September 15, by Dana Zeliff 4 Comments Disclosure: The family-focused amusement park, Sesame Place, is located just outside of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. The entire park is based on the popular Sesame Street television show currently on season 47! Sesame Street Place is home to a variety of dry and water attractions, shows, food, character meetings and shopping. Sesame Street Place Tips: Save time at the gate and purchase tickets in advance. Huge savings can be found online. Take a look there first, to see what offers are available. You can also purchase a parking pass online to save even more! If you purchase it in advance, you most likely will get a discount. According to the website: Guests are permitted to enjoy the following attractions: Guests may also enjoy all of our daily live shows. No outside food, such as sandwiches, is allowed in the park, but there are some exceptions. Also, ensure you pack plenty of water to keep adults and kids hydrated throughout the day. Be sure to adhere to their food policy, as a bag search is performed upon entering the park. Picnic tables are available outside the park, where you can enjoy lunch, perhaps from a cooler in the car. Get your hand stamped for re-entry and eat outside of the gates. Plan to eat early or late if not participating in Character Dining or packing a lunch. The lines to purchase meals can get extremely long. Starting when the restaurants open at Kids meals get a souvenir plate and cup. I highly suggest bringing in snacks to tide kids over, then eat lunch outside the park. The lines were just too long to spend an hour or more waiting around to eat. Book Character Dining in advance to secure your place. Families can eat with Elmo and Friends, get photos and autographs while dining indoors at the buffet. Choose from breakfast, lunch or dinner. Head straight to the water attractions if arriving first thing in the morning. Experience Sky Splash before the line gets too long. This super popular ride is a must and perfect for families. Just be warned the water is rather chilly, even in August. Alternatively, arrive early and pick your favorite dry rides. Let kids have their fill of these attractions before moving onto the wet rides after the afternoon parade. It is highly recommended to reserve in advance, as they do sell out. There are 4 options available. Arrive early for shows to make sure you get in. This tip is particularly true for Elmo the Musical Live! This wildly popular show fills up fast! Get lined up early for the Neighborhood Street Party Parade. However, parents of little ones may want to get a spot in advance, around 30 - 45 minutes before the start of the parade. Someone must remain with your belongings at all times! The greeting begins 30 minutes prior to the Neighborhood Street Party Parade. Arrive early as this is on a first-come, first serve basis. Additionally, have kids dressed in their swimsuits and flip-flops before arriving at the park. Exclusive character interactions are included along with other perks depending on cabana type booked. It can be a nice place to relax away from the crowds, if the cost of a cabana is within your budget. Families can participate in child swap. Life jackets are provided on attractions when they need to be worn. If you plan to let your children play the carnival type games at the Sesame Playhouse, get a Game Pass online. Bring your phone to take photos of your child with the characters. There are many opportunities throughout the day for your child to get pictures with the various Sesame Street characters, including seeing them walking down Main Street. Professional photos can be purchased at the park and a discount is available online with the PhotoKey. Kids will have a blast meeting their favorite characters. DiPaola Momma HNIC 2 Comments One of the things I love most about travel blogging, and writing , is connecting with people who share my passions; food, travel, giving back, and helping others make the best off all those things. When one of those people does me the honor of agreeing to share their insights here on my blogâ€¦ hello, Awesome! Sit back, relax, and take notes as Shobah shares her Sesame Place tips. If you have a toddler then you know all about Elmo. Not that there is much to know â€” just that Elmo loves you. And, he will tell you repeatedly that he loves you. I have had the dubious pleasure of raising two Elmo addicts myself. Luckily they are now recovering from their love of Elmo and his theme park, Sesame Place although I still have flashbacks. My parents live near Sesame Place in Langhorne, Pennsylvania. Every summer when my children were younger, we would spend a large chunk of our summer at Sesame Place. I enjoyed making them happy helped feed my martyr mother complex. Here are my top tips for surviving Sesame Place. Get there early when the park opens at 10 AM. Otherwise the line to get into the park gets really long. Plus you can keep your car closer to the park entrance without paying for the VIP parking. Regular parking is expensive enough and not usually included in your theme park ticket itself. In the morning, head to the right side for the amusement park rides such as the tea cups and flying rides. For an under-5 theme park, Sesame Place does not have a lot of shade. I would suggest you go to the beach area and get yourself a beach umbrella and set yourself up for the afternoon. Bring buckets and shovels for the kids to play. Sesame Place gets really crowded in the summer. The Philadelphia summer camps visit en masse to this park. The evenings are great at Sesame Place. You will definitely be able to enjoy the water park area but without the crowds. The Sesame Place parades are really fun! The participants are really enthusiastic and seeing the Sesame Street characters is a real treat for young children. She had such a look of adoration which I doubt I will see again unless I got her Taylor Swift tickets. Any children over the age of 5 will find Sesame Place a bit tame. I personally think Hershey Park is a better theme park because it is larger and cheaper. My kids and I can step in occasionally to give my brother and his wife a break. That and having a good chuckle as I drop an overtired, overexcited toddler off at home as I drive away. Shobha blogs at www.
