

1: Mrs. Mole, l  m Home written and illustrated by Jarvis | Youth Services Book Review

Sep 25,    The Story of the Little Mole who knew it was none of his business, written by Werner Holzwarth and illustrated Wolf Erlbruch, is celebrating its 25th birthday today!

For best results use only: Title, Author, Date Range, and Keywords. You will be able to limit your search further once you reach the results page. This is the best book search engine on the net, from a huge Canadian company originally started by booksellers. Millions of books of all kinds from dealers all over the world, some not found in libraries. Most of the English language books ever published: You should limit your search at least to Format: You can do this on the advanced search page or once you arrive at the results, using the left hand column, as with abe. Often you can find more about the content of a title by going to an individual library holding. Once you have narrowed down a possible title, try Amazon. The colour option on Google is working better and better. I have started using Images on bing. Look in the left hand column to limit your search to these. A few words can help: If all you can remember is a few words, try Google. Put the words in quotes. Use only one or two, essential, easily-spelled, keywords. Try this sample Google search: Selling One or Two Books. Probably the easiest place for an individual to sell books like those above is on Amazon. Look up your book, click on the picture, then look in the blue box for "Have one to sell? If, and only if, Amazon has listed the book in the past, will you be able to list also. Ebay is also very easy and inexpensive to use for a few books and it allows you more room to describe the books. For pricing your book, it is easier and more accurate to use the Abebooks. Then double check on Amazon because prices there are sometimes higher. The more care you put into describing your books, the more likely you are to sell them. We do not purchase books online, sight unseen. Please do not offer them to us. If you have a collection or several rare books you are interested in selling to us, especially if you live in the Northwest, please look on http: Our email address is on the Contact Us page. We never value a book over the net, nor do other reputable booksellers. Look through the suggestions below.

2: Chicken Mole quick and authentic | The Spokesman-Review

Over 50 pages of illustrated interactive storytelling. Create butterflies out of thin air for little Mole, as he comes up into the daylight. Rescue Mole when he falls in the river. Or - if you.

Place the ancho and chipotle chilies on a baking sheet and toast in the oven until fragrant and puffed, about 6 minutes. Remove the chilies from the oven and let cool leave the oven on. When cool enough to handle, seed and stem the chilies and break into small pieces. Heat the oil in a large skillet over medium heat until shimmering. Add the onion and cook until softened, 5 to 7 minutes. Stir in the toasted chili pieces, cinnamon, cloves and chocolate and cook until the spices are fragrant and the chocolate is melted and bubbly, about 2 minutes. Stir in the garlic and cook until fragrant, about 30 seconds. Transfer the chili mixture to a blender or food processor and process until smooth, about 20 seconds. Season with salt, pepper and sugar to taste. Up to this point, the sauce can be cooled and refrigerated for up to three days. Loosen the sauce with water as needed before continuing with the recipe. Adjust the oven temperature to degrees. Pat the chicken pieces dry and season with salt and pepper. Arrange the chicken in a single layer in a shallow baking dish and cover with the mole sauce, turning the chicken to coat evenly. Bake, uncovered, until an instant read thermometer inserted into the center of a chicken breast registers degrees, or into a thigh or drumstick registers degrees, 35 to 45 minutes. Remove the chicken from the oven, cover loosely with foil and let rest in the sauce for 5 to 10 minutes. Transfer the chicken to a large serving platter or individual serving plates, spoon the sauce over top and sprinkle with sesame seeds before serving. The flavor of mole made with whole ancho chilies is superior to ground ancho powder, but if necessary, substitute 2 tablespoons ground ancho powder for the fresh and add the powder with the cinnamon. There was a problem subscribing you to the newsletter. Double check your email and try again, or email webteam spokesman.

3: The Adventures of Mairi Mole - The Book Box

A beautifully illustrated story about unlikely friendship and good neighbors for the very young and old alike. A joy to experience! In The Mouse, the Mole, and the Magnificent Moss-Covered House written by Stirling C. and illustrated by Donna Washington, Milly Mouse moves into a brand-new home.

When he was 5, his mother died from puerperal fever, and his father, who had a drinking problem, gave the care of his four children over to their grandmother, who lived in Cookham Dean in Berkshire. There they lived in a spacious but dilapidated home, The Mount, in extensive grounds by the River Thames, and were introduced to the riverside and boating by their uncle, David Ingles, curate at Cookham Dean church. He flees his underground home, emerging to take in the air and ends up at the river, which he has never seen before. Here he meets Rat a water vole, who at this time of year spends all his days in, on and close by the river. Rat takes Mole for a ride in his rowing boat. Toad is rich, jovial, friendly and kind-hearted, but aimless and conceited; he regularly becomes obsessed with current fads, only to abandon them abruptly. He persuades the reluctant Rat and willing Mole to join him on a trip. Toad soon tires of the realities of camp life, and sleeps in the following day to avoid chores. Later that day, a passing motorcar scares the horse, causing the caravan to overturn into a ditch. Badger[edit] Mole wants to meet the respected but elusive Badger, who lives deep in the Wild Wood, but Rat "knowing that Badger does not appreciate visits" tells Mole to be patient and wait for Badger to pay them a visit himself. Rat wakes to find Mole gone. Badger "en route to bed in his dressing-gown and slippers" nonetheless warmly welcomes Rat and Mole to his large and cosy underground home, providing them with hot food, dry clothes, and reassuring conversation: Though nothing can be done at the moment it being winter, they resolve that when the time is right they will make a plan to protect Toad from himself; they are, after all, his friends, and are worried about his well-being. The three of them go to Toad Hall, and Badger tries talking Toad out of his behaviour, to no avail. They put Toad under house arrest, with themselves as the guards, until Toad changes his mind. Feigning illness, Toad bamboozles the Water Rat who is on guard duty at the time and escapes. Badger and Mole are cross with Rat for his gullibility, but draw comfort because they need no longer waste their summer guarding Toad. Taking the car, he drives it recklessly and is caught by the police. Though free again, Toad is without money or possessions other than the clothes upon his back. He manages to board a railway engine manned by a sympathetic driver, which is then pursued by a special train loaded with policemen, detectives and prison warders. Toad jumps from the train and, still disguised as a washerwoman, comes across a horse-drawn barge. After botching the wash, Toad gets into a fight with the barge-woman, who tosses him into the canal. In revenge, Toad makes off with the barge horse, which he then sells to a gypsy. Toad subsequently flags down a passing car, which happens to be the very one he stole earlier. The car owners, not recognising Toad in his disguise, permit him to drive their car. Once behind the wheel, he is repossessed by his former exuberance and drives furiously, declaring his true identity to the passengers who try to seize him. This leads to the car landing in a horse-pond, after which Toad flees once more. Pursued by police, he runs accidentally into a river, which carries him by sheer chance to the house of Rat. Although upset at the loss of his house, Toad realizes what good friends he has and how badly he has behaved. Badger then arrives and announces that he knows of a secret tunnel into Toad Hall through which the enemies may be attacked. Armed to the teeth, Badger, Rat, Mole and Toad enter via the tunnel and pounce upon the unsuspecting Wild-Wooders who are holding a celebratory party. Having driven away the intruders, Toad holds a banquet to mark his return, during which for a change he behaves both quietly and humbly. He makes up for his earlier excesses by seeking out and compensating those he has wronged, and the four friends live out their lives happily ever after. Short stories[edit] In addition to the main narrative, the book contains several independent short stories featuring Rat and Mole. Pan removes their memories of this meeting "lest the awful remembrance should remain and grow, and overshadow mirth and pleasure". Finally, in "Wayfarers All", Ratty shows a restless side to his character when he is sorely tempted to join a Sea Rat on his travelling adventures. Main characters[edit] Mole: Known as "Moly" to his friends. An altruistic, humble, loyal, polite, home-loving animal, and the first character introduced in the story. Fed up with spring cleaning in his secluded home, he ventures into the outside world. Initially overawed by the hustle and bustle of the riverbank, he eventually adapts. He proves intelligent as shown with his trickery on stoat then tries to prevent them from reinforcing the weasels during the fight with Toad Hall. Known as "Ratty" to his friends though actually a water vole, he is cultured, relaxed and friendly, and enjoys a life of leisure; when not spending time on the river, he composes doggerel. Ratty loves the river and takes charge of Mole. He can be stubborn when it comes to doing things outside his riverside lifestyle, but can do which must be done as shown when he risks his safety to help Mole in the Wild Wood and to help free Toad Hall from the weasels. Known as "Toady" to his friends, The wealthy scion of Toad Hall who inherited his wealth from his late father. Although good-hearted and optimistic, he is also arrogant, conceited, and impulsive. He is prone to obsessions and crazes such as punting, houseboats, and horse-drawn caravans. He gets bored with each of these in turn, and drops them. His motoring craze eventually sees him imprisoned for theft, dangerous driving, and gross impertinence to the police. Several chapters of the book chronicle his daring escape from prison. A gruff but benevolent soul, Badger embodies the "wise hermit" figure. He lives in a vast underground sett, part of which incorporates the remains of a buried Roman settlement. A brave and a skilled fighter, Badger helps clear the Wild-Wooders from Toad Hall with his large stick. Supporting characters[edit] Otter and Portly: A friend of Ratty with a stereotypical "Cockney costermonger" character. The extrovert Otter is tough and self-sufficient. Portly is his young son. The weasels, ferrets, and stoats: They plot to take over Toad Hall. Although they are unnamed, the leader is referred to as "Chief Weasel". The only major human character; a "good, kind, clever girl", she helps Toad escape from prison. A vagabond seafaring rat, who also makes a single appearance. Ratty briefly considers following his example, before Mole persuades him otherwise. Squirrels and rabbits, who are generally good although rabbits are described as "a mixed lot". Inhabitants of the Wild Wood: Weasels, stoats, and foxes who are described by Ratty thus: This section needs additional citations for verification. Please help improve this article by adding citations to reliable sources. Unsourced material may be challenged and removed. September Learn how and when to remove this template message The Piper at the Gates of Dawn, frontispiece to a edition by Paul Bransom The original publication of the book was plain text, with a frontispiece illustrated by Graham Robertson, but many illustrated, comic, and annotated versions have been published over the years. The most popular illustrations are probably by E. Shepard, originally published in, and believed to be authorised as Grahame was pleased with the initial sketches, though he did not live to see the completed work. It was not issued with the Rackham illustrations in the UK until A fancier centenary edition was produced two years later. Michel Plessix created a Wind in the Willows watercolour comic album series, which helped to introduce the stories to France. They have been translated into English by Cinebook Ltd. It was published in the US in by St.

4: 25 Daysâ€™ Book The Mole Familyâ€™s Christmas

*The The Mouse, The Mole, and the Magnificent, Moss-Covered House [Stirling C., Donna Washington] on www.enganchecubano.com FREE shipping on qualifying offers. Written by Stirling C. and illustrated by Donna Washington, this beautifully illustrated backwards-and-forwards book tells the charming story of how Milly the Mouse and Morton the Mole each live their lives in separate homes within the same.*

Basing his fanciful animal characters on human archetypes, Grahame imparts a gentle, playful wisdom in his timeless tales. For in this entrancing, lyrical world of gurgling rivers and whispering reeds live four of the wisest, wittiest, noblest, and most lovable creatures in all literatureâ€™ Rat, Mole, Badger, and Toad of Toad Hall. Toad behind the wheel of a carâ€™ On a fine summer day, Mole is busy spring cleaning his underground home. There he meets Ratty, who takes Mole for a ride in his rowing boat. The two of them become close friends, and spend their time enjoying lazy days by the river. But then they make the mistake of visiting Mr. Toad is rich, exuberant, but also reckless. When he purchases his very first automobile, Toad, Ratty and Mole are plunged into a dangerous adventure involving theft, a prison break, and the famous siege of Toad Hall. Now with cutting edge visuals and a faithful conversion to a new format, Campfire brings you the definitive version of an all-time classic. About The Wind in the Willows "A good choice for middle-grade readers, or for parents in search of a pleasing edition to read aloud. From the Paperback edition. The story begins when Mole abandons his spring cleaning to explore the world beyond his burrow. He scurries down to the riverbank, where he meets Ratty and discovers a carefree world of picnics and messing about in boats. There are adventures ahead, in the company of reckless Mr. Toad, and dangers, when the two friends venture into the Wild Wood to visit Mr. And there are events that test the friendship of the four animals to the limits, but through it all they retain their loyalty and good humor. Now, in this splendid volume, Inga Moore recaptures its scenes and its characters with richly patterned and warmly detailed illustrations. Here, drawn with charming freshness, are impulsive dear Mole, rash Mr. Toad, reclusive Badger, and sensible Rat, so happy just "messing around in boats. Start a new tradition of reading this timeless tale in your home today!

5: A Friend for Mole by Nancy Armo

The second version of the story claims that mole was created by one of Sor Andrea's loyal assistants, an Indian woman who was spared by the Aztecs because of her cooking skills.

6: The Mole and the Flower - Helen Marshall & Chris A. Martin | Tiny Tree Books

"The Tale of Grandfather Mole," is from the neat, frolicsome series of illustrated animal stories called "Sleepy-Time Tales." There was one special reasonâ€™among othersâ€™"why Grandfather Mole didn't like to show himself above ground in the daytime. This reason wasâ€™"hawks! And there was something.

7: The Wind in the Willows - Wikipedia

A delightful, colourful, illustrated story about Mairi the Mole who digs her burrows under Anne's lovely lawn and visits her veggie patch. While playing above ground she has a close encounter with Steven the cat but escapes to the neighbouring farm field.

8: Molly the Mole | A Story to Help Children Build Self-Esteem

A small mole found himself digging through the ground. It was on an endless search for food and so far, had found a few worms that seemed satisfy some of his hunger. His search did bring him up to the surface as he dug up through the ground and created a small molehill.

9: Mole Marinade for Steaks | Cook's Illustrated

Les Trés Riches Heures de Mrs. Mole: Artist Ronald Searle's Illustrated Love Letter to His Wife Recovering from Cancer What a tender true love story has to do with medieval illuminated manuscripts and experimental medicine.

Beyond transfer of training : using multiple lenses to assess community education programs Judith M. Otto Ethernet over sdh tutorial English Artists Paper From website c# Mr. Gladstone and the nationalities of the United Kingdom. Mensuration formulas list in hindi Walter Kempowskis Deutsche Chronik Elementary mathematics; a logical approach Due process and common sense : notice and service of process The new menticulture Mechanisms and machinations of self-defeat Transforming evangelism From garden to table Press review magazine Food preparation study course Solid State Devices, 1983 (Conference Series,) Importance of ayurveda in modern life Appeared in celestial light : transcendent nature experiences in childhood Dark lover book CHAPTER VII Lamps and Lighting Circuits, Signal Bell Connections, etc. page 116 Telugu novels files Tyre fitment centre business plan The Cambridge companion to William Blake The cooking of Thailand An English-Telugu dictionary Sonnets for a friend Niper jee 2017 merit list Business intelligence readiness : prerequisites for leveraging business intelligence to improve profits Chapter 4: A Tour of the Gakuya (Backstage) Critical literacy as resistance Adventures in Ponyland World Broadcasting Diving for Northwest relics North American bows, arrows, and quivers Squaring the circle Jordan in the news Realistic Dinosaurs Stickers Lawrence County, Ar Cultivating godliness, part 1 Techniques of management audit