Syracuse University Press, These lives intertwine in surprising ways as the summer blooms, becoming a season of crises both actual and averted, and of rewarding human connection. Former Secret Service agents Sean King and Michelle Maxwell have reached a crisis in their relationship in this less than compelling Washington political thriller from bestseller Baldacci. When Maxwell instigates a fight with the most intimidating bruiser she could find at a local bar and lets herself be beaten unconscious, despite her superior fighting skills, her partner suggests she voluntarily commit herself to a psychiatric facility. Set in the time of World War II, readers are introduced to the Heaney sisters, the eldest of six children of Irish parents. When a new highway threatens to bypass the town of Rossmore and cut through Whitethorn Woods, everyone has an opinion about whether the town will benefit or suffer. Father Flynn is most concerned with the fate of St. Not knowing which faction to favor, he listens to all those caught up in the conflict, and these are the voices we hear in the stories of Whitethorn Woods—men and women deciding between the traditions of the past and the promises of the future. Governor Rubin wants Joe to investigate a case in which an attorney has been accused of murdering four campers in Yellowstone National Park. With the promise of being reinstated as game warden, Joe and his partner, Nate Romanowski, set off for the beauty and danger of Yellowstone and find something even more dangerous. Brown takes the subject of his latest from current headlines: The author presents his Iranian characters as more than cardboard villains, showing the influence of Islamic culture on their motivations. Of course, Brown also provides plenty of fast action and exotic hardware, like the XR-A9 space plane, plus such touches as a U. New American Library, Harry Dresden is the best at what he does. So when the Chicago P. Takes a wizard to catch a well, whatever. Then Cajeri disappears and a troublesome Eastern lord is suspected of kidnapping him. Murini may also be involved. Twenty years ago, four teenagers at summer camp walked into the woods at night. Two were found murdered, and the others were never seen again. Four families had their lives changed forever. Now, two decades later, they are about to change again. For county prosecutor Paul Copeland, mourning the loss of his sister has only recently begun to subside. Balancing family life and a rapidly ascending career distracts him from his past traumas, but only for so long. When a homicide victim is found with evidence linking him to Cope, the well-buried family secrets are threatened. Is this victim one of the campers who disappeared with his sister? Could his sister be alive? Cope has to confront so much he left behind that summer—he must decide what is better left hidden in the dark and what truths can be brought to the light. The story centers around the idea that radioactive cesium stolen from a doctor might lead to terrorism. Under the stone paw: Distributed to the trade by Consortium, Crowley, a master prose stylist, explores transformations physical, magical, alchemical, and personal in this epic, distinctly American novel where the past, present, and future reflect each other. While trying to settle a personal vendetta in London and having affairs with three different women, African-American hitman Gideon worries that he may be the target of another contract killer who is seeking revenge for the death of the famous rapper Big Bad Wolf. Expatriate American Ethan Gage wins an ancient and mysterious medallion in a card game that may hold the secrets of the pyramids, but must flee for his life when he is framed for a murder and forced to accompany Napoleon Bonaparte on his quest to conquer Egypt. Feminist scholar and television pundit Ailsa Kelman and marine biologist Humphrey Clark, once childhood friends who have not seen each other since a brief, disastrous marriage in the s, head back to the scene of their happy youth to attend an awards ceremony and find they have unresolved feelings for each other. The cruel stars of the night. Laura Hindersten, 35, has reported her father, a local professor, missing. Police Inspector Ann Lindell investigates only to find the body of another man. She soon realizes that a deranged killer may be closer than she thinks. A chance meeting with a handsome surfer leads to a night of drug-infused sex. Former Los Angeles detective Nicholas Martin begins to investigate the deaths of his ex-girlfriend and her child and husband and uncovers a secret organization established in the sixteenth century that is involved with weapons of mass destruction, assassinations of world leaders, and genocide. Severn House Paperbacks, Eleanor, a successful painter, has relocated to New Mexico to escape a crumbling marriage. As their past lives fold into their present they fall in love. From Kirkus Reviews, edited. The book of air and shadows. Your child will need to make a circle for the head, an oval for the body and six or seven smaller ovals for the feathers. Point to the shapes as she draws, and have her name them. Cut the shapes out. Set up the Science Exploration Tear or cut the tissue into quarter-sized pieces. Your child can make them into geometric shapes or more free-formed organic versions. Have your child arrange the tissue on the card stock shapes. Ask your child to predict what will happen when she drops a few drips of water onto the colorful tissue. Will the water just sit on top of the paper? Will it soak through? Gently lift the paper to reveal that the color has come off of the tissue and moved onto the card stock. Ask your child what she thinks is going on here. Continue adding water to all of the tissue. You can soak a paper towel with water and have your child blot the tissue with it. Let the wet tissue sit for at least 30 minutes. Peel the tissue off of the paper. If some of it sticks, leave it on to add texture. As you take off the tissue, save it for later use. Ask your child if the tissue is as bright or the same color as it was when you first started the activity. She can tell you where she thinks the color went and why there is suddenly color on the formerly white paper. Glue the shapes in place. Draw on eyes or glue on two googly eyes. Use the leftover, faded tissue to make a triangular beak. More Adventures in Learning.
