Greg is also annoyed by the fact that his mom gives Gary an allowance without requiring Gary to do any chores. As a result, Greg must partner with another guy – an unpleasant thing for both of them. At the same time, Vice Principal Roy announces that there will be special elections for student council, and all elected student positions. It is revealed that the existing student government skipped all their meetings to enjoy recess instead. Greg, ineligible to run because he has three detentions to his name, instead convinces his best friend Rowley to run. Greg intends Rowley to be a puppet politician, allowing Greg to make the real decisions behind the scenes. Rowley agrees to this, running for the position of Social Chairperson. He wins because no one runs against him. Eugene Ellis wins the presidency on a promise to stock all school bathrooms with soft toilet tissue. After Eugene is elected, Mrs. Birch, the student council advisor, explains this will not be possible due to the cost. Eugene then confronts Mrs. Birch agrees to a compromise: But this leads to a toilet paper fight, and makes the students in school realize if they want something, they will have to pay for it themselves. Greg spends the next few weeks doing all he can to round up a gorgeous date, but no girl will go with him. Greg even takes advice from Uncle Gary, dressing cooler and making it look like he is well-liked, but this does not work either. Greg takes on Rowley as a wingman so the two can help each other find dates. Rowley ultimately reports that Abigail Brown is recently available. Greg hopes he will be able to keep Rowley at a distance in order to romance Abigail. He has Rowley wear a scarf and beach hat to cover them up. They then go to pick Abigail up. This causes drama, and causes Abigail to burst into tears. Greg decides to dance with her to make her feel better and get closer to her, but freaks out when he sees a red spot on her chin, thinking it is chicken pox. It turns out only to be a pimple. It turns out that Rowley also does not have chicken pox, but merely acne. Greg ends up coming down with chicken pox, however. This section contains words approx.
