Clinical Trials Registration in ClinicalTrials. The following update relating to this announcement has been issued: Controlled, clinical investigations, other than Phase 1 investigations, of a product subject to FDA regulation; 2 Trials of Devices: Controlled trials with health outcomes, other than small feasibility studies, and pediatric postmarket surveillance. Investigators are encouraged to consult with their sponsored research office, institutional counsel, or other institution officials to determine if they are the responsible party for registering a trial. For NIH-funded clinical trials where there is an IND holder, consistent with FDA regulations, the IND holder is the sponsor, and will be considered the responsible party unless this obligation is delegated to the principal investigator. For NIH-funded clinical trials where there is no IND holder, the funding recipient will be considered the responsible party. How are Trials Registered? To register go to the ClinicalTrials. If a new applicable clinical trial is proposed, the human subjects section of the research plan should include a statement that the application includes a trial which requires registration in ClinicalTrials. The signature on the application of the Authorized Organizational Representative will now also assure compliance for the registration of any such trial. All applications submitted to the NIH on or after January 25, , which incorporate an applicable clinical trial in their proposed project, are required to provide the information as detailed above. All progress reports for grants which include an applicable clinical trial with budget start dates of April 1, or later are required to provide the information as detailed above. See PL , Sections a , b , adding new 42 U. Obtaining Assistance from NIH: You may register your trial directly by following the procedures outlined at <http://> Alternatively, you may request registration assistance from an NIH Institute or Center IC , in which case you are responsible for ensuring that all necessary information is provided to the IC in sufficient time to review and coordinate before the statutory deadlines described above for submission to ClinicalTrials. You will need to stay in contact with the IC liaison to ensure that your information has been registered properly. Submission of registration information to an IC is not sufficient to satisfy the statutory obligations for submission to ClinicalTrials. You remain legally responsible for submission of information to ClinicalTrials. For additional information please see FAQ: Office of Extramural Programs.
