I do not heal anyone. I think of myself as a stepping stone on a pathway of self-discovery. I create a space where people can learn how incredibly wonderful they are by teaching them to love themselves. After years of individual counseling with clients and conducting hundreds of workshops and intensive training programs across the country and around the world, I found that there is only one thing that heals every problem, and that is: They get the jobs they want. They have the money they need. Their relationships either improve, or the negative ones dissolve and new ones begin. Life is a voyage of self discovery. To me, to be enlightened is to go within and to know who and what we really are, and to know that we have the ability to change for the better by loving and taking care of ourselves. It clears us so that we can love ourselves enough to love other people. We can really help the planet when we come from a space of great love and joy on an individual basis. The Power that created this incredible Universe has often been referred to as love. We have often heard the statement: Love is the binding agent that holds the whole Universe together. To me, love is a deep appreciation. When I talk about loving ourselves, I mean having a deep appreciation for who we are. We accept all the different parts of ourselves—our little peculiarities, the embarrassments, the things we may not do so well, and all the wonderful qualities, too. We accept the whole package with love. Unfortunately, many of us will not love ourselves until we lose the weight, or get the job, or get the raise, or the boyfriend, or whatever. We often put conditions on our love. But we can change. We can love ourselves as we are right now! We are in the midst of enormous individual and global change. I believe that all of us who are living at this time chose to be here to be a part of these changes, to bring about change, and to transform the world from the old way of life to a more loving and peaceful existence. Please take care of me. We are the power we have been seeking. Today is the day you can love yourself totally with no expectations. Love is something we can choose, the same way we choose anger, or hate, or sadness. We can choose to forgive someone who has hurt us and begin to finally heal. We can choose to be grateful for what we have. We can choose love.

2: Keep Love Loving and Open to God

Start loving, keep loving by Colleen Townsend Evans, , Doubleday edition, in English.

Radical Self Love is a big topic. Kind of daunting, actually. If you want to delve into it, where do you begin? Here are some ideas. To you from me, Pinky Lee! Usually this is because our sense of self-doubt is stronger than our self-love. If you can build up the love side of things, this will begin to change. Think of a way you could make your life easier – then do it. Whatever it is, make it a priority. Change the way you think about food. Stretch in the mornings. Really listen to people when they are speaking. Have media black-out days. The concept of doing this terrifies me but I know it needs to happen. Be gentle but honest. The time has come. You are part of this. This is your movement. It could make a huge difference. My new favourite is courtesy of Emily. No further explanation needed! Do your very, very best to stop judging people. Express love in as many ways as you can. Take a bubblebath wearing a tiara. Not everything needs to be planned to the last minute detail! It is the zest of life. Clean out your closet. Increase the amount of spinach you eat. Make a little extra effort every day. Treat yourself to new knickers. Change your alarm clock to something which makes you smile. It was a wonderful way to wake up. You probably know what that means for you. So what are you waiting for? Throw away your scales. Put them in the back of your closet, into storage or inside a suitcase. You might like to give it a shot! The world has enough grey! Out of the swamp. A day to bask in the brilliance of you. A day to celebrate making it this far. Own it, make it yours. Plus, dark chocolate is one of the healthiest foods you can eat! It makes for great therapy. It really will make you feel so good. So WHAT if people stare at you? Recognise that life is only ever what you make it. Record it to your voicemail, draw it, write it down, just get it out of you somehow. Write a letter to yourself as a child. Spend some time by yourself or with a close friend. Even though your mother told you not to! Make the most of every opportunity. Make the commitment to living boldly. Fortune favours the brave. Appreciate the people in your life. Because everyone has a choice as to whether they want to be in your life or not! Be good to them. Let them know how much you value them all the time. You cannot be too loving! Work on your Radical Self Love Bible all the time. Even after the month is over. Radical Self Love is not just a one-month project! It is a life-long adventure! Put in anything that you think is relevant. Re-answer them every week. See how things change. Channel powerful women until you feel like you are one too. Nothing is forbidden, everything is allowed. Dress up for yourself. Wear things which make you happy! Really take time for yourself. It makes a huge, huge difference to your quality of life. Think about this every day: Set yourself enormous goals. Goals which scare you, goals which cause a lump in your throat. Now try something new. Being the best is boring! Get into another industry, start something from the ground up. Be your own superhero. Unplug, do something different. Can you offer time, money, your voice or influence? Be your own best friend. As opposed to your own worst enemy! Support other women. No matter WHAT you may think of their choices or behaviour. Seriously, swallow it down. We need each other, now more than ever! It only makes you feel bad about yourself! Eff the status quo! Be good to your temple. You only get one – might as well lavish it with love! Be impeccable with your word. Say only what you mean. Treat other people with respect at all times. Everybody, no matter their situation, deserves it. Operate on your own agenda. Do you want to look a certain way, or does society want you to? Do you really want to have a social life that looks like this, or is it just what you think is expected? Shake up your routine. You make yourself unhappy.

3: Loving v. Virginia - Wikipedia

To keep loving someone is an art. The start is the easiest part. To keep loving someone, you have to suspend the present moment in your mind and remember why you decided to love this person in.

Background[edit] Anti-miscegenation laws in the United States[edit] Anti-miscegenation laws in the United States had been in place in certain states since colonial days. Marriage to a slave was never legal. The new Republican legislatures in six states repealed the restrictive laws. After the Democrats returned to power, the restriction was reimposed. On the other hand, most laws used a "one drop of blood" rule, which meant that one black ancestor made a person black in the view of the law. She has been noted as self-identifying as Indian - Rappahannock , [8] but was also reported as being of Cherokee , Portuguese , and African American ancestry. However, upon her arrest, the police report identifies her as "Indian. A possible contributing factor is that it was seen at the time of her arrest as advantageous to be "anything but black. He was a construction worker. Farmer, fought for the Confederacy in the Civil War. The county adhered to strict Jim Crow segregation laws but Central Point had been a visible mixed-race community since the 19th century. The couple met in high school and fell in love. Richard moved into the Jeter household when Mildred became pregnant. The couple had three children: Donald, Peggy, and Sidney. She died of pneumonia on May 2, , in her home in Central Point, aged In June , the couple traveled to Washington, D. Based on an anonymous tip, [19] local police raided their home in the early morning hours of July 11, , [20] hoping to find them having sex, given that interracial sex was then also illegal in Virginia. When the officers found the Lovings sleeping in their bed, Mildred pointed out their marriage certificate on the bedroom wall. They were told the certificate was not valid in the Commonwealth. The Lovings were charged under Section of the Virginia Code, which prohibited interracial couples from being married out of state and then returning to Virginia, and Section , which classified miscegenation as a felony, punishable by a prison sentence of between one and five years. On January 6, , the Lovings pled guilty to "cohabiting as man and wife, against the peace and dignity of the Commonwealth. After their conviction, the couple moved to the District of Columbia. Cohen and Philip J. On October 28, , after waiting almost a year for a response to their motion, the ACLU attorneys brought a class action suit in the U. District Court for the Eastern District of Virginia. This prompted the county court judge in the case, Leon M. Bazile, to issue a ruling on the long-pending motion to vacate. Almighty God created the races white, black, yellow, malay and red, and he placed them on separate continents. And but for the interference with his arrangement there would be no cause for such marriages. The fact that he separated the races shows that he did not intend for the races to mix. Carrico later Chief Justice of the Court wrote an opinion for the court upholding the constitutionality of the anti-miscegenation statutes. While he upheld their criminal convictions, he directed that their sentence be modified. The Lovings did not attend the oral arguments in Washington, [26] but one of their lawyers, Bernard S. Cohen , conveyed the message he had been given by Richard Loving: States, by the date of repeal of anti-miscegenation laws: No laws passed to After Before Loving v. Virginia, there had been several cases on the subject of interracial sexual relations. Within the state of Virginia, on Oct. Alabama , the Supreme Court of the United States ruled that the conviction of an Alabama couple for interracial sex, affirmed on appeal by the Alabama Supreme Court, did not violate the Fourteenth Amendment. On appeal, the United States Supreme Court ruled that the criminalization of interracial sex was not a violation of the equal protection clause because whites and non-whites were punished in equal measure for the offense of engaging in interracial sex. Pace, had chosen not to appeal that section of the law. Alabama, the constitutionality of anti-miscegenation laws banning marriage and sex between whites and non-whites remained unchallenged until the s. Kirby , Mr. Kirby asked the state of Arizona for an annulment of his marriage. The Arizona Supreme Court judged Mrs. The court case involved a legal challenge over the conflicting wills that had been left by the late Allan Monks; an old one in favor of a friend named Ida Lee, and a newer one in favor of his wife. Despite conflicting testimony by various expert witnesses, the judge defined Mrs. However, the court dismissed this argument as inapplicable, because the case presented involved not two mixed-race spouses but a mixed-race and a white spouse: The turning point came with Perez v. Sharp, also known as Perez v. Decision [edit] The U. Marriage is one of the "basic civil rights of man," fundamental to our very existence and survival. The Fourteenth Amendment requires that the freedom of choice to marry not be restricted by invidious racial discrimination. Under our Constitution, the freedom to marry, or not marry, a person of another race resides with the individual and cannot be infringed by the State. There is patently no legitimate overriding purpose independent of invidious racial discrimination which justifies this classification. The fact that Virginia prohibits only interracial marriages involving white persons demonstrates that the racial classifications must stand on their own justification, as measures designed to maintain White Supremacy. He reiterated his opinion from McLaughlin v. Florida that "it is simply not possible for a state law to be valid under our Constitution which makes the criminality of an act depend upon the race of the actor. District Court in United States v. Virginia, the number of interracial marriages continued to increase across the United States [39] and in the South. In Georgia, for instance, the number of interracial marriages increased from 21 in to in Virginia was discussed in the context of the public debate about same-sex marriage in the United States. Walker cited Loving v. My generation was bitterly divided over something that should have been so clear and right. But I have lived long enough now to see big changes. I believe all Americans, no matter their race, no matter their sex, no matter their sexual orientation, should have that same freedom to marry. I support the freedom to marry for all. Courts of Appeals considered the constitutionality of state bans on same-sex marriage. In doing so they interpreted or used the Loving ruling differently: Redhail [52] and Turner v. Safley [53] to demonstrate that the U. Using that standard, both courts struck down state bans on same-sex marriage. Instead of "fundamental rights" analysis, they reviewed bans on same-sex marriage as discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation. The former cited Loving to demonstrate that the Supreme Court did not accept tradition as a justification for limiting access to marriage. Windsor on the question of federalism: Hodges, which decided the issue, the Supreme Court invoked Loving, among other cases, as precedent for its holding that states are required to allow same-sex marriages under both the Equal Protection Clause and the Due Process Clause of the Constitution. During oral argument, the eventual author of the majority opinion, Justice Anthony Kennedy, noted that the ruling holding racial segregation unconstitutional and the ruling holding bans on interracial marriage unconstitutional Brown v. Board of Education in and Loving v. Virginia in, respectively, were made about 13 years apart, much like the ruling holding bans on same-sex sexual activity unconstitutional and the eventual ruling holding bans on same-sex marriage unconstitutional Lawrence v. Texas in and Obergefell v. Hodges in, respectively. The only part of it right was I had three children. Negga received an Academy Award nomination for her performance. A four-part film, The Loving Generation, premiered on Topic. Directed and produced by Lacey Schwartz and Mehret Mandefro, it explores the lives of biracial children born after the Loving decision.
