He caught a Pikachu that became his main Pokemon. This led him to a long journey all across Kanto, crossing paths with Blue and Green along the way. During his journey, he became entangled in many plots by the nefarious Team Rocket , effectively foiling them each time. He was later rescued by who he believed to be Giovanni, and defeated the Elite Four alongside his allies. After his team lost to them, Mewtwo appeared to help them. The team then managed to defeat Giovanni and Deoxys and other companions once and for all, but, along with the rest of his team, was turned into stone doing so. Gold joined the rescue team to save his seniors and his rival, Silver. He and his companions were eventually freed from their petrified forms in the Emerald saga. Though his Venusaur is now capable of Mega Evolution, they were defeated after Groudon becomes Primal Groudon, but were saved thanks to Giovanni who took them on his airship. While Red was frozen by the Elite Four, his Pika had to team up with Yellow, and while Red left for the hot springs, he also asked Yellow to take care of Pika. Starting out quite cocky and aloof, Blue grows more down-to-earth and sociable as the series progresses. He is the rival of Red , though the ferocity of their rivalry has toned down as the series progresses. He later encounters Red again in Viridian Forest, when he begins to reconsider his view of Red when he helps heal the wounded young of a Kangaskhan he has been trying to capture. The two rivals work together again, this time with Blue , when Professor Oak is kidnapped by Team Rocket, narrowly defeating Koga again as well as the captured Articuno , Zapdos and Moltres. Although he loses the battle, he considers Red to be a true friend and important companion. Teaming up with his allies, as well as his former enemy Koga, Blue helped defeat the Elite Four. He and the other Gym Leaders were tricked into boarding the Magnet Train while it was rigged to crash, but were narrowly rescued by Red. He was eventually released in the Emerald saga. He was voted as the eighth most popular character in the series in Japan She makes her debut in Volume 2, by trying to sell fake items to Red after flirting with him. As the series progressed, however, she decides to team up with the other Pallet Town trainers, Red and Blue, in order to defeat Sabrina of Team Rocket. In the Yellow Saga, set two years later, Green was a sort of "shadow" trainer, trailing Yellow. She was the one who sent Yellow on a mission to find Red, and disguised herself as a boy. Because of this she shares a close bond with Silver and frequently treats him like a younger brother. She later helped out in the final battle against the Mask of Ice by using the three legendary birds with Red and Blue, and overcame her bird phobia whilst protecting Silver. In the FireRed and LeafGreen saga, Green appears going to the Sevii Islands to meet her parents, ending her journey to locate them after escaping from Neo Team Rocket during her childhood. When she awakes, not fully recovered, she and Blue discover that Red was defeated by Deoxys, and rushes to his side after he runs away to recollect himself. In the end of this saga, they manage to stop Deoxys and disband the newly revived Team Rocket, however, she is turned to stone in the process. However, she was still petrified. It was only at the near end of the chapter that she escapes from the stone. Red and Green were then defeated when the two villains perform the "Primal Reversion" on Kyogre and Groudon, overpowering them and knocking them out. They were later revealed to have survived thanks to Giovanni who took them on his airship. Green originally had a Horsea, but returned it to its rightful trainer. She was voted as the ninth most popular character in the series in Japan There have also been hints throughout the manga that shows that she has a crush on Red. She first appeared in the final volume of the first arc, though her name is not revealed until the Yellow saga. Having lost her way in the Viridian Forest, Yellow was attacked by a wild Dratini. Later, Yellow found Red seriously injured following his battle with Giovanni , and healed him. It is revealed that every few years, a baby of Viridian Forest is blessed with these powers. Her true gender is revealed only at the end of Volume 6, but she puts off informing Red of it. It is revealed that Yellow was the one who woke up the 3 legendary beasts - Suicune , Raikou , and Entei - from within the Burned Tower in Ecruteak. The two of them work together briefly, until they are separated by Lugia at sea. After the attack, Yellow and her uncle washed up on shore, where they were brought to the daycare center run by an elderly couple. In truth, the two feathers on her hat were the Silver Wing from Lugia and the Rainbow Wing from Ho-Oh, the keys to traveling in time, stolen from the Mask of Ice many years ago and planted there by Blue. As the Mask of Ice captured Celebi and traveled back in time, they found that Gold was trapped within time and needed the feathers to be freed. Gold and Yellow finally realize that the Wings are on her hat, and she is forced to take it off in front of Red in order to save Gold. While there, she met Silver, who believed that he may have originally come from this area and had ties to the Viridian Gym before he was kidnapped by Mask of Ice, and is now looking for his family. With her aid and the sudden arrival of the Team Rocket operatives Orm and Sird whom the two promptly face in a battle, Silver learned that he was the son of Giovanni, former Viridian City Gym leader and head of Team Rocket. After he was kidnapped by the evil duo, Yellow gave chase on her Butterfree, and soon managed to break into the Team Rocket helicopter to rescue him. Sird strongly believed that if the two had engaged into battle with her, they would have lost. She later reunited with Red, Blue and Green, and helped permanently disband Team Rocket in the Sevii Islands, but got turned to stone while doing so. She was released from stone in the Emerald Arc. Yellow was voted as the fourth most popular character in the series in Japan. He usually wears a pair of goggles and travels on a scooter. Professor Oak noted that while Red had some odd habits, Gold is much more immature and mischievous. When he first met Bugsy, he mistook him for a female and asked him out for tea. When he first met Crystal he did not get along with her. Calling her prissy and picky and when Crystal took the burnt food that he gave to her, he said that the blackness of the food matches her personality, and also attempts to comment on her outfit always interrupted by her. At the end of the saga he flirted with Yellow, not knowing that she was a year older, until Crystal told him information about Yellow. Along with the new protagonists, his rival Silver, and Crystal, they fight with Red and his friends against the Mask of Ice, and in the end, manage to cure Pryce the true identity of the Mask of Ice of his sadness with the help of Celebi. He even sacrifices himself without hesitating to stop Pryce, then being saved by Celebi. After Red, Blue, Green, Yellow, and Silver are petrified into stone by the after-effects of the energy blast caused by Deoxys, Gold and Crystal re-appear in the Battle Frontier saga, where the new protagonists Emerald, Ruby, and Sapphire are battling against Guile Hideout, in hopes of achieving a goal that the current main characters are clueless about; reviving their old companions, who are statues trapped at the end of the top room of the Battle Tower. Ultimately he bears the responsibility of calming Arceus down. He was voted as the second most popular character in the series in Japan. Silver was kidnapped by the Mask of Ice as a child, and grew up alongside Green. As the years went by, however, the two children escaped and began their lives anew. In the end of the saga, he reunites with Green and helps in defeating the Mask of Ice and disbanding his organization, Neo Team Rocket. Silver makes his reappearance in the FireRed and LeafGreen arc as he is searching for clues to find his family. Silver refused to believe this, until Giovanni risked his life to save him. This caused Silver to accept Giovanni as his father, and decide to help him find redemption. In the end of the saga, he is turned to stone by one of the teammate of Team Rocket who survived from the battle along with the rest of his team while trying to disband Team Rocket. He, like the others, is released in the Emerald Arc. He was voted as the seventh most popular character in the series in Japan. As a child, she fell after getting startled by an Arcanine, and broke both of her arms. Later on in the series, she dispatches Emerald to the Battle Frontier to find and capture Jirachi. Crys is usually gentle and amiable, but also has a serious and perhaps intimidating side when it comes to work. She was voted as the twelfth most popular character in the series in Japan. Ruby began the series as a vain and condescending young man who did have a good heart deep down inside. This was initially true, but Norman had decided to let Ruby become a Coordinator at this point. After running away, he met Sapphire, the daughter of Professor Birch. They made a bet with each other: He lends Rara to Wally, but due to an earthquake which separates them, he did not get her back until much later on. In Volume 22, it is revealed that Ruby also owned a Celebi that he came across in Johto. However, when he injured himself while protecting a girl from a Salamence, the girl became frightened and cried. Ruby assumed at the time that the reason the girl was scared was because he fought too fiercely and too wildly. It is revealed in Volume 21 that Ruby likes Sapphire and she was the girl who Ruby had rescued, though neither of them recognized the other when they met at the beginning of the arc. Ruby realizes her identity when she reminisces the event, and reveals his identity to her by showing her a scar on his forehead, which he sustained while holding off a wild Salamence. She returns in the Omega Ruby and Alpha Sapphire arc, as a main character. The daughter of Professor Birch, Sapphire is a rude, wild tomboy, with absolutely no manners, who would usually wear clothing made out of leaves. She eventually encountered Ruby, the son of Petalburg Gym Leader Norman, who was in the process of running away from his new home in Littleroot Town. While saving Ruby from two Mightyena, Sapphire injured herself. In gratitude for saving him, Ruby tended to her wounds and made an outfit for her. In Volume 19, it is shown that the reason why Sapphire chose to wear the clothes he made for her was because he wrote, in a letter enclosed with the clothes, that the clothes would definitely fit her. Sapphire gets her third outfit change at the end of Volume 19. Once again, Ruby makes the clothes for her, and told her personally that the new clothes would fit her. She became very upset when Ruby declared that he would rather go back to Johto than stand beside the Gym Leaders as they prepare to face Team Aqua and Team Magma in Volume 20. She persuaded Winona to battle her later, and the Gym Leader was so impressed by her fighting spirit and her will to defend Hoenn that she gave Sapphire the Feather Badge. In Volume 21, Sapphire was revealed to have a crush on Ruby, though it had been hinted on several occasions before that. In the Emerald arc, however, Ruby claims to have forgotten the events during the Groudon and Kyogre affair including their confession of their feelings for each other due to the time void while leaving Mirage Island; whether or not this is true, however, has yet to be proven. Ruby protected Sapphire, leading her to believe that she should stand up for herself more.

Contents [show] Appearance Koga is identical in physical appearance to his game counterpart. However, after their conflict, Koga returns once more to face off against the Elite Four member Agatha, teaming up with his nemesis, Blue to defeat her, and displays more admirable characteristics such as bravery and concern for others. Biography Giovanni placed Lt. Surge, Sabrina and Koga as his three subordinates, who trained the grunts, [1] while Giovanni was inspiring them with speeches. He stated one day she would also serve Giovanni. Misty spoke up, demanding to know if Team Rocket did that to her Gyarados. Misty was provoked, and attacked Rhydon with her Staryu. Staryu used a water-type attack, which Rhydon redirected away with Horn Drill. This threw Misty back into the wall, causing her to hit her head and collapse unconscious. Rhydon stomped on Pikachu and used Horn Drill to make boulders fall on Red. Instead, Pikachu, who electrocuted Rhydon, flew off and caused a boulder to fall down, nearly crushing Team Rocket. Koga took his hat off, frustrated that his enemies had escaped, as the boulder sealed off a passage. Misty claimed Koga and the grunts may not have been the best forces Team Rocket had to offer, and proposed some training with Red. Eventually, Red brought Blue back to his senses by defeating Gastly, and they climbed the tower. Suddenly, the two were attacked, and Blue had Golduck rescue them. Koga appeared, which made Red realize that was the guy he encountered at Mt. Koga had an Arbok pursue them both, and even had it use Acid on Charmeleon. Charmeleon survived, as the Acid actually hit a dead Psyduck, and Charmeleon hit Arbok, slicing it in two pieces. Koga, flying with a Golbat, was furious that his plans were interrupted. He swore he would not forget what the boys did there. Surge and Koga captured Professor Oak. They wanted him to work on Mewtwo project, but Oak refused to do so. He also humiliated Sabrina, who was unable to capture Blaine. However, Scyther actually attacked Grimer, who held Scyther, preventing it from attacking. With Blue immobilized, Koga showed how Red was also being attacked by Lt. Blue refused either of those choices, as his Scyther went to attack Koga. Koga noted how stubbornness lied in the family. However, Golbat immediately hit Poliwrath, and Koga had Grimer grasp Red as well, making him immobilized. Koga swore to finish Red off before he did with Blue. However, Blue stood up and had Pidgeot retaliate back. Koga was baffled, as Blue was supposed to be heavily injured from the Razor Wind attack. Blue explained he wore a pendant, which had reflective properties, and survived the attack. Instead, Koga presented Articuno, who used Blizzard on Blue. Koga swore to injure Red, and even thanked the latter; since his Gyarados was protecting Articuno, the latter sent waves of attack and became too exhausted and was captured quite easily on Seafoam Islands. He had Articuno use Ice Beam to attack, starting to freeze Red. Blue noted how Koga was controlling Articuno very easily, as Koga showed he had badges; with those, he and others could control the Legendary Birds very easily. Red and Blue had their Pikachu and Porygon attack Koga and defeat him. Surge, but new "guests" were coming: Since the Elite Four were destroying the lands they wanted to conquer, the trio proposed a temporary alliance. Sabrina gave all of them Spoons of Destiny, to team up two people to fight the Elite Four. Koga was paired with Blue. With everyone ready, Koga went with Blue deeper into the caves. Before they continued on, Blue returned Koga his Golbat back. Koga noticed a figure and threw his shuriken, but the figure moved away and sent Arbok. Blue noted their enemy was Agatha. Agatha taunted them that they were too young to stop her, as her Arbok used Rock Slide, making stalactites fall down. Agatha had her Arbok change the pattern on its body, which increased its speed. With a snap of the finger, Agatha had Arbok wrap Koga and change its patten, dealing even more damage to him and his Arbok. However, Arbok changed its pattern, resisting the attacks, then defeated Muk and Weezing. Her Arbok tried to use Poison Sting, but Koga evaded its attack. Koga also started to feel weaker than usual. They turned around and saw Gengar was draining their energy, and was hiding in their shadows. Koga was lying down, as Blue dealt with Gengar. Koga read the message in the sky, sent by Starmie, that the forces of the Elite Four were trying to obtain badges to extract the energy for their plans. Agatha, however, waved her cane, causing spikes to fall on Koga, who protected himself with his Muk and vanished. The Association spoke of the problem, seeing they had to be careful about which candidate should be for his Gym. Surge faced his former subordinates, Ken, Harry and Al. Since they did not respond, Lt. Surge made them remember how they served Giovanni, alongside Koga and Sabrina, too. However, Bruno had his Tyrogue smash a rock, as they both exclaimed they were here to help them. Both of them helped dig through the caverns.

When he was asked to join, he politely refused, which was then met with him being attacked by rest of the Froakie. This made him distant towards others despite doing well. He followed the group to a nearby park, where he watched the trio talking from a tree. He then used the sticky bubbles on his back, called Frubbles, to hit Wobuffet, and helped Ash defeat Team Rocket. This then allowed Pikachu to destroy the machine controlling Garchomp with Iron Tail. Fletchling easily evaded every attack and almost knocked Froakie out with a devastating Razor Wind, but Ash pushed him away to save him. They lured Fletchling to an area with many rocks at many levels, which allowed Froakie to move freely and be on even grounds with the flying-type. Fletchling then got a solid hit on a hidden Froakie, which was actually a fake made of Frubbles. Froakie then finally landed a hit with his newly learned Bubble, and Ash attempted to capture it, but failed. Froakie landed in a river before he was found by Pikachu, then they find Chespin but before they go looking for Fennekin, they see Meowth on a tree branch hanging, due to being thrown by a wild Pangoro when he landed on its face. When everyone finds Fennekin at a river trying to clean her tail, Froakie helped her by using his Frubbles to clean it up, in return he gets praised by her and blushes out of being flattered. They reunite with their trainers, after they were attacked by the same wild Pangoro that threw Meowth on the tree, to which Chespin retaliates by firing his Pin Missile at it causing its bamboo to burn up. Froakie helped Ash get a new bamboo for the Pangoro when Team Rocket shows up to cause trouble once again. He was then seen hanging at the kindergarten school. When Sylveon tried to be nice he turned away due to losing to her with Ash trying to cheer him up. Team Rocket shows up as entertainers, to which Froakie stays out off before Team Rocket reveal themselves and catch Pikachu and Sylveon. Froakie later got into a squabble with Hawlucha and began fighting against each other. When Froakie and Hawlucha attempted to save their trainer, they learned that the reason why Trevenant kidnapped Ash was because it needed his help in saving its companions, a Bonsly and a Sudowoodo, who were caught in an electric net set up by Team Rocket. After Pikachu freed the two Rock -types and got caught by his enemies, Froakie and Hawlucha worked together using their combination moves against both Inkay and Pumpkaboo.
