Rachel realizes she loves him too, and cancels her flight to Paris, agreeing to stay with him. The finale dialogue used in this series is by Chandler, making a joke for the last time. Littlefield wanted the group to share memorable periods of their lives with friends, who had become "new, surrogate family members. When Kauffman, Crane and Bright pitched Insomnia Cafe, Littlefield was impressed that they knew who their characters were. Crane argued that it was not a series for one generation, and wanted to produce a series that everyone would enjoy watching. The Pilot Friends The producers wanted Courteney Cox pictured to portray Rachel, and Jennifer Aniston as Monica; However, Cox and Aniston disagreed, so Cox was cast as Monica and Aniston as Rachel Once it became apparent that the series was a favored project at NBC, Littlefield reported that he was getting calls from every agent in town, wanting their client to be a part of the series. Those who received a callback read again in front of Crane, Kauffman and Bright. At the end of March, the number of potential actors had been reduced to three or four for each part, and were asked to read for Les Moonves , then-president of Warner Bros. Although Crane and Kauffman did not want LeBlanc for the role at the time, they were told by the network to cast him. The writers found that they had to adjust the characters they had written to suit the actors, and the discovery process of the characters occurred throughout the first season. The networks and studios are looking for young people coming in out of college. Crane and Kauffman were forced to comply and wrote a draft of an early episode that featured "Pat the Cop. Crane found the storyline to be terrible, and Kauffman joked, "You know the kids [sic] book, Pat the Bunny? We had Pat the Cop. Kauffman and Crane would not have signed on for an eleventh season, even if all the cast members had wanted to continue. Episode titles officially begin with "The One Studios in Burbank, California. Bright felt that filming outside the studio made episodes less funny, even when shooting on the lot outside, and that the live audience was an integral part of the series. The fifth-season finale, set in Las Vegas, was filmed at Warner Bros. Studios, although Bright met people who thought it was filmed on location. The Last One Friends The cast became very emotional while filming the final episode. They liked the ones that stayed true to the series, citing the finale of The Mary Tyler Moore Show as the gold standard. Crane, Kauffman, and Bright had difficulty writing the finale. They did not want to do "something high concept, or take the show out of the show. The main cast enjoyed the finale and were confident that the fans would react similarly: A one-hour retrospective of clips from previous episodes was shown before to the airing of the episode. Expressed opinions varied between a signalling of the end of the sitcom genre, a small decline in the large history of the genre, [64] and a general reduction of scripted television in favor of reality shows. Ultimately, the two-hour package did exactly what it was supposed to do. It wrapped up the story while reminding us why we liked the show and will miss it. The Unofficial Guide to Friends thought that the cast was "trying just a little too hard", in particular, Perry and Schwimmer.

Created by BenBlatt of Slate. All data scenes with dialogue was aggregated from scripts available at www.TheFriends.com. The Friends writers did a remarkable job of distributing screen time evenly among the six principal players. While Joey appears in In Seinfeld, by way of comparison, Jerry appears in But just because the characters have equal screen time, does this mean that all of the friends were equally friendly? Is there a pair or trio who spent more time together than the others? Is there a pair or trio or foursome who rarely rendezvoused at the Central Perk for a latte and a chat with Gunther? Advertisement To determine which characters shared scenes, I downloaded transcripts of all episodes from this remarkably comprehensive fan site. For the purposes of this inquiry, I treated these transcripts as authoritative, as watching all 10 seasons was impractical. Due to inconsistencies in the transcripts, which do not always list all of the characters present in a given scene, I used the following methodology: If a character spoke a line in a scene, I marked him or her as present. Admittedly, this is an imperfect approach, as even with this gregarious group, there were scenes in which a character was present but did not have a line. There are 63 possible arrangements in which the six characters could have appeared in any given scene. This includes all combinations of one, two, three, four, five, or six characters. For instance, Joey, Phoebe, Monica, and Chandler appeared together 41 times, more than any other foursome. This stands to reason: For a long stretch of the series, Joey and Chandler were roommates as well as friends, and it makes sense that the missing pair were the on-again-off-again lovers Ross and Rachel. Indeed, as you might expect, Ross and Rachel are the two friends most likely to have their own scenes together. There is only one scene in the entire history of Friends in which Joey, Phoebe, Monica, and Ross appeared together without either Rachel or Chandler. Other combinations of friends were much less common. Is there an outcast in the group? It depends on how you crunch the numbers. In addition to appearing in the fewest scenes, Phoebe also has the lowest degree centrality score a measure used to assess importance within a network. However, there were 58 scenes in which all of the friends except Ross were together. This is the most instances any one friend was left out; it exceeds the number of times just Phoebe was left out by more than 30 percent. Advertisement In terms of the most popular friend, again, different metrics may tell a different story. But a safe bet is Rachel. And which friends were the closest, based on scene counts? There were more scenes featuring all six friends than any other combination of the characters. The most common friend combinations with fewer than six friends present were Ross and Rachel, followed by Chandler and Monica. But those pairings also represent the two couples in the sitcom. If we throw out those more-than-friends combinations, Chandler and Joey are the winners, having appeared in scenes without any other friends, more than any other combination. Select any specific set of friends and the widget will tell you how many times each group appeared on screen together. Can you find a trio that appears four times as often if Chandler is added to make it a group of four? The most common third-wheel? The least common group of three? Post your answers and other Friends findings in the comments below. Correction, May 5, The interactive in this piece originally misstated there were two scenes in the series with just Joey, Phoebe, Monica, and Ross. There was only one such scene.

3: Phoebe gets prestigious 'baby-friendly' distinction

the friendly phoebe. January 9, March 1, Here's a gift for Phoebe from the best gift-giver ever, my Mom. Posted in: Kids Rooms, Vintage. Post navigation.

Her superhero name is ThunderGirl. Phoebe is portrayed by Kira Kosarin. Like the rest of her family, Phoebe has superpowers and is training to become a superhero. Like her twin brother Max, Phoebe tries to use her powers for good. Contents [show] Biography Phoebe is the oldest daughter of Barb and Hank Thunderman , born 20 seconds earlier than her twin brother, Max. Phoebe was born and raised in Metroburg when their parents were still active superheroes. In , the Thundermans moved to Hiddenville to live a normal life. At the school, Phoebe made her first friend, Cherry Seinfeld who is still her best friend. Phoebe was a perfect match for the group because she was already one of the smartest students. However, at the same time, she still struggled to fit in with the popular girls. One of the popular girls, Veronica , attacked her with spitballs during choir solo auditions. Any attempt to become friends with Winnie Lee ended up in humiliation until Phoebe stopped trying. By the junior year, she managed to become friends with one of the cheerleaders, Maddy and her friend Roxy. Since joining the school, Phoebe has been very involved in most school activities. She was the captain of the Math Bowl in Report Card. She tried for school choir in Pretty Little Choirs but Veronica attacked her with spitballs. Superhero Training Phoebe showed her desire to train and become a superhero and her dad offered to train her. In Thunder Van , she started training to join the Hero University but after she had Max messed up in the Thunder Van , she decided to take it slow. However, by Cape Fear , she realized that she needed to put more effort in training after her best friend from Metroburg got her Superhero Cape. Unfortunately, she ruined her chances when she sneaked to a rooftop party and used telekinesis to save someone from falling. Max blew up the chance for both of them to get the superhero cape. As a reward for saving Max, the Hero League awarded Phoebe a superhero cape. The Sequel , Phoebe officially started her training to become a superhero. The Hero League assigned her to become the protector of Hiddenville as part of her training. It was a tough choice for Phoebe but eventually, she chose to report Evilman even if that means breaking up with Link. She passed the test. So, she finally chose Thunder Man to be her mentor. President Kickbutt later revealed that they only wanted to erase the phone memory. So, President Kickbutt forced her and Max to go back to Secret Academy of Superpower Studies in order to take the test, or else Phoebe would not qualify to become a superhero. In Season 4 , she and Max will fight crime together, after he becomes good, in the special. She will also have to deal with the fame with all her friends after everyone found out about her being, Thundergirl. She also got nominated for a chance to join the legendary Z-Force, an elite team of superheroes. This got her distracted from training competition between her and Max. After the Thundermans are banished from Hiddenville by the Hero League , Phoebe and her brother risk everything to come back to Hiddenville and save the city. In the end, both she and Max are nominated for the potential spot on the Z-Force. Since getting the opportunity to join Z-Force came up, Phoebe has been training vigorously with her twin brother, Max, in order to qualify for the Z-Force slot. In Smells Like Team Spirit , she was worried that Max might mess up and ruin their chances of joining the Z-Force but eventually, the Thunder Twins learn to work together. In Max to the Future , she submitted her skills to Z-Force for the team, but Max wanted her to submit at least one of his skills: Unfortunately, this happened just before an important Z-Force interview which would advance the Thunder Twins to the final stage of the recruitment process. While Phoebe was on full body cast, she trained Cherry to pretend to be her for the interview and it worked. After that, Max tricks the Green Ghoul into thinking that he was going to destroy his father, which lead Miles to also possess Phoebe and get rid of the Green Ghoul. Phoebe returns to normal. Since the stink bomb is put inside a Thundertanium casing, it needs an electro-plasma blast to disable it. When Phoebe tries to return the superpowers to the orb, the powers fail to get back in. The powers instead turn Phoebe evil, making her eyes glow red. She tries to talk to Max about it but Max is still mad at her. Out of options, Phoebe goes to the Metroburg Superjail to ask Dark Mayhem how she could get rid of the evil powers but Dark Mayhem tells her to embrace the powers and complete his plans of taking over the world and get revenge on all superheroes. He tells her that she will find everything she needs at a cave at the bottom of the Weeping Volcano in Hawaii. Phoebe tells Dark Mayhem that she will never be as evil as him. She will be more evil. Her eyes glow as her hair develops red highlights, turning her fully evil. On returning home, Phoebe asks Chloe to secretly teleport her to Hawaii but when the family overhears Chloe, they decide to go to Hawaii for their vacation. During the vacation, Phoebe keeps the family destructed as she goes to the cave. After putting Billy in danger, she runs away and rents an ATV and goes to the cave. Max figures out that something is wrong with Phoebe and chases after her on an ATV. Max goes back to get Nora and Billy. Phoebe finds Destructo an android head. Max, Nora and Billy find Phoebe talking with Destructo. Nora accidentally shouts, exposing where she Max and Billy are hiding. She leaves the cave and destroys its entrance, making it impossible for her siblings to escape. Destructo complains that Phoebe sounds just like Dark Mayhem. She loves her new look. The next step is to lower the Malvexium into the boiling lava hidden beneath the cave. Phoebe is interrupted by Max and the rest of the family when they arrive at the lair. Now they have to watch her take over the world. After pouring Malvexium into the boiling lava, there are only 10 minutes before the volcano erupts. Max manages to get the pieces of the broken orb to function. Phoebe feels sorry for everything she did. Now he wants to complete the plan. Hank takes care of Destructo while Phoebe tries to stop the volcano from erupting. Phoebe, feeling guilty, asks Max to lower her down to the boiling lava so that she can use her freeze breath to freeze the lava. It works just the last minute. Phoebe thanks Max for standing by her side and trying to save her. Personality Phoebe Thunderman is very friendly, unless you catch her with her twin brother, Max. She is very smart and is willing to take the chance of living a double life as a normal student and a superhero. Also, being a superhero and living a regular life does not stop her either. She still works to accomplish everything she can. She exceeds her best friend, Cherry Seinfeld, and tries to do everything in an orderly fashion. Phoebe Thunderman may look like your average girl next door, but her superpowers will make you think the opposite! Phoebe is an intellectual. She loves math, and is a tad bit nerdy. Alternate Versions of Phoebe Throughout the series, there have been multiple alternate versions of Phoebe Thunderman. Clone Phoebe was a lot like the real Phoebe. She could talk and had the same sense of humor as the real Phoebe and was also smart until Max accidentally knocked her head with books. She turned dumb and the Thunder Twins had to spend the rest of the day trying to keep her under control. She talked with a valley girl accent. When Max first saw her, he thought it was the real Phoebe and screamed telling his parents that Phoebe had finally snapped. She took Max to the past and showed him how his plans to ruin Christmas always turned out to be good for the family. She was dressed up in a present costume and kept beating Max. She took Max to that Christmas morning to show him what would happen if he gave Nora a terrible gift. She dressed in dark clothes with a goth-girl persona. She hated everything and failed to find anything funny. She refused to "thunder bump" Max and told him they mind text in the future, after which she mind-texted him a bad word. She is the one who convinced Max that what he had done was really bad and made him change his mind. She refused to bring Max back to the present. Phoebe had turned into an evil villain who ruled Hiddenville High with an iron fist. Her hand had been caught and replaced with an iron fist. She enslaved students and teachers at the school. Max liked this Phoebe because she was embracing being evil.

Ensemble cast[edit] The main cast members were familiar to television viewers before their roles on Friends, but were not considered to be stars. All six actors appear in every episode. Rachel Green Rachel Karen Green Jennifer Aniston is the spoiled but warm-hearted and likeable daughter of a rich vascular surgeon and his wife. She eventually becomes a buyer at Polo Ralph Lauren. She decides to move in with Ross, even though the two are not involved in a relationship. Their daughter, Emma, is born during the eighth-season finale. During the tenth season, Rachel is offered a job with Louis Vuitton in Paris. She accepts and prepares to move herself and Emma to France. However, in the series finale , she declines the job offer and famously "gets off the plane". Rachel and Ross get back together in the final moments of the series. Monica Geller Monica E. Geller Courteney Cox is the younger sister of Ross and best friend of Rachel, the latter of whom she invites to live with her after Rachel forsakes her own wedding. She works primarily as a chef at a variety of restaurants. She is described as the mother hen of the group, [18] and is known for her obsessive-compulsive and competitive nature. Despite the twenty-one year age difference, Monica and Richard are happy, and her parents accept their relationship. However, as a result of Monica yearning for a family but Richard having already had one, they break up at the end of the second season. Monica and Chandler try to hide their relationship from the rest of the group for much of the fifth season, but eventually everyone finds out. After celebrating their first anniversary in Las Vegas , they move in together and get engaged by the sixth-season finale. After their marriage, Monica and Chandler try to conceive children, only to discover that they are unable to do so. In the final season of the series, they adopt two children, whom they name Erica and Jack. Phoebe Buffay Phoebe Buffay-Hannigan Lisa Kudrow is an odd, ditzy albeit sweet-natured masseuse who grew up homeless, sometimes telling her friends outlandish tales of life on the street. She is an aspiring musician who plays the guitar and sings songs with somewhat unusual lyrics at the coffee shop. She has an identical twin sister, Ursula also played by Kudrow , who is just as odd as Phoebe and appeared as a recurring character on Mad About You. After a series of dates and relationships with a number of men, Phoebe meets Mike Hannigan Paul Rudd in season nine, whom she eventually marries in season ten. She also became a surrogate mother for her half-brother Frank Jr. Giovanni Ribisi , giving birth to his triplets in the fifth season. Matt LeBlanc is a good-natured but not-so-bright struggling actor and food lover, who becomes mildly famous for his role as Dr. Drake Ramoray on a fictionalized version of Days of Our Lives. Prior to his role on Friends, LeBlanc appeared as a regular on the short-lived TV , a minor character in the sitcom Married Chandler Bing Chandler Muriel Bing Matthew Perry is an executive in statistical analysis and data reconfiguration for a large multi-national corporation. He later quits his job and becomes a junior copywriter at an advertising agency. Chandler is known for his sarcastic sense of humor. Chandler is often depicted as being somewhat of a hapless individual, suffering a lot of bad luck while struggling through life and occasionally struggling with an on-and-off smoking addiction. However, he eventually falls in deep mutual love with Monica and proposes to her at the close of season six, with the two of them marrying at the close of season seven. By the end of series, he and Monica adopt twins, whom they name Jack and Erica. Ross Eustace Geller, Ph. David Schwimmer is a paleontologist at a museum of prehistory, and later a professor of paleontology at New York University. The most intelligent of the six main characters, but at the same time a clumsy, quirky man, Ross is known for being a smart, know-it-all who prides himself on his rationality, despite his clear hopeless romanticism. He is shown to be the most caring of all the six members in the various instances on the show. He has three failed marriages during the series, and his relationship with Rachel is a main storyline throughout the series. In the series finale, Ross and Rachel finally reconcile, deciding to be together once and for all. The character of Ross was developed with David Schwimmer in the minds of writers and Schwimmer was also the first actor to be cast on the show. Schwimmer is the only cast member native to New York City. Jack is more balanced in his attention and care towards both Ross and Monica. Due to his gnawing guilt, Jack develops a secret smoking habit and decides to gift Monica the Porsche. Despite being favored throughout his entire childhood, this makes Ross insanely jealous. Their relationship hits a rough patch when he and Rachel consider getting back together. Rachel is invited to the wedding, but receives a cold reception for jilting Barry while she is there, and a ridiculous speech from Ross which bemuses everyone in the room does not exactly improve the situation for her, until she, in a desperate attempt to salvage some pride, walks onto the stage where the microphone is and starts singing. He has also been called "Barry White", and is possibly[original research? Barry is portrayed as a horrible, selfish little man who cheats, lies, and belittles other people. Getting both Rachel and Mindy to fall for him also suggests[original research? Carol dumped and divorced Ross to be with Susan. Susan does not attempt to hide her contempt of Ross and vice versa, but they briefly put aside their differences when Carol gives birth to a boy, whom they all agree, after weeks of argument, to name Ben. Though Ross and Carol are on good terms after their divorce, Ross continues to resent Susan for losing Carol to her. It was just an opportunity to tell a really interesting story. Jessica Hecht originally auditioned to play Monica. The manager of the Central Perk coffee house, who first appears as a background character in "The One with the Sonogram at the End". He is a former actor who once played Bryce on All My Children before that character was "killed in an avalanche. James Michael Tyler was cast as Gunther because he was the only extra who could competently work the cappuccino machine on the Central Perk set. The Seattle Times ranked Gunther as the eighth best guest character of the series in Marcel[edit] Marcel live animal actor: A Capuchin monkey that Ross initially keeps as a pet, [e 15] and who provides comic relief for his geeky master. One time Rachel loses him in the city, [e 16] and calls Animal Control" only to learn from Ross that Marcel is an illegal exotic animal that cannot be kept in the city. In a later season Ross questions why he had a monkey as a pet. Janice is one of the few characters besides the six main friends who appears in all of the Friends seasons. Their relationship lasts into the third season, when Janice decides to leave her husband to be with Chandler. Later, Joey sees Janice kissing her husband, who runs a mattress business. In a later episode, the tables are turned on the annoying natured Janice when she has a brief fling with Ross shortly after he has broken up with Emily, as he is unhappy and spends the entire date complaining about everything, causing her to find him insufferable and leave him Ross had expected the reverse to eventually happen, but had been happy to date someone who listened so well to him in the meantime. As Monica and Chandler make plans to have children, [e 29] she offers Chandler advice and support at a fertility clinic. Presumably due to being amused by their wacky, quirky, goofy personalities, Janice seems to enjoy spending time with the six friends, which is somewhat ironic and very much inconvenient for them since none of them can stand to be around her although she seems to be completely blind to the fact that they feel this way, showing almost no awareness whatsoever of the fact that they hate having to put up with her , due to the unbearably irritating nasal New York accent she speaks with, and her annoying machine gun laugh. Heckles[edit] Mr. He usually states that items are his, and when the other person states that he does not have one, Mr. Heckles says that he could have one. For instance, when Rachel and Phoebe are searching for the owner of a lost cat, Mr. Paolo[edit] Paolo Cosimo Fusco: Terry[edit] Terry Max Wright: Monica tries to wean him off drinking but regrets it when he becomes extremely boring. Monica then began drinking on their dates, so that she could sit through his mind-numbingly dull stories. Seven years later, he returns to New York for a brief visit and shares an evening with Phoebe. She first appears in "The One with Mrs. Bing", [e 43] where she meets the gang while on a book tour in New York. After dinner, she kisses Ross. Phoebe refers to Ursula as her " evil twin. Joey becomes attracted to Ursula and they start dating. Ursula tells Phoebe that she is bored with Joey and sarcastically claims that he is smart enough to figure this out on his own without her having to actually tell him implying his stupidity irritated her, hence her naturally nasty reaction , so Phoebe pretends to be her sister to let Joey down gently. Ursula next appears briefly in "The One with the Jam", [e 47] where she is being stalked by a man David Arquette who mistakes Phoebe for her. Phoebe naively begins a relationship with the man in question, but ends it with him when he cannot get over his obsession with Ursula. Phoebe is horrified that Ursula has told Eric that she is a teacher, a member of the Peace Corps , a non-smoker, and attends a church group all lies. The series finale of Mad About You , set 22 years into the future, reveals that after a successful porn career, Ursula becomes

Governor of New York. Mindy and Rachel were best friends while growing up and their friendship is tested after Rachel discovers Mindy and Barry are seeing each other. She asks Rachel to be her maid of honor and dress in a garish pink dress. Steve[edit] Steve Jon Lovitz: In , Monica tries to impress him in an attempt to get a job at his restaurant, and Phoebe tells him he is welcome to go to her apartment and try her food there, but he gets stoned on the journey there and consequently acts obnoxious. At the end of the episode, Phoebe punishes him by giving him a very painful massage. He is first mentioned in the second episode of the series, [e 8] but only appears twice: In "The One with the Flashback", [e 7] it is learned that he used to be "Cute Naked Guy", but then, in , started putting on weight. For many years, the identity of the actor that played him in his extremely limited appearances was a mystery. It was speculated that Michael G. Hagerty , the actor who played Mr.

This adult Eastern Phoebe seems to have no fear of humans. He/she even landed on the camera!

As you know by now hopefully , The Friendly Fig is accepting of all lifestyles. We understand that veganism or even vegetarianism may not be the choice diet for everyone. And by nudge, I mean just a nudge towards a healthier, happier lifestyle. First and foremost, I think we all know the biggie: Phoebe eating meat during her pregnancy. I know that this is a super controversial topic and I am not going to dabble in it much. I will just say that I believe you must do what is best for yourself and the health of your baby, first and foremost. If not, this may be one of those exceptions. She even opts for meat substitutes. The best part of this episode? The world is balanced again. Oh, Joey, you big sweetheart! While this may not pertain to a vegetarian diet, I did scream my head off cringe when Phoebe initially kept the fur coat. She repels it at first, but then sees herself in it. I have to say, this one did go up my ass sideways â€” sorry for that, but it did. But yeah, that one hurt. Of course, they make veal. Thank God, because his parents are a-holes. Thankfully, she got her revenge. What do we do in situations like this? No one should feel offended by your own personal decisions and beliefs. On the opposing side of things, Phoebe was also pretty hardcore at times. I meanâ€¦ singing songs about factory farms to kiddos? Leonard Green takes out Rachel and Phoebe. And speaking of the Greensâ€¦ oh, Rachel. Rachel and her trifle. Joey may have loved it, but everyone else was pretty turned off by that disaster. Fortunately for Phoebes, she had an excuse. Just remember that you are the one who calls the shots. You are in charge of your body and what you put into it. Do what feels right for you. Always do you, gf.

Subscribe to PEOPLE's newsletters so you never miss out on a must-read story.

There are not direct neighbors on either side of the cottage. Enjoy this newly renovated cottage with a comfortable kitchen, bath and living area. The screened in porch makes for a pleasant evening. The Phoebe is a comfortable family getaway. In addition, there are a couple of adirondack chairs to relax in as you roast your marshmallows over your private fire-pit. NettieBay is a great place to bring the family to enjoy your vacation. The communal outdoor fire pit, shared by all guests, is just the right spot for evening songs and storytelling. Lake Nettie is known as a wonderful fishing lake. Species of fish include: Enjoy swimming, kayaking, canoeing, boating on the bay. Also, you can take a nature hike through private acres and enjoy wildlife viewing. All available to you while staying with us in your lakeside cottage. There are miles and miles of trails to travel at NettieBay. In addition, you are able to drive the shoulder legally! Lots of bird watching here, deer of course, and small game pheasant, turkey, etc. Private beach area steps away. The layout is as follows: There is a bit of a sandy play area for the kiddos to enjoy by the main cabin common area! Full Sleeper Sofa Boats: Great fishing in both summer and winter months. You can purchase your fishing license online at http: Please bring your own Grill: You can use either wood or charcoal when you are cooking on the fire-pit grill. Charcoal can be bought from nearby store or on-site. If you prefer a more traditional charcoal grill, just ask, and one will be provided! There is wi-fi in which guests can access while sitting on the Lodge patio. Signals in cabins are spotty depending on your provider. There is an 8ft. If you plan on "working" while on vacation, I would not recommend this property as the signal is temperamental! Yes, we provide your sheets and linens. Just like a hotel, the beds will be made for you upon arrival. We have just the basic sheets, pillows, pillow cases and bath towels. The Lodge is off limits to guests. However, guests can rent it out. There is plenty of space for trucks and trailers! Yes, we do accept dogs, yet we do ask that you please clean up after them both inside and outside the cabin. Plus, if the pet hair starts to build, we do ask that you please run the vacuum. Generally, dogs love the water and places to explore. Pet food does tend to attract mice, so vigilance is needed. They are welcomed and encouraged during the winter months! Our main trail is a mile from the Lodge and can be accessed from the Lodge. There are a total of 8 cabins. Rent one or rent a few. Yes, we provide towels. There is a washer and dryer facility on-site that guests can use for a few quarters! The laundry access is on the west side of the Lodge gray door. The laundry facility is open from 9am-4pm. Wood can be purchased at the nearby store, brought by guests, collected from the nearby forests by guests, or bought on-site.
