rainbow represent the seven spheres, or seven Heavens, through which Spirit descends in order to become physical matter. The seven colors of the Rainbow are also the colors associated with the seven Chakras. From base to crown, the seven colors of the Chakras are: And just as these seven colors are the manifestation of invisible Deity through either dewy skies or a prism, so too do these seven colors of our Chakras represent the manifestation of invisible Divinity within each one of us as our Atman, or God within. Here is an interesting note: Primary means something which is first or original; something which cannot be created from something else; something unique and therefore "god-like". And it is in this respect that the color indigo represents the "god-like" power which exists within the pineal gland of our "third-eye" Chakra. The Second Inverted Rainbow: Although most people will not notice it because they are not actively looking for it, a dim secondary rainbow is often present outside the primary bow. As a result of the second reflection, the colours of a secondary rainbow are inverted compared to the primary bow, with blue on the outside and red on the inside. The secondary rainbow is fainter than the primary because more light escapes from two reflections compared to one and because the rainbow itself is spread over a greater area of the sky. The degree angle of the Rainbow is also similar to the angle, or outer slope, of the Great Pyramid which is approximately Therefore, much of the Symbolism associated with the Great Pyramid also applies to the Rainbow. The second Rainbow is both nearly invisible and its colors are inverted. Its near-invisibility offers us, and Symbolizes, a short-lived glimpse of the manifestation of Divinity into the usually invisible Spiritual realm. Its inverted colors Symbolize both the Mirror and the process of ascension and descension. As all Mirrors are a reflection, in reverse, of that which is being reflected, the visible Rainbow is a reflection and earthly manifestation of the seldom visible Spiritual Rainbow. Just as Spirit manifests into matter, so too does the Spiritual Rainbow manifest itself into the visible physical Rainbow; but in a reverse colored order. As we experience ascension through the progression of our Chakras from red to violet, Spirit experiences descension manifestation into the physical realm by way of the seven colored spheres, or Chakras, of violet to red. Therefore, the colors of the seldom seen, and nearly invisible, second Rainbow Symbolize the order of descent of Spirit into matter. The colors of the visible Rainbow Symbolize the order of ascent of matter back into Spirit. Closing Thoughts and Observations: The Rainbow is the result, or manifestation, of the union of Sun-light Superconscious illumination and enlightenment with Water the Great Sub-Conscious and the Mysterious Unknown. As the Rainbow only appears after turbulent storms it is a Symbol of the cleansing process which heralds in new life, new creation and new Times. As the chameleon can change its body color into any of the seven colors of the Rainbow, it is associated with the Rainbow. Rainbow-colored ribbons are used by Shamans when they "journey into the sky" by way of their trance-like astral voyages. It is during these meditative journeys that the Shaman raises his, or her, consciousness to a higher state of awareness in order to transit into the higher Spiritual realms for divinity purposes. The seven Chakra colors of the Rainbow also represent the ultimate state of transformation we can experience during meditation whereby all of the visible colors of manifestation, from densest to purest, are transformed back into invisible and pre-manifested light; a process through which we can experience a return to the Oneness of paradise. And finally, from Dictionary of Symbolism by Hans Biedermann, pages , we have the following: The similarly iridescent pigmented membrane of the eye is thus called the "iris".

A big colourful welcome to Sunshine Coast Pride. The 10th Anniversary Fair Day, replete with a multi-coloured balloon entrance offset by perfect Queensland sunshine had already seen the ride in by the famous Dykes On Bikes and next on the agenda were the burlesque performers followed by the highly celebrated Pride Paw Parade. On the way to the main stage we met last years defending champion pooch radiantly attired in rainbow coloured angel wings with matching scarf and tutu. Her very proud, colour coordinated owner, was anxiously anticipating another top award this year. Iconic local drag queen and festival hostess with the mostest, Miss Melony Brests, kept things real and moving right along with announcements, introductions and a bit of bawdy banter. Miss Melony Brests keeps the celebrations alive. The Paw Parade was ushered in by local drummers and saucy Samba dancers and then the real stars appeared, the rainbow dogs, fairy winged puppies and pretty pooches in pink tulle. They all looked magnificent and, as they paraded by to meet the judges, we were not sure who was having the most fun, the dolled-up dogs, their apprehensive owners or the adoring audience. The judges had a difficult task ahead of them. Winner of the Paw Pride Parade. But the Festival is not all about camped up tail wagers and it was time to explore some of the 30 or so stalls promoting LGBTIQ awareness, wellbeing and health services. GALT members handing out materials. At another stall we met the guys from Australia Digs Equality. As usual it was great to see Queensland Police lending their support to the festivities and raising awareness. The music from the main stage started again and we caught sight of shirtless men. It was time to return to see some very cute local guys performing their well rehearsed routines. They certainly were a crowd pleaser and provided a more macho perspective on burlesque. The festival did not end with the markets. The Festival planned to finish on a high with Pink Fizz, a lazy lunch and swim at stunning Kondililla Falls. The Sunshine Coast Pride Festival started fairly small, exactly 10 years ago. See you all in a few weeks at the Noosa Rainbow River Festival.

There is a small, pale orange spot over her right eye. Both of her ears are a soft yellow. Her long, light brown mane is parted to the right, and bright gold streaks run through it here and there. Her gentle eyes are a deep, gold color. Raven is slightly taller than other ponies as a result of her long legs, and she is very light as a result of her hollow bone structure, which allows her to fly. Her cutiemark depicts 3 stars- gold, orange, and coral - in a pyramid formation. In her pegasus form, she has small gold and coral wings. She also has 2 short, curled horns growing out from her head- both are light tan. She grows a pair of full antlers, which resemble that of a stag. Personality Raven is a kind, yet shy pony, who enjoys speaking with and spending time with her close friends. Once she gets to know a pony, she feels very comfortable around them, and will begin to show her true personality. She loves to joke around with her friends, and is generous with smiles and hugs. Raven drawn by meowcepei However, her emotions are very fragile, and she can be very easily hurt as a result of a tragic past. If anypony is rude or mean to her, she will very easily become offended and sad, and will retreat from the situation. Raven becomes angry only when somepony threatens her friends- if that happens, she will defend them at all costs, and her rage cannot easily be cooled down. Background Raven Sunshine was orphaned as a small filly, and therefore grew up at the Ponyville Orphanage. He told her that she would never be able to fly, and the other foals taunted her. Lumi afraid of the other fillies and foals. She ran off to live in the Everfree Forest when she was a young mare, and built herself a small treehouse in a maple tree, where she lives to this day. She learned the basics of potion-making from a book she borrowed from the library, and started to earn a living by making simple potions to heal magical illnesses. And in her spare time, she would try to search for a transformation spell that would give her wings. Eventually, after studying potions for 2 years, Raven discovered a chaos seed buried deep in the floor of the Everfree forest, and used it along with a culmination of ingredients including pheonix feathers and buck antlers to create a potion that successfully turned her into a pegasus. That was the day that Raven got her cutiemark- 3 stars, representing her dreams to "reach the stars" and accomplish what other ponies said that she could never accomplish. However, her success came with a cost- she grew two horns from her head, effectively turning her into a "monster" and rendering other ponies afraid of her. Talents Raven is perhaps best known for her art- she creates paintings in order to express herself and her feelings, as well as prevent ponies from fearing her monster-like appearance. She is also excellent at creating potions, although some more complex potions involving transformations may go awry.
