They were Quakers who went to Nantucket Island during the Revolutionary War rather than compromise their principles. There they operated the first whaling ships that went to the northern latitudes in search of whales. Descendant Matthew Darling bought land from the Van Brunt family on the west side of Port Jefferson Harbor and with Sylvester Smith, also from Smithtown, established a shipyard there as early as 1780. Captain Darling began his career at sea on whaling ships and then ran coastal schooners to Nova Scotia. Captain Darling moved from Northport to Port Jefferson in 1790. His first wife was Sarah I. They had one daughter, Lilly Belle. They had six children; Charles S. Captain Darling retired from the sea in 1810 at the age of 40. On December 19, 1810, he died in his home at the age of 40. ### 3: Darling family tree and history

The musical Darling family descends upon Mayberry again. This time they are looking for a husband for Charlene's new baby daughter. Things get complicated when they choose Opie and refuse to take no for an answer.

Wow, that was fast! She has worked very hard, both in school and in rowing, and finally this year has had to drop rowing. While I know she was sad to stop rowing and being part of that team, she has taken up Ultimate Frisbee, a club sport at SDSU, and is loving it. Lots more fun, lots more time spent competing, and lots of new friends. All with the big bonus of less time required: Our family has gone to a couple of games and we have all enjoyed watching the good natured, rough and tumble play. When she is not in class, playing frisbee or hanging with her boyfriend, her free time is taken up with applying to Grad schools to try to get into a Speech and Language Pathology Masters program. There are far fewer Masters programs than undergrad programs, and you must have a Masters to get your license. I am guessing that taking a year off might sound a little tempting to her after 4 years of units a semester! Jamie had a great summer. Anyway, she loved it. She lived with other young women from all over the world. Some were there for a week, some for months. She lived in an apartment building and shared a room with 3 other girls. In the mornings Jamie took the local bus for a 45 min ride to get to a "school" that cared for severely mentally handicapped children. There she was an aide in a room of kids about years old. Due to the extreme language barrier, Jamie was pretty much on her own in figuring it out at the school, but at "home" she and her roommates all spent a lot of time together at night exploring the city. I know she came to love Xian and would really like to go back. The next month was spent teaching English to school kids in Inner Mongolia, truly in the middle of nowhere! This program was thru a university, and most of fellow teachers were from China. Great experiences and we are proud of her for pursuing this amazing study abroad experience. She wrote about the trip on this site: Some of her fellow teachers. One of her classes in Inner Mongolia Exploring the Gobi dessert. The "Gnomes", her Ultimate Frisbee team. The next few years will be very exciting and full of major changes for our second daughter, and I know she will rise to the challenges with her typical good humor and hard work.

Eleven Generations of our Darling Family are listed below with the exception of any living persons. In some cases names of those listed may have been shortened, altered or removed completely from this list.

The good-natured, but trouble-making Appalachian clan, led by patriarch Briscoe Darling played by Denver Pyle usually came into town when they had some sort of problem that Sheriff Andy Taylor had to resolve. Briscoe was the widowed father of five grown children four sons and one daughter who all lived together, and each had a different musical talent. All together, the members of the family formed a bluegrass band. They had their own set of values and rules and had little concern for matters that went on outside of their family. Due to their secluded lifestyle, their lack of social grace, and their superstitious belief in mountain lore , they were perceived by the people of Mayberry as being somewhat backward and ignorant. Their arrival in town usually meant trouble for Sheriff Taylor and Deputy Barney Fife , despite their friendly relationship with the family. Kinda hated to go that far. Darling family members[ edit ] Briscoe Darling Jr. He was also the leader of the family band, in which he played a ceramic jug. Charlene Darling later Mrs. She was also the original object of desire for Ernest T. She loved her husband, "Dud", but divorced him in a covert mountain ceremony, because he looked at another woman. In that ceremony, she was also betrothed to Sheriff Taylor in which Andy unknowingly took part. She occasionally sang when her father and brothers played music. They had an oafish appearance, but were very talented musicians. The names of the boys were somewhat contradictory from episode to episode: The original script of "Mountain Wedding" listed their names as Oether pronounced Othor , Jebbin, Ward, and Frankie although only Oether and Jebbin were ever used onscreen , but in a later episode, Andy refers to them as Mitch, Dean, Rodney, and Dougâ€”the real first names of the members of The Dillards. However, they are generally referred to simply as "the boys", collectively. They were characterized by their silent, emotionless presence, and by their instrumentation in the family band: When they played, one usually sang lead and the others provided harmonies, while their father played rhythm on the jug. In a running gag , Andy addresses them, and they return only a blank stare. Another time was when Charlene had a baby Andelina and Andy said, "You boys must be proud to be uncles. Briscoe answered "They all choked up. Mitch can be heard to say, "About to pop. Army , where he achieved the rank of private first class. He had been betrothed to Charlene since the age of five. Dud was originally portrayed by Hoke Howell as a well-mannered country boy. Episodes featuring the Darlings[ edit ] Season.

According to the old records the family was in England as early as the year and some of its members were anciently cup-bearers to the king. The American pioneers were of this English stock but the connection with English progenitors has not yet been established. Two branches of the family in England were armor-bearing. One had a grant as follows: Darling of London had the following: Wills are found, dating before, in the probate courts of Suffolk and Middlesex counties of Massachusetts. Pioneers of the Darling name were John of Salem, Mass. Some of these were undoubtedly connected but the relationship has not in every instance been certainly discovered. There were several other Darlings early in New England but their descendants have not been numerous. Nothing definite is known concerning the parentage of Hannah Francis, although it is held by some that she was a daughter of John and Eosa Francis who were in Braintree at that time. Cornelius Darling, born January 4, , died March 11, John Darling, born in July, A son, born June 18, , died June 19, Sarah Darling, born November 26, Cornelius Darling, born January 25, Hannah Darling, born April 14, He has a mass of information on hand, furnished by different members of the family residing in the United States and Europe, but there is still much to be secured before the interesting story can be told in its entirety, that the book may have the family record and history of every Darling, and descendant of a Darling. He asks that all members of the family shall send him their family history and record. He also asks for newspaper clippings referring to births, deaths and family gatherings which, if the sender wishes, will be returned after using. No trace has been found of the death of his wife Hannah. Ebenezer Darling, born January 8, Daniel Darling, born April 28, Elizabeth Darling, born July 2, Benjamin Darling, born February 11, He had one child by his first wife, one by his second wife, and eleven by his third wife. He died May 29, Nothing further is known of Sarah Darling, born November 26, Hannah Darling, born April 14, , is still unaccounted for. He died February 26, in Mendon, Mass. Elizabeth Darling, born July 2, , married in Mendon, Mass. He accumulated considerable property and was prominent in the locality. He lived on a farm of his own, consisting of a large tract of land situated in what is now the town of Blackstone, Mass. Thomas White, the father of Mehitable, was one of the early settlers and largest landowners of Milford, Mass. Mehitable White Darling must have died sometime after, and probably was buried in the Chestnut Hill cemetery where her husband was afterward buried. She was the mother of eleven children. Benjamin Darling by this marriage had one child, a daughter. His will was offered for probate May 22, He died, May 18, , in Mendon and was buried in the old cemetery at Chestnut Hill, in Blackstone. The tombstone which marks his grave has been broken and re-set, and only shows date of his death. There is a space for two graves, evidently of his two wives, between his grave and that of his son Thomas Darling. The date of the death of his first wife, Mehitable, and the date of both birth and death of his second wife, Susana, have not been obtained. Following is a record of the children of Benjamin Darling and his two wives, as found in the Mendon Vital Records: Mehitable Darling, born November 10, Benjamin Darling, born March 15, ; married in Smithfield, R. Joseph Darling, born April 14, ; married in Smithfield, R. Ebenezer Darling, born August 25, ; married in Smithfield, R. Abigail Darling, born March 15, ; married in Gloucester, Mass. Abbott of Andover, Mass. Later he paid a rent to the Duke of York government, recorded at Salem, for privileges; but so early as, probably, he was at a fishing station either on Monhegan or at Pemaquid. He was usually called a mariner and married Mary Bishop Barney, daughter of Richard and Dulcibella Bishop of Salem, after the death of her first husband, John Barney. In he was assisting Thomas Bishop 2, his brother-in-law, in the settlement of the Bishop estate. In Mary Bishop Barney Darling, often called Sister Dollen, had children baptized in Salem church, so they appear to have become of permanent residence there about that date, while John still held his rights on Monhegan. He seems to have purchased land in the neighborhood of Bristol, Maine, in "perhaps near Round pond, on Muscongus river. John Darling appears frequently in the records of his time. In we find a petition of John Dollen of Monhegan. He was a justice of the peace in Pemaquid. In Salem is recorded his renewed lease of land on Monhegan the same year, used for planting "where he now dwelleth with a house, warehouse and barn, orchard, etc. John Dollen, alias Darling, died before , when his son Thomas 2 brought in an inventory which however gave no clue to his estate. Thomas Darling 2 sold the farm in and left for Framingham, Mass. He married Sarah Buxton and his history is well recorded in Middlesex county, Mass. John Darling 2 was probably, by the best accounts, the son baptized by Sister Dolling in Salem, a babe in . He married Lois Gowling of Lynnfield in , lived in Westford, a carpenter in and in removed to Lunenburg, Mass. Concerning his whereabouts between and there is only speculation. The fate of Mary Darling 2 , who sold Bishop lots with the consent of her parents given her by the grandparents is not known. Hannah Darling 2 married Renold Kelly and lived on Monhegan. Abigail Darling 2 died single in , administration given to her brother Thomas. Martha Darling 2 probably married James Ross, and returned to Falmouth. Perhaps she also had a husband who was father of Richard Welch, called nephew by Hannah. The children of John Darling 2 belong to Lunenburg records. The line of John Darling 3 is found in New Hampshire. Joseph Darling we find a trace of in a witness to a deed, then he is lost.
