But if you know anything about astrology, you need to know that not everything can be detailed in one simple zodiac sign. We have a multitude of astrological signs that each pertain to different areas of our lives. One of those areas is knowing what your spirit animal is based on your astrological sign. An animal spirit explains a humans spiritual energy and deep inner desire. Read below to find your spirit animal, as it relates to your zodiac sign. Unfortunately, the ram is not your spirit animal. For Aries, a fire sign that is fueled by passion, independence, and loyalty, your spirit animal is the hawk or falcon. Hawks work amazing in groups, but work even better independently, as they are spontaneous and sometimes rather impulsive. These people are never afraid to take the initiative. And, despite their hard-shelled exterior, the hawk is extremely compassionate. Passionate to the upmost, hawks are also adaptable and open to new ideas. They are extremely strategic, resourceful, and very witty. In fact, you never want to try and out-wit a beaver. They are sharp and incredibly intelligent. But beavers need to be cautious of turning people away with their, my way or no way, attitude. Deer are incredibly energetic, witty, and very intelligent creatures. The deer is also not afraid to make a fool of themselves, as long as it gets a roaring laugh from their audience. This spirit animal also cautions you to not give into your vanity. Rely on your amazing charisma and personality to attract people to you, not your doe-eyed look. The deer can also be very nurturing and inspiring to their perfect mate, although they can be quite picky in love. This sign also has a tendency to be impatient, moody, and even lazy, when they feel bored or taken advantage of. They live for the unknown. The woodpecker is incredibly nurturing, much like a cancer male or female. Woodpeckers are amazing caretakers. They are caring, empathetic, great listeners, and supportive in their family roles. Woodpeckers, like Cancer, are very resourceful. At their worst, the woodpecker can become angry, jealous, or even possessive. But that is pretty rare for this animal that tends to be all heart and little head. Oftentimes creating their own path and daring for everyone to follow suit. This spirit animal is deeply connected to Leo lion , as they are both incredible leaders. They are well-liked, warm,, and enthusiastic. Salmon have a tendency of appearing arrogant and egotistical, but only those close to them know that they are incredibly insecure. Many times, leaving them easily hurt if their feelings are not reciprocated in the manner in which they need. The salmon is loyal, stable, and giving, but when hurt, they can become vindictive and egotistical. This is an issue of pride for them, which they have a lot of. They are observant, independent, and a bit of a perfectionist, just like the bear. The bear, as your spirit animal, explains much about the deepest parts of your personality. You are methodical in many ways, hardworking, and incredibly intelligent. Bears may not be known as cuddly creatures, but they have a huge heart and oftentimes can be so generous that they will give everything they have for those they love. They are also very modest, shy, and can live very minimally if need be. The bear is also known for being impatient and having quite the temper if pushed hard enough, which they need. And when they are, hell hath no fury! This sign must be careful about becoming too skeptical, reclusive, independent, and lazy. But at their best, bears are very generous and loving. Which is very much like the raven, who is known for being a peace-loving creature. The raven is incredibly intelligent and charming, known for their incredible balance of beauty inside and outside. The raven is the perfect mediator of any group as they are diplomatic, making them great listeners and advice-givers. The raven has boundless energy and is incredibly easygoing in all their relationships. But all in all, the raven is very nurturing and loves to give their time and hearts to those around them. They make excellent caregivers, teachers, and doctors.
