The main protagonist and middle daughter of the Robinson family. Flone is free-spirited and willing to do almost anything. She always speaks her mind, and enjoys doing new things. The story is usually told from her point of view. Her family celebrate her 11th birthday on the island on September Franz Robinson Fritz in the American English dub: The oldest of Flone and her brothers, being fifteen and in high school. He longs to be a music composer, and sets out to accomplish that dream. Because of these facts, Fritz is anything but athletic, spending all of his time after school, in his room, playing his flute and guitar or writing music. Fritz appears to have few, if any friends, at the start of the series. He becomes a more outgoing person, after he meets Emily on the ship and falls in love with her. On his birthday, Fritz and his siblings catch an ostrich, with help from Tom-Tom. He is voiced by R. Ernest Robinson is the year-old father of Flone and head of the Robinson family. He decides to take his family to Australia after receiving a letter, leaving behind the home of his father, grandfather, and great-grandfather. He is voiced by Jeremy Platt in the English dub and by Katsuhiko Kobayashi in the first part of the series and later by Osamu Kobayashi in Japanese in the second part of the series. She is the typical housewife, tending to the home and children, as well as frowning upon the carefree ways of her free-spirited daughter, Flone, as well as the smoking habit of Captain Morton. Her family celebrate her 37th birthday on the island. Unlike his mother, he seems to take after Flone and not be afraid of anything. He always gets into trouble some way and loves to collect things from seashells to small animals and reptiles. He is 3 years old and has a feminine voice. A Saint Bernard who once belong to a Captain of the Ship which drowned in the Typhoon which shipwrecked the Robinsons that becomes the family pet and Guard Dog. Jack was afraid of him at first because of how big he was, but Jack eventually became good friends with him. A bear cuscus or phalanger a type of marsupial native to the Australasian ecozone that becomes a family pet. Becca Flone and Jack spend lots of time playing with her. She is also friends with Brewster. A donkey who survived the shipwreck and became a useful member of the Robinsons and a Pack Animal for carrying wood and sugar cane to the Robinsons compound. Donkey later died of stress related issues and possible old age after helping the Robinsons, Captain Morton and Tam Tam hauling the Catamaran into the ocean. A mother and baby goat that the family found on the island, named after Eric Bates, a man who stranded several years before the events of the series and died there. His skeleton and diary were later discovered by the Robinsons. A grumpy, hard-drinking, cigar-smoking Sea Captain who the Robinsons discover living in a cave. Anna disapproves of his smoking habit and dislikes him strongly at first, especially after he tries to get Jack to smoke a cigar, but gradually warms to him. A young woman who becomes friends with the Robinsons before being separated during the Typhoon. She is voiced by Kaoru Kurosu in Japanese. A friend of Dr. Ernest Robinson who lives in Australia. Voiced by Richard Epcar in the English dub.

History[ edit ] Written by Swiss pastor Johann David Wyss , edited by his son Johann Rudolf Wyss and illustrated by another son, Johann Emmanuel Wyss, the novel was intended to teach his four sons about family values, good husbandry, the uses of the natural world and self-reliance. This resembles other educational books for young ones published about the same time. Over the years there have been many versions of the story with episodes added, changed, or deleted. Perhaps the best-known English version is by William H. Kingston , first published in Davenport Adams ' and Mrs H. The German title translates as The Swiss Robinson which identifies the novel as part of the Robinsonade genre, rather than a story about a family named Robinson. The Map of "New Switzerland" This article needs an improved plot summary. January The novel opens with the family in the hold of a sailing ship, weathering a great storm. As the ship tosses about, the father ' William ' prays that God will spare them. The ship survives the night and the family finds themselves within sight of a tropical desert island. The next morning, they decide to get to the island they can see beyond the reef. With much effort, they construct a vessel out of tubs. After they fill the tubs with food and ammunition and all other articles of value they can safely carry, they row toward the island. Two dogs from the ship named Turk and Juno swim beside them. Upon reaching the island, the family set up a makeshift camp. The father knows that they must prepare for a long time on the island and his thoughts are as much on provisions for the future as for their immediate wants. William and his oldest son Fritz spend the next day exploring the island. The family spends the next few days securing themselves against hunger. William and Fritz make several trips to the ship in their efforts to bring ashore everything useful from the vessel. The domesticated animals on the ship are towed back to the island. Initially they construct a treehouse, but as time passes and after Elizabeth is injured climbing the stairs down from it , they settle in a more permanent dwelling in part of a cave. Fritz rescues a young Englishwoman Jenny Montrose shipwrecked elsewhere on their island. The book covers more than ten years. The father and older boys explore various environments and develop homes and gardens in various sites about the island. At the end, the father wonders if they will ever again see the rest of humanity. Eventually a British ship that is in search of Jenny Montrose anchors near the island and is discovered by the family. The captain is given the journal containing the story of their life on the island which is eventually published. Several members of the family choose to continue to live tranquilly on their island while several of them return to Europe with the British. Characters[ edit ] William ' The father. He is the narrator of the story and leads the family. He knows an enormous amount of information on almost everything the family comes across, demonstrating bravery and self-reliance. Elizabeth ' The mother. She is intelligent and resourceful, arming herself even before leaving the ship with a "magic bag" filled with supplies, including sewing materials and seeds for food crops. She is also a remarkably versatile cook, taking on anything from porcupine soup to roast penguin. Fritz ' The oldest of the four boys, he is Fritz is intelligent but impetuous. He is the strongest and accompanies his father on many quests. Ernest ' The second oldest of the boys, he is Ernest is the most intelligent, but a less physically active boy, often described by his father as "indolent". Like Fritz however, he comes to be an excellent shot. Jack ' The third oldest of the boys, 11 years old. He is thoughtless, bold, vivacious, and the quickest of the group. Franz sometimes translated as Francis ' The youngest of the boys, he is 8 years old when the story opens. He usually stays home with his mother. She is shy but is soon adopted into the family. Not a character in the original German, Emily was invented by Isabelle de Montolieu. Nip also called Knips or Nips in some editions ' An orphan monkey adopted by the family after their dogs Turk and Juno have killed his mother. The family use him to test for poisonous fruits. Fangs ' A jackal that was tamed by the family. Book sequels Willis the Pilot: Return to Robinson Island , by T. Hoisington , based on the original Swiss Family Robinson novel.
