It was so much fun to make, I use it quite a lot, it actually makes me smile when I see it on my bed, I think it is the bright colors or maybe the fact that I used so many scraps from my scrap bin!. I hope you like it as much as I do! Thank you for your vote!. The only fabrics in the top of the quilt came from my fabric scraps. Using 9 main color themes I created the quilt you see pictured with lots of sewing, cutting, Repeat. Machine quilted lime green circles by Barb Raisbeck of QuiltsbyBarb. Joni Cook, Ontario, Canada This was my first scrappy sampler. I love fall and wanted to use all of my fall fabrics in this wallhanging. Donna, Michigan, USA I had a great deal of fun cutting up scraps and stash to make the bricks in this quilt. I was inspired by a photo of a s quilt, and I made this one in small dimensions Quilt size: It completely emptied out my scrap drawers, and tested my strength with its weight as it neared completion! I wanted to learn paper piecing and the spider web pattern seemed to be fairly easy. I quilted my quilt on my home sewing machine. I made the dog bed from an old coffee table and baby bed mattress. We were told to bring lots of light and dark fabrics that contrasted well. I brought some of my cat fabrics. Using the templates was easier than I thought and it turned out pretty well for a first timer. Made from charms received in swaps and a white tonal print left from another project. I decided to just start sewingâ€thus the middle. I then decided it would look really cool to make a circle and bind it. It looked so good, I decided it needed little neighbors attached. Now its a big family Quilt size: It has about pieces in the top, most of which came out of my scrap bin. This is my take on a New York Beauty Block. Natasha, Pennsylvania, USA I needed to use up some of my crumbs and wanted to incorporate them into a traditional quilt design. The center of the stars and nine-patch blocks are crumb blocks. The flying geese, and other sections of the main blocks are all from my scrap fabric stash. I enjoyed every bit of the process. It is made from scraps, mostly Civil War scraps and others mixed in that were left over from various other quilts. My youngest son fell in love with it so I named it after him. Sam, Saskatchewan, Canada I made this quilt for my daughter out of a bag of scraps that I had acquired. Nancy, North Carolina, USA When one of our group of five adopted sisters had a heart attack, we made her a quilt with scraps from all of our stashes.
