Here are our favorite swims from the first 3 weekends of September. It was his best non-championship season performance and marked a 1. Carpenter left the meet with a PB in the back, as well. He finished the weekend with PBs in the free and back. SAC, Bishop dropped 0. She finished the meet with PBs in all 8 events. He also won the breast and IM and was runner-up in the fly. He picked up new PBs in all the but the IM. She also won the 50 breast and placed 3rd in the 50 fly and IM. Branon took home new times in the breast, 50 fly, and IM. She is 4 seconds ahead of where she was in September 1: She also won the 50 free, back, back, breast, 50 fly with a PB, and fly. The Weekly Wonders column is a celebration of age-group swimming, where new champions are made every day. Anyone can look up the top swims of the week. Instead, this is an opportunity to introduce the swimming community to athletes who have made great strides in the context of their own particular swimming worlds. By association, it also celebrates their coaches and their teams. The Weekly Wonders column, therefore, amounts to a pat on the back for a job well done, and hopefully encourages swimmers of all levels to continue to reach from within to get to that next level. With the Astros back on top on the American League West and the Athletics gearing up for a Wild Card date with the Yankees, that leaves three clubs nursing their wounds. Here are the silver linings from the divisionâ€”
Mariners â€” A promising core And no â€” not the core they once boasted, which featured an in-prime Robinson Cano , Kyle Seager , Felix Hernandez and an aging-but-still-productive Nelson Cruz. This Mariners team won 89 games largely in spite of that group Cruz being the exception , as Cano was suspended 80 games while Seager and Hernandez had the worst seasons of their still-excellent careers. Haniger and Segura turned in star-caliber performances on the season as a whole even if each slumped late in the year. Both were deserving All-Stars. Diaz set a franchise record with 57 and posted a preposterous Each has yielded positive results thus far. There are payroll problems and aging veterans that complicate things in Seattle, but the Mariners have a nice foundation in place â€” especially if either Seager or Hernandez can bounce back to some extent. Angels â€” Co-Stars Remember those quaint days this spring when many were wondering if Shohei Ohtani would deliver anything close to the hype â€” both on and, especially, off the mound? That leaves a direct conundrum â€” how to manage the situation with Albert Pujols â€” along with gaping hole at the top of the rotation. Fortunately, the Halos have stockpiled some other star performers to place around centerpiece Mike Trout like the side stones in a ring. And year-old rookie David Fletcher held his own with the bat while providing terrific defense at both second base and third base. The rotation is mired with question marks, to be sure, but the makings of a solid relief corps are there with Blake Parker , Jose Alvarez , Cam Bedrosian and up-and-coming Ty Buttrey all giving reason for optimism. Rangers â€” Young players on the rise Frankly, it feels like Jurickson Profar should be older than 25 at this point. After shoulder injuries wiped out two seasons for the Curacao native, he delivered a forgettable campaign that called his upside into question. Fast forward a year, and Profar hit. This year, however, Odor rebounded to the tune of a. Perhaps no Texas youngster shined brighter than emergent closer Jose Leclerc , though. Joey Gallo , meanwhile, clubbed 40 homers with his typical brand of absurd strikeout totals. Ronald Guzman swatted 16 home runs in an uneven debut season.

It is one of six palaces built by Barghash bin Said , second Sultan of Zanzibar , and it is said to be located on the site of the 17th-century palace of Zanzibari queen Fatuma. The construction materials consisted of an original combination of coral rag , concrete slabs, mangrove shoots or boriti, and steel beams. Though this building served to attest to the modernity of the Sultan, other elements made it a functional palace, such as the covered passages above street level called wikios which connected the House of Wonders to the two adjacent palaces Beit al-Hukum and Beit al-Sahel now Palace Museum , allowing the royal ladies to move about unseen. The building has a large central covered courtyard or atrium surrounded by open galleries. Some of the inner doors of the palace are beautifully carved with inscriptions from the Quran. The marble floors and most of the silver decorations inside were imported from Europe. The Sultan ostensibly kept wild animals chained up for display in front of the building and had the main door made wide enough so that he could ride an elephant through. In front of the building once stood a lighthouse [5] which was destroyed during the Anglo-Zanzibar War of 27 August The House of Wonders suffered only minor damages. During reconstruction in a new clock tower was integrated into the facade of the building. Beit al-Hukum was not rebuilt; its location was transformed into a garden, increasing the visual dominance of the House of Wonders. The House of Wonders was only fully occupied by the Sultan and his harem after the bombardment. In it was transformed into government offices and as the main secretariat for the British governing authorities. After the Zanzibar Revolution of it was converted into a school and a museum for the ruling Afro-Shirazi Party with North Korean aid. In 1975 museum development was initiated. The inner courtyard is fully occupied by a mtepe a traditional Swahili boat. One of the rooms at ground floor hosts an old car that belonged to president Abeid Karume. They were captured by the Persians in and later donated to the Sultans of Oman, who brought them to Zanzibar. The House of Wonders is now closed due to disrepair. The Museum has moved to another location.
