In , the Masked Rider Committee proudly began a new tradition of honoring those associated with the Masked Rider program. The status of Honorary Masked Rider is only awarded to those select few who have impacted the history and future of the Masked Rider program in extraordinary ways. Honorary Masked Riders are an elite membership as are the true Masked Riders. Only former Masked Riders and committee members can submit proposals. Nominations are reviewed and discussed during the April Masked Rider Advisory committee meeting. The committee members will review the proposals, and a vote is taken by the committee membership during the May committee meeting. Ex officio members as noted on the committee roster will not vote. Although multiple representatives from the Center for Campus Life are on the committee, the Center for Campus Life only receives one vote during this process. Individuals and organizations may be nominated for this honor. If a nominee is not selected during one calendar year, they can be considered again in another calendar year if renominated. No person or organization may be named an Honorary Masked Rider more than one time. Nominations may be made posthumously. Committee will not necessarily select an Honorary Masked Rider for recognition every year. Honorary Masked Rider nominations are confidential. Only those selected for the recognition are publicized. When and How is an Honorary Masked Rider recognized? Honorary Masked Riders are recognized at one home football game each year during pre-game or halftime. A special presentation is made similar to the Transfer of Reins presentation to incoming riders. For individuals, each honorary Masked Rider receives a collectable gift including the traditional cape and mask. For organizations, the gift is presented to an entity representing the organization. Special recognition is also given by media outlets i. Any group or individual who has made significant contributions to the Masked Rider program over a period of five or more years. Nominees must represent the ideals and values of the Masked Rider program. Nominees should have made an impact on the program in one or more of the following ways: Former Masked Riders are not eligible for this recognition.

Ralph and Holly Caristo in Wellington, Florida. Photo by Isabel J. Kurek By Lauren R. Giannini Ralph Caristo is the real deal: In , he was honored with the Jane Marshall Dillon award from the U. Hunter Jumper Association for many years of service within the horse industry and for helping countless young equestrians. Photo courtesy of the Caristo Family Ralph and his wife, Holly, emphasize sportsmanship and team spirit. Their core family values travel with them from Glenview Stables in Saugerties, New York, to its winter counterpart in Wellington, Florida, and all around the horse world. They love what they do and put their hearts and vast experience into helping riders of all ages achieve their dreams. I teach the kids about team competition and how you go about it. They have to dress properly. I try to get belts and matching polo shirts and hats. We like to prep them as a team to look like a team. We always have the full support of the parents. They give us free rein with their kids. He met Holly, a Grand Prix jumper rider, at a horse show, when he changed the flat tire on their trailer. Robin, Karen, Lynn and Heather grew up riding and training at Glenview. Ralph and Holly have influenced generations of riders. My dad always taught me when you talk to someone, look them in the eye. Patience is one thing I always take with me. Right now, she has two horses with serious talent that are not for sale. We brought him from not really being able to jump courses to competing internationally for the U. That was a huge accomplishment for the whole family. Evening Star and Chewy may be similar to look at, but riding them over the course is a very different story. But I foresee in his future that he will mature as Evening Star has and will be a lovely ride. He gets the whole dream and takes it to heart. After several seconds, he continued: It was such a thrill.
