Peter Henderson Bryce (August 17, - January 15, ) was an official of the Ontario Health Department, www.enganchecubano.com a public official he submitted reports that highlighted the mistreatment of Indigenous students in the Canadian Indian residential school system and advocated for the improvement of environmental conditions at the schools.

Politics in Canada This past fall, I was involved in the musical-historical project Four Horses that tells the story of a dark chapter in Canadian history. Working with University of Regina Press publishers of Clearing the Plains we set out to introduce a new generation to the story of how the federal government used disease and famine in an attempt to destroy First Nation identity in Canada. The Four Horses project forced me to look closer, and the closer I looked, the starker the picture became. The obscure figure is a crusading bureaucrat named Peter Henderson Bryce. In he released an explosive report On the Indian Schools Of Manitoba and the Northwest Territories that exposed the atrocious death rates of tuberculosis among children in the residential school system. He laid the blame on both the Churches and the Federal government. Bryce insisted that all Indian Affairs officials under his watch begin tracking the monthly rates of illness in First Nation communities. In the larger Aboriginal population, Bryce found that tuberculosis was killing an estimated On the prairies the death rate was closer to 90 per Medical authorities knew the importance of public health initiatives to fight the spread of TB but federal officials did little to stop the devastation in First nation populations. Bryce pushed the federal government to establish proper hospitals and hire nurses who could slow the spread of the illness. He pushed to have the Churches removed from Indian education and put forth recommendations to ensure to an overhaul of federal education responsibilities with adequate financial support. He was in a long line of department bureaucrats who saw their role as saving the federal government money by ignoring Treaty obligations. To Department bureaucrats higher deaths meant fewer expenses for the Department. Between and alone, the native population in Canada dropped from , to , I cannot conceive except upon the hypothesis that we grow callous amidst such a frightful death rate? To Scott, the role of the residential schools was to brutally simple: Our objective is to continue until there is not a single Indian in Canada that has not been absorbed into the body politic and there is no Indian question, and no Indian Department. Children were forcibly removed from their home communities and put into a system that the Department knew was fundamentally unsafe for children. Scott and his officials knew the death rates and the incompetency of the Churches for providing for basic health, safety and education. But rather than take action to protect the children, Scott set out to erase the evidence. He ended the position of Chief Medical inspector for the schools. Scott went on to be celebrated for his years of "public service" while Bryce quit the federal service in disgust. Nonetheless, with his professional career in tatters, Bryce called out both Duncan Scott and the Federal government in an article entitled "The Story of a National Crime. So what is there to learn from these two men? Ninety years on, the Department of Indian Affairs continues to act as a bureaucratic impediment to basic improvements in education, health and social improvement. There is nothing accidental about this dysfunction. It is the result of decades of deliberate policy choices -- the same choices that promoted Duncan Campell Scott while suppressing the work of Peter Henderson Bryce. Ninety years on, we have the job of undoing these wrong choices. It is time that we put our nation back on the right road with our treaty partners. So, it may seem like a century too late but thank you Peter Bryce for your dedication and public service. The Story of a National Crime: Being an Appeal for Justice to the Indians of Canada. Worldwide nothing has changed. First, it is ridiculed. Second, it is violently opposed. Third, it is accepted as being self-evident. This indicated that there was a larger more powerful connection at play. It did not take long to find this bigger connection. However, in the early years, there were few people who would accept the reality of these larger global connections. Most people do not want to believe that corruption and abuse against innocent families and children exists in Canada and the U. They need to feel a sense of security in the society they live in, and that need is so great that most people will prefer to believe a lie rather than face the truth. They want to believe that such things only exist in third world countries! Understanding that even the basics of the wickedness in Nova Scotia, Canada was hard for most people to accept, we originally limited the information we posted to local concerns. However, it broke our hearts to find testimonies from parent groups throughout North America and beyond who had worked years to inform the public and had attempted to change the system, as we had, with no success. They were frustrated and did not understand why, despite all the evidence that had come forward, nothing was done, nothing changed. We felt they were owed an explanation, so, hopefully, now is the time for people to hear and accept the "Bigger Global Picture". The powerful connections that are responsible for abusing our innocent families and children go to the highest levels that hides behind secrecy and secret organizations. Countless people will hate the New World Order and will die protesting against it. When we attempt to evaluate its promise, we have to bear in mind the distress of a generation or so of malcontents, many of them quite gallant and graceful-looking people. Wells Finally alternate media, first hand testimonies from people coming out of these evil organizations, and countless politicians began now declaring openly the plan for a New World Order and a one world government. Because of this, it is hoped that people will accept the evidence we are now posting concerning this evil global connection. Because of the push to form a One World Government, we are all connected in our struggle. Thus far there are at least 8 powers that are struggling for this one world domination: They all use and manipulate each other but, ultimately, each wants ultimate control. In the Christian Bible, it is prophesied that an evil Anti-Christ will set up a one World government utilizing a one world religion where all the people of the world will eventually be forced to worship him alone. It is difficult, at this time, to determine, for certain, if this Anti-Christ raises up from any of the 8 powers mentioned above or elsewhere. Please link here if you are interested in learning more about the Anti- Christ. Over the years, we have seen the voice of the people shut down: Both the US and Canada have passed laws to remove our right and freedoms, including free speech: Oath Keepers military police and sheriffs loyal to the US Constitution - ready to defend the people against enemies "foreign or domestic" and some congress people, senators and US States have also taken a stand. Even concerned individuals have gone to the courts to fight the NSAA. We believe the internet, as we know it, soon will be limited. Eventually internet use will be removed completely from the hands of the people. The time is short. The time to get this information out is now. The victims can be your family, your children, your grandchildren, your nieces and nephews etc. You cannot move away from this threat - It is global! You must not put your head in the sand! But the current and planned use of Electronic, Psychotronic Mind Control which can be used on people in mass is the most alarming of all! They want our children to rebel against us. They want the new generation to view the "state" as their parent. But worse than all this, they want to kill off most of the people on this planet, and all under the guise of environmentally saving the planet. We have been declared the enemy - They openly state that we, and our children must be sacrificed for the greater good. If this sounds extreme to you then it is because you have not been paying attention to the world events that are unfolding before your very eyes. You have been lulled into ignorance and apathy. The expansion of sports and sports arenas, the addiction to various social networks, the focus on celebrities on so called "news" shows. This has all been designed to placate the masses and to get your focus off politics and the changes that are being done to you and your family. Your attention has also been diverted to worrying about the economy and an "enemy" that shifts and changes to suit the political manipulating whims of a small powerful elite. The people in the highest realm of this global power call us "stupid sheep", and we are being lead to the slaughter! You must wake up NOW! Time is VERY short! I suggest you start with the several topics listed under "Agenda 21":

3: Waakebiness-Bryce Institute for Indigenous Health

Dr. Bryce was a pioneer in public health. As the first secretary of the Provincial Board of Health of Ontario, he set up the first public health education exhibit about tuberculosis prevention in and drafted the Public Health Act of 1867—the first provincial public health act in Canada.

Bryce attended Upper Canada College and then earned his ba , ma , and mb at the University of Toronto, winning the silver medal in medicine and the Starr gold medal. Bryce returned to Canada and opened a general practice in Guelph, Ont. In he completed his md at the University of Toronto, but by he had closed his medical practice because of the pressure of his work as a civil servant, which increased in when he also became deputy registrar general in charge of vital statistics. His reputation soon spread: As well, he was an active member of the Canadian Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis. In this position Bryce was responsible for the medical inspection of newcomers at a time of massive immigration, as well as for overseeing the health conditions of the indigenous population. Run by churches, funded by the state, and supervised by men such as Hayter Reed , former Indian commissioner for the North-West Territories, these institutions were intended to assimilate indigenous people. Bryce did not examine the children, but instead inspected the state of the school buildings as well as the available student records. His Report on the Indian schools of Manitoba and the North-West Territories made clear the links between poor sanitation and ventilation in the schools and the infection of undernourished children. For those Indian Affairs bureaucrats who had for some time been planning to shut the expensive industrial schools, the negative publicity was not altogether unwelcome, but many principals took offence: His suggestion that the government assume complete financial and administrative control of the schools went far beyond what his superiors were willing to do. His advocacy of non-denominational schools and increased government financial commitment was not well received. Bryce was pensioned off in , and the following year he wrote a scathing attack on the Department of Indian Affairs, blaming Scott personally for the continuing deaths of children after In The story of a national crime he claimed that when Scott became deputy minister in he effectively pushed Bryce out of Indian Affairs. Bryce was openly bitter that he had not been appointed its first deputy minister, however, and his resentment may have diminished the public impact of his criticisms of the government. Although Bryce pursued his quarrel with Scott and the department that he led after he left the civil service, he also followed other interests during his retirement. In the First Nations Child and Family Caring Society of Canada established awards in his honour to recognize adults and youths who have advocated for systemic changes that will benefit the health and well-being of indigenous children in Canada. Even though the journal would wait another year before assuming its more familiar name, the American Journal of Public Health was now the official monthly publication of the then member APHA. The birth had not been an easy or uncomplicated one. The APHA was founded in and very early in its history began to search for publication options for the proceedings of its yearly meetings. By the end of its run, APHA leaders were making plans for a new form of official publication. A committee report at the meeting stated: There has been some progress made during the past year in the study and examination of the question of journalizing the proceedings of this Association, but it has been found impossible to present to any publisher a definite proposition. The difficulties are almost always entirely financial. If we had a membership sufficiently large, or if we could guarantee a publisher a sufficient number of subscribers to protect him against loss, we would be able to find a publisher without difficulty. The committee recommends that the inquiry in relation to the establishment of an Association journal be continued. This journal ambitiously expanded its scope starting in late and a year later announced the following: With the November issue of the year , the encouragement received from many hygienic quarters induced the Massachusetts Association to undertake the expansion of the Journal to a national standard, with the cooperation of many sanitarians as editors. A new title, American Journal of Public Hygiene , was selected. Beginning January, [this Journal] will take an assured place as a monthly, representing professional public hygiene, as it has always done, but under the title and with the added dignity and prestige of the Journal of the American Public Health Association. By this time, Rickards had moved from his poorly paid job as Director of the Bacteriological Laboratory of the Boston Health Department to a more prestigious and better remunerated position as Director of the Ohio State Board of Health in Columbus. At the same time, it would serve an important continuing education role for local health officers across the country and provide them with a communication network and medium of exchange. The Journal would likewise play an essential role as a leader in educating the public on health matters by providing up-to-date, reliable, and authoritative information. It seems to have been remarkably successful in all these efforts, not least in stimulating the rapid growth of membership, from in to in

Our Allies in the Revolutionary War: Our Brothers-in-Arms in the Great War. Chief Medical Officer of the Indian Department. By Order in Council dated Jan. The Order in Council recites: The undersigned believes that the qualifications for the position above mentioned are possessed in an eminent degree by Mr. Peter Henderson Bryce, M. For each year up to he wrote an annual report on the health of the Indians, published in the Departmental report, and on instructions from the minister made in a special inspection of thirty-five Indian schools in the three prairie provinces. This report was published separately ; but the recommendations contained in the report were never published and the public knows nothing of them. It contained a brief history of the origin of the Indian Schools, of the sanitary condition of the schools and statistics of the health of the pupils, during the 15 years of their existence. Regarding the health of the pupils, the report states that 24 per cent, of all the pupils which had been in the schools were known to be dead, while of one school on the File Hills reserve, which gave a complete return to date, 75 per cent, were dead at the end of the 16 years since the school opened. Briefly the recommendations urged, 1 Greater school facilities, since only 30 per cent, of the children of school age were in attendance ; 2 That boarding schools with schoolfe? Such a board would have its secretary in the Department but would hold regular meetings, establish qualifications for teachers, and oversee the appointments as well as the control of the schools ; 6 That Continuation schools be arranged for on the school farms and that instruction methods similar to those on the File Hills farm colony be developed ; 7 That the health interests of the pupils be guarded by a proper medical inspection and that the local physicians be encouraged through the provision at each school of fresh air methods in the care and treatment of cases of tuberculosis. The annual medical reports from year to year made reference to the unsatisfactory health of the pupils, while different local medical officers urged greater action in view of the results of their experience from year to year. As the result of one such report the Minister instructed the writer in to investigate the health of the children in the schools of the Calgary district in a letter containing the following: Lafferty and check his inspection. Lafferty the children of 8 schools in Alberta, with children. Recommendations, made in this report, on much the same lines as those made in the report of , followed the examination of the children ; but owing to the active opposition of Mr. Scott, and his advice to the then Deputy Minister, no action was taken by the Department to give effect to the recommendations made. This too was in spite of the opinion of Prof. Adami had with the writer examined the children in one of the largest schools and was fully informed as to the actual situation. He stated that it was only after the earnest solicitation of Mr. Scott that the whole matter of Dr. Adami stated in his letter to the Deputy Minister: I can assure you my only motive is a great sympathy for these children, who are the wards of the government and cannot protect themselves from the ravages of this disease. In reviewing his correspondence the writer finds a personal letter, written by him to the Minister dated March 16th, , following an official letter regarding the inaction of the Department with regard to the recommendations of the report. This letter refers to the most positive promises of Mr. Scott that the Department would at once take steps to put the suggestions contained in the report into effect. The letter further says: Am I wrong in assuming that the vanity of Mr. Scott, growing out of his success at manipulating the mental activities of Mr. Pedley, has led him to the fatal deception of supposing that his cleverness will be equal to that of Prospero in calming any storm that may blow up from a Tuberculosis Association or any where else, since he knows that should he fail he has through memoranda on file placed the responsibility on Mr. In this particular matter, he is counting upon the ignorance and indifference of the public to the fate of the Indians ; but with the awakening of the health conscience of the people,. Rogers, whose chief activity was the investigation of the Deputy Minister, which led up to his retirement. Now at last he said, 44 A medical minister exists who would understand the situation as relates to the health of the Indians. The reply acknowledging receipt of this memorandum contained the following: Roche is urged to that should meet with every consideration, and some act. Roche became ill and was absent for some months nothing further was done ; but on his return the writer in a personal interview urged that this serious medical Indian problem be taken up in earnest. It was stated that medical science now knows just what to do and what was necessary was to put our knowledge into practice. Roche stated that on his return from the West he would certainly take the matter up. Since that moment however, to the present, the matter has awaited the promised action. The writer had done no regular inspection work since Mr. Scott was made Deputy minister in , but had in each year up to prepared his medical report, printed in the annual re- port of the Department. About this time the following letter was received: Ottawa, Medical Inspector, June 17, It is true that since then we have availed ourselves of your services on a few occasions ; but during the past year, so far as I am aware, you have not been called upon to do any duty for the Department. I may say also that Dr. Grain of Win- nipeg, has lately been appointed to oversee the Western schools and reserves and his time is fully occupied in the work. Under these cir- cumstances, I do not think that you should be asked to furnish a report on the medical work in connection with Indians during the fiscal year. I must thank you cordially for the offer to again prepare a report for publication. The transparent hypocrisy contained in this remarkable com- munication sent, not by the Minister Dr. The other reason given, to the effect that a certain physician, since retired for good cause, quite inexperienced in dealing with Indian disease problems, had been appointed as Medical Inspector for the Western Provinces, showed how little the Minister cared for the solution of the tuberculosis problem. As a matter of fact the Order in Council appointing the writer had neither been changed nor rescinded, while the transfer to the Interior Department of the payment of the total salary was made in in order that his regular increase of pay under the new classification of the Civil Service Act of that year might be made. As the war broke out in and immigration was largely suspended, an unexpected opportunity occurred through Dr. The large demand for this pamphlet led to the preparation of a similar study on " The Conservation of the Man Power of the Indian Population of Canada, " which had already supplied over volunteer soldiers for the Empire. For obvious reasons this memorandum was not published, but was of value placed in the hands of a minister of the Crown in , oTindians r in order that all the facts might be made known to the Government. It is thus obvious that from the lowest standard of wealth producers the Indian population of Canada was already a matter of much importance to the State. From the statistics given in the " Man Power " pamphlet it was made plain that instead of the normal increase in the Indian population being 1. The comparisons showed that the loss was almost wholly due to a high death rate since, though incomplete, the Indian birth rate was 27 per thousand or higher than the average for the whole white population. The memorandum states, " As the Indian people are an un- usually strong native race, their children at birth are large and sturdy, and under good sanitary conditions have a low mortality. Thus of the children born in the File Hills Farm Colony in 17 years only 34 died, while of 15 births in only 1 died, giving the unusually low rate of 77 per thousand within the year. In reply he received the following letter. Bryce, Ottawa, May 7, I have your letter of the third instant asking for certain vital statis- tics. I am unable to give you the figures you ask as we are not receiving any vital statistics now, and last year we obtained only the total num- ber of births and deaths from each Agency. These were not printed and are not therefore available for distribution. The causes of deaths have never been noted in our reports and we have no information. Your obedient servant, Signed J. A study of the statistics shows that in the wage earn? In order however to show how an Indian population may increase, the writer obtained from Mr. Graham, at that time Superintendent of the File Hills colony from to , the complete record for this period. In all there were 53 colonists from the neighbouring Indian schools, starting with five in , who had taken up homesteads in the colony. Most of them married although 15 either left or had died previous to marriage. In June there were resident 38 men, 26 women and children, or colonists in all. This was one nineteenth of the total area cultivated by , persons in all the Indian bands in Canada, Awhile 87, bushels of grain were grown, and 33, head of live stock were kept. In the report of t,he Chief Medical Officer shows that statistics collected from 99 local medical officers having the care of a population of 70, gave a. What these figures disclose has been made more plain year by year, namely that tuberculosis, contracted in infancy, creates diseases of the brain, joints, bones, and to a less degree of the lungs and also that if not fatal till adolescence it then usually progresses rapidly to a fatal termination in consump- tion of the lungs. The memorandum further states, " If a similar me- thod had been introduced amongst the bands on the health-giving uplands of Alberta, much might have been done to prevent such a splendid race of warriors as the Blackfeet from decreasing from in to in ,6, or, allowing for natural increase, an actual loss of 40 per cent, since they should have numbered at least 1, Such then is the situation made known to the Hon. Rowell, who applied to the writer in to supply him with such facts and arguments as would support the Bill he proposed to introduce into Parliament for the creation of a Federal Department of Health. It was with pleasure that the memorandum dealing with Indian health matters was given him, along with a proposed Bill for a Department of Health, which contained amongst its provisions one for including the Indian Medical Service along with the other Medical Federal services in the new Department. In the special medical committee called by Mr. But something then occult happened: What special occult influences came into rob the in- action may be imagined, when the Second Reading of dians of a chance. It has been noted that from up to the time when Dr. Roche was eliminated from the government in to make room for a more hardy and subtle representative of Unionism the activities of the Chief Medical Inspector of the Indian Department, had in practice ceased ; yet now he was to see as the outcome of all this health legislation for which he had been struggling for years, the failure of one of his special health dreams, which he has hoped to see realized. A side light however, may serve to illumine the beclouded situation. That the desire for power and for the control appointments should override any higher consideration such as saving the lives of the Indians must be inferred from the following statement of the Hon. On June 8th, , the estimates of the Indian Department were under consideration in Parliament. Page of Hansard has the following: McKenzie, " I understand that frightful ravages are being made amongst them Indians by tuberculosis and the conditions of life are certainly not such as to preserve them from the ravages of that dread disease. I should be pleased to know at the earliest possible moment if that branch of the Department was going to be transferred to the Department of Health. Meighen, " The Health Department has no power to take over the matter of the health of the Indians. That is not included in the Act establishing the department. It was purposely left out of the Act. I did not then think and do not think yet that it would be practicable for the Health Department to do that work, because they would require to duplicate the organization away in the remote regions, where Indian reserves are, and there would be established a sort of divided control and authority over the Indians. Beland, " Is tuberculosis increasing or decreasing amongst the Indians? Meighen, " I am afraid I cannot give a very encouraging answer to the question. We are not convinced that it is increasing, but it is not decreasing.
