Sue also believed that she was pregnant with his baby. Contents [show] Novel Besides of all the information in the novel , Tommy was also involved in beating another student called Danny Patrick in Kennedy Junior High School. Also, when Sue proposed for him to take Carrie White to the Prom, both were making love in his car. He died at the age of Like his novel counterpart, Tommy was very athletic and seemingly, very poetic. His English teacher, Mr. Fromm , read a poem supposedly written by Tommy and offered the class an opportunity to give criticisms. Fromm criticised her for that. Sue Snell approached Tommy one day at the running track and proposed that he should take Carrie to their Senior Prom. Tommy was against this idea at first, but later relented while he and Sue were doing some studying one evening. Tommy approached Carrie in the library the following day and asked if she would like to accompany him to the Prom next Friday. Poor Carrie could not believe what she just heard someone actually asked her to the Prom. But, it was very difficult for her to trust anybody at her school , after having spent countless years in the midst of cruel peers. Sadly, neither they nor Sue knew that this particular Prom Night would be the most traumatic night of their young lives. At first, Carrie was having second thoughts about Tommy and her being together, saying it may have been a bad idea. Tommy assured Carrie that everyone at the Prom was a "good crowd", and that she ought not be so nervous. With that, Tommy walked to the other side of his vehicle and opened the door for his lovely date. The Prom was off to a big start when Carrie and Tommy entered. Some of the other Prom goers just simply stared at Carrie, who became nervous again. Later in the evening, just after Miss Collins finished talking to Carrie, Tommy rejoined her and eventually asked Carrie, if she wanted to dance. She said, she did not know how and once Tommy and her made it to the middle of the dance floor, began to turn back. But Tommy guided the shy Carrie along, gently and slowly. He kept her going even after she stepped on his foot. But, after a minute or so, the two stared at each other and Tommy leaned over to Carrie and kissed her. Carrie later asked Tommy about why she was at the Prom with him in the first place. He told her as he had when he came to her house to ask about the Prom again that she liked his "poem". But someone else wrote it, Tommy admits and that surprised Carrie. However, Tommy said that as long as Carrie and he were together, that was enough. Carrie and Tommy eventually found out that they were on the ballot for Prom King and Queen. He even suggested that they vote for themselves. Carrie was totally against the idea, but Tommy managed to convince her that, if only for Prom Night, she should let go of false modesty. Of course, she and Tommy won the nominations and were called to the stage. Tommy saw Sue and thought she was there only to make trouble, but when he caught sight of blood spilling all over Carrie from above, his thoughts turned from Sue back to Carrie. He looked up and saw the bucket swinging from a rope attached to a rafter. Tommy was furious at what happened to Carrie, but that same bucket he saw swinging from the rafter crashed down on his head, knocking him unconscious, fracturing his skull and maybe even killing him while Carrie witnessed it. Later, he was pronounced dead in the Prom Night tragedy. His mannerisms mimicked those of the novel. They were both together with Helen Shyres and her boyfriend during the Prom Night until the election. In this remake, Tommy was murdered by Chris and Billy with the complicity of others in their obsession to humiliate Carrie White with their prank and get away with it. Tommy Ross was portrayed by Ansel Elgort. His characteristics were similar to the novel. He seemed to be very popular. He also made love with Sue Snell, causing her to become pregnant. However, during the prom, he was presumed dead in the Ewen Prom Night tragedy when a bucket hit him hard on the head and he was seen lying on the stage with aimless, vacant eyes. Unlike the previous versions, nobody came to his aid except for Carrie. Realising he was dead, she mourned by his side before destroying the prom. In a deleted scene Tommy and Carrie kiss.
