Native Americans[ edit ] Prehistoric hunter-gatherer peoples were the first inhabitants, and their artifacts have been found in various areas of the county. Lipan Apache , Shawnee ,[ citation needed ] and Coahuiltecan culture followed. The fort was reoccupied in Three traders were murdered and mutilated by Lipan Apaches. The county still has a considerable ranching community. That same year, a Mexican garrison established Piedras Negras across the border. They were joined in ranching operations by stranded pilgrims on the California Gold Rush trail and discharged Fort Duncan soldiers. Among these was Infantry veteran Jesse Sumpter, who also worked at many odd jobs before becoming sheriff in the newly formed Maverick County. Pease authorized a raid into Mexico. An international incident was brought about by James H. Callahan and William R. The county was organized some years later on September 4, The estimated population of the county in was Eagle Pass voted against secession from the Union. Eagle Pass was chosen as a trade depot for the Military Board of Texas. Eagle Pass was a major terminus of the Cotton Road, custom house and Confederate port of entry into Mexico A cotton press was installed at Piedras Negras to handle the enormous quantities coming across the Rio Grande. On July 4, , Shelby stopped in the middle of the Rio Grande to bury the last Confederate flag to fly over his troops. To the sound of drum and bugle, he wrapped the flag around the plume of his hat, weighted it with a stone from the river bank, and lowered it into the river. King Fisher and his followers dominated the era in the region. In , rancher Patrick W. Thomson formed the Eagle Pass Irrigation Company to construct a huge gravity-flow irrigation system to draw water from the Rio Grande. Thompson died in , but his efforts came to fruition as the Maverick County Irrigation Canal system, operational by April Foulois and Philip O. Parmalee made the first official military reconnaissance flight, looking for Army troops between Laredo and Eagle Pass, Texas , with a ground exercise in progress. Mining operations developed by Dolch at Dolchburg and by the Olmos Coal, Coke, and Oil Company at Olmos were the largest coal producers in Texas around the turn of the 20th century. Industries located in the county in included a cotton gin and two cattle feedlots with capacities of 25, cattle at El Indio, one at Normandy, and another between Eagle Pass and El Indio. A spinach-packing shed was at the southern edge of Eagle Pass. Primary crops were hay, oats, and wheat.
