He reports taking a Red Green Carpet moth today and these two common Spring species this week. Its not difficult to see why either of these two moths have their names. The first is a White Shouldered House Moth He noticed it was still there on his return journey, so stopped and picked it up putting it in a plastic sack. Jim spoke with the Vincent Wildlife Trust who took the animal away to do various tests which might help to shed information on this very secretive species which is seldom seen, but of which there are plenty, in the Teme Valley. Jim also spotted a Red Kite over Ludlow town today. No visible wing tags. The meadow is also covered in ant hills and there were 3 Green Woodpecker feeding on them. Yesterday his dogs put up a pair of Woodcock in the woods. This afternoon he also saw a Red Kite being harassed by a corvid over Nash church and reports hearing his first Blackcap of the season in full song in the garden today. It is an interesting moth in that it becomes more scarce nationally as you move south and west. The larvae of this moth are cannibalistic towards each other with the host plant being Oak. It appears to have tagged wings, yellow and black. We cant see the number, but wonder if its the Wigmore bird One over at Ashbed Woods. The second over his garden at Boraston this afternoon. Geoff also reports seeing 5 Meadow Pipits and a Goosander. Same Bird as Geoff? She has also seen her first Tortoiseshell Butterfly on a Primrose. On the Highwood, Ken Willetts light trap is now starting to produce a few Spring moth species. These two are very common at this time of year and can often be found in the evenings, nectaring on Sallow flowers. He had his first moth of the year. A single Dotted Border!.

A museum in Tenbury Wells will tell quite a bit about this lovely rural area, the town, old trades, and of the lives and times of its people. The parish church is well worth seeing, it has a 12th century tower and Norman windows, but is mostly of 18th century re-build.
