Instead of just placing photos on an album, a scrapbook will ignite the creativity within you as you are going to design it to make it more attractive and fun to look at. However, there may be instances where you just run out of scrapbook ideas, some pages turn out lame. If you are running out of scrapbook ideas to help you come up with well-designed pages, here are some great ideas. We have consolidated 27 scrapbook ideas that are timeless and beautiful. Most of the samples are actually affordable, you can do all these by yourself using some stuff that you can get inside your home. There are also some that require special equipment to achieve the look. You can write or print on it, and add more colors by cutting out different card stocks, and stick them all together using a foam double sided tape to come up with a 3D look. Calligraphy Originally posted at Canadian Scrapbooker Calligraphy, also known as decorative handwriting, is a wonderful way to add oomph to your scrapbook pages. There are a lot of great calligraphy pens that you can use such as brush, felt tip, flexible nib pens, and many more. Some of the popular brands to choose from are Pilot and Zig. Paper Punchers Originally posted at Fiskars Paper punchers are another helpful craft tools to help you come up with good images on your scrapbook. Whether you want a diamond, a flower or a butterfly, you can definitely achieve a uniform look using paper punchers. Some of the most renowned brands are EK Tools and Recollections. These can be purchased on Amazon, Ebay or Michaels. Cut-Out Papers Originally posted at Creating Keepsakes If you do not have paper punchers, or if you cannot find one that can achieve the look that you want, cut out the papers by yourself. You can search for patterns on Google or Pinterest, print the design and manually cut it. Make sure that you use a high quality, thick paper or cardstock so it will not get damages easily. Page Flags Originally Posted at Get it Scrapped Page flags, especially those made of eye catching colors, can be used to write important information about what the page is all about. If you will use it as a design on the page, you can choose a designed paper, cut a rectangular shape and then cut a tiny triangle on one end. The procedure is similar if you will use it as a page marker, just make sure that you use a thick material that cannot be folded easily. You can also have it laminated for added protection. Definitely one of the most amazing scrapbook ideas that you must not miss. Printed Papers for Background Layout Although you can get printed papers on Etsy and some craft stores such as Michaels and Hobby Lobby, why not make your own? Just look for nice images on the web and print it on your own. You can use these as your page background and stick all the photos, embellishments and stickers on top. There are numerous designs that are available on your nearby craft store or you can check out free printable designs on Pinterest and Etsy. Just find a good type of sticker paper, preferably matte, if you will print your own so you will get a high definition result. Buttons Scrapbook Layout Ideas Got some old shirts that you no longer want to use? Get the buttons before you throw them away. These can serve as great embellishments on your scrapbook pages and definitely save you a lot of money! Some may think, it will just ruin the page especially when it starts to wither. However, there are some ways to keep it intact. One method is through preservation using Glycerin. Mix one part glycerin to two parts water. Completely soak the leaves on the mixture for 2 to 6 days. Carefully dry it using a paper towel. Through this method, the leaves will not lose its flexibility as the natural moisture is replaced by the glycerin. Spray paint it to add a distinct look. Journaling Cards Journal cards are popular scrapbook materials that come in different brands, but the most popular ones were created by Becky Higgins â€™ the Project Life Cards. If you do not have the budget yet to purchase the Project Life, you can check out free printables on Pinterest and other crafting sites. Just choose a design that will compliment your entire scrapbook layout. Splitting Photos into Strips Splitting photos into strips is yet another one of the greatest scrapbook ideas. Just cut the photos in different sizes and shapes, and stick them using a glue to create a special effect. Washi Tapes Scrapbook Ideas Originally posted at Studio Calico Washi tapes are made of natural fibers, usually hemp or bamboo, and are almost similar to masking tapes. You must have probably saw them on different scrapbooks since it really provides beautiful designs to the layouts. You can follow the image above where the user has placed different washi tape designs diagonally or you can place these on the sides where it will serve as a frame on the entire page. Origami " Japanese Art.

And you know what? I think I finally cracked the code! For me, photography is the most important part of a scrapbook. Today I want to share six easy ideas for layouts I made using photos as the base for the page. These pages are full of personality and tell a story, and they were super easy and uncomplicated to create. It only took me a couple hours to print these photos and make six pages! This is key for me, because the other thing I really want out of scrapbooking is complete albums and I have a LOT of photos waiting in folders on my computer. I put two photos each on my 13" x 19" paper and printed them on my Canon PRO printer. Then I just trimmed them and I was ready to go! For this first page I cut a circle from my photo, covered it from behind with a piece of scrapbook paper, and added cut-up sticker letters and a stamp to note the season and year. For this next page I used a pattern stamp to create a border on one side of the photo. This photo makes me die a little. I love that kiddo so much. For this next page I used some washi tape to create a broken line down one side of the page. Using a stencil, I did a messy trace of a circle and added some stickers and cut-up journaling down the side of the page for a little extra detail. For this page I stamped my title in the natural white space and did some handwritten journaling with a permanent pen. Oh yes! I decided to make a whole album about our home renovation process. Is there anything cuter? This design is real simple, just a quick little title and bit of journaling. This was my favorite photo that Janae took when we were shooting the home book. She made me promise to frame it in the house. So, I kept this page super simple. So I stamped along the bottom and added a real small handwritten date. Simple, easy, and I totally love it! I love making these pages. They really add a lot of energy and personality to the overall feel of the album. I love that look too! Thanks so much for reading.
