Bringing the art of topiary from the garden into the home, Jollands shows how to form a wide variety of sculpted creations using lavender, copper beech, eucalyptus, fresh flowers, dried herbs, autumn fruits and cones.

You can make them out of fresh flowers, paper flowers, or tissue paper. Tissue paper pomanders are the easiest and cheapest. Paper flower pomanders give you a little more flexibility as far as colors and styles go, but can be a time consuming diy project. It can be a fun project with a group of friends. I especially like the idea of making pomanders out of vintage book paper and newspaper. Fresh flower pomanders are the most sought after for their natural beauty. You can also leave the pomanders up to your florist to make and design for you. Hang them from the trees, from the rafters, from chandeliers, or from the ceiling! I love the idea of hanging pomander balls over each reception table or over the cake table or dessert buffet: Pomander Wedding Centerpieces You can rest them directly on the table, or on the top of tall vases at varying heights. You might also want to consider hanging small kissing balls from a tree branch centerpiece: Pomander Wedding Aisle A popular choice is hanging them from the end chairs or from plant hangers placed on the sides of the aisle for an outdoor wedding: Floating Pomanders Does your ceremony or reception have a pool? Use the pool as part of your decoration with floating kissing balls. Floating candles would also be a nice touch: Pomander place Card Holders So simple but unique. They can also double as wedding favors. These topiary place card holders are also a cute way to display your seat assignments. What you will need: Floral foam balls the ones with the mesh wrap give you a handle Ribbon, twine, or anything else you want to use for hanging Sturdy flowers of your choice Floral wire Sheers How To: First, soak the foam balls in water. Just let them sink on their own so that they have plenty of water for the flowers to drink. Trim your flower stems at an angle, leaving about 2 inches to work with. Once your foam balls are soaked, simply insert the flowers. Keep them close together and overlapping for the best look. Tie your ribbon around the top of the mesh, keeping in mind how long you need it to be for hanging. You will probably want to have each one at a varying length. You can also use pearl or rhinestone corsage pins to decorate. The Best Flowers For Pomanders: Roses, carnations, sunflowers, billy balls , chrysanthemums, rosemary, daisies, peonies, or pom pom mums.
