These numbers are printed below the passage, against each, five words are suggested, one of which fits the blank appropriately. Find out the appropriate word in each case. Both issues have been largely 64 by politicians and played down by environment and development for 20 years. We 66 choose to rebalance the use of resources 67 a more egalitarian pattern of consumption or we can choose to do nothing and to 68 into a downward spiral of economic and environmental ills 69 to a more unequal and inhospitable future. Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions given below it. With their large populations and rapid growth, these countries, so the argument goes, will soon become some of the largest economies in the world and, in the case of China, the largest of all by as early as But the BRICS, as well as many other emerging-market economies-have recently experienced a sharp economic slowdown. So, is the honeymoon over? India had a couple of years of strong growth recently And South Africa grew by only 2. Many other previously fast growing emerging market economies for example. First, most emerging-market economies were overheating in , with growth above potential and inflation rising and exceeding targets. Many of them thus tightened monetary policy in , with consequences for growth in that have carried over into this year. Second, the idea that emerging-market economies could fully decouple from economic weakness in advanced economies was farfetched: For example, the ongoing eurozone downturn has hurt Turkey and emerging-market economies in Central and Eastern Europe, owing to trade links. This implies a slowdown in reforms that increase the private sectors productivity and economic share, together with a greater economic role for state-owned enterprises and for state-owned banks in the allocation of credit and savings , as well as resource nationalism, trade protectionism, import substitution industrialisation polices, and imposition of capital controls. This approach may have worked at earlier stages of development and when the global financial crisis caused private spending to fall; but it is now distorting economic activity and depressing potential growth. The risk that China will experience a hard landing in the next two years may further hurt many emerging economies. Fourth, the commodity super-cycle that helped Brazil, Russia, South Africa and many other commodity-exporting emerging markets may be over. Since then, emerging-market currencies and fixed-income securities government and corporate bonds have taken a hit. The era of cheap or zero-interest money that led to a wall of liquidity chasing high yields and assets " equities, bonds, currencies, and commodities in emerging markets is drawing to a close. Finally, while many emerging market economies tend to run current-account surpluses, a growing number of them including Turkey, South Africa, Brazil and India are running deficits. And these deficits are now being financed in riskier ways: These countries share other weaknesses as well: The need to finance the external deficit and to avoid excessive depreciation and even higher inflation calls for raising policy rates or keeping them on hold at high levels. But monetary tightening would weaken already-slow growth. Thus, emerging economies with large twin deficits and other macroeconomic fragilities may experience further downward pressure on their financial markets and growth rates. Some factors are cyclical, but others -state capitalism, the risk of a hard landing in China, the end of the commodity super-cycle are more structural. Of course, some of the better managed emerging-market economies will continue to experience rapid growth and asset outperformance. But many of the BRICS, along with some other emerging economies, may hit a thick wall, with growth and financial markets taking a serious beating. Which of the following statements is not true in the context of the given information in the passage? What should be the most appropriate title of the passage in your opinion? Which of the following is not a factor responsible for economic slowdown in BRICS and others emerging-market economies as cited by the writer of the passage? The need to finance the external deficit and to avoid excessive depreciation in emerging markets calls for 2 keeping policy rates on hold at high levels 3 Either 1 or 2 4 Tightening monetary policy
