Sunday, 13 March Cheat sheet - how to interpret Major Arcana cards? As many budding tarotists know, the standard tarot deck comes with sections called Major Arcana - the "big secret" and the Minor Arcana "the small secret". Major Arcana cards depict life events and lessons as a journey from birth to enlightenment. These do not happen only once in life with Major Arcana, so the cards do not point to your physical years. Instead, they talk about what you are experiencing in your current life cycle or phase. We keep learning same or similar things over and over again and hence, the Major Arcana cards can and do serve throughout life - no card becomes "obsolete". Enlightenment can be understood as spiritual, or just "gaining full understanding" about life. Each card means a major life lesson that has potential to help you grow as a person - to progress in your own evolution. Major Arcana cards often point to outside forces. How we behave when pressured, hindered, blocked or prompted by outside forces, is what helps or forces us to grow: When you do or receive a reading, pay attention to how many Major Arcana cards come up. They point to the big lessons and major forces in play, and give you a hint about what you need to take into account long-term, or what will have the greatest impact on your life during this period of life. My nutshell guide for the meanings of the 22 Major Arcana cards

0 Fool - beginning. I read this as a step before step, the first inclination that something new is beginning. Magician brings the idea into reality; this is a card of successful manifestation. Nothing can be achieved without thinking about it first and the Magician comes up when you have the power to succeed in your undertaking, if you set your mind to it. This card reminds that this physical reality of ours can only be navigated with the help of intuition; the gut feeling about what is right and wrong for you. Rational mind, will and intention are not enough, we also need to listen to the inner self, our soul. The Empress is often read as the feminine ideal; but to me she portrays the divine in the universe, the life force chi , growth, creativity, nature, and feeling blessed and protected. To me this card most often means: If the Empress is about the organic positive forces in life, the Emperor is about structure, logic, stability and authority. All human societies are built on shared traditions, rules and teachings, such as the law, religion, customs, traditional celebrations - the expectations about how to behave and what to believe. This card is about soul mates and romantic love, but not only about it. This card is most often read as the triumph of willpower, but to me the core meaning is: It can mean applying force mental, emotional or physical , or it can mean acknowledging that force alone is not working, another approach is needed. This card often shows a young maiden petting a lion. The hermit is someone who dedicates his or her life to examining, observing and pondering life or a certain question in solitude. The wheel of fortune, the destiny or fate, is ever-changing and nothing will stay the same forever. There can be a turn to better or occasionally worse coming - and eventually, that too will change. Justice comes up when there is a need to make a decision about something that knowingly or unknowingly has great importance for your life in the future. I always think of this card as a painful or difficult yoga pose you must stay in to become more flexible, balanced, and better at it. When a caterpillar has been hanging in its uncomfortable cocoon for long enough, it breaks free and emerges as something different and new: This card pops up when you are trying to balance or combine competing elements - such as work life balance, or people in a new relationship. Mixing or connecting them takes time, effort, skills and patience. Something is dictating how you think, feel or live. It can be an obsession or addiction anything from food to sex to alcohol to work or letting a negative feeling, such as fear, grudge, jealousy or selfishness drive your life. Some people think this card means a bond between people and can mean marriage, but for me this card is about negative bonds. Tower comes up, when a sudden shock is on its way or ongoing. The suddenness of the Tower often makes the event itself feel negative, but the outcome is that the truth is revealed, whatever it is. After the shock and crumble comes healing and finding a new direction with hope and optimism. The Star is about learning to trust life again, and finding solace, hope and guidance from within or from people around you. Step out to the clarity of the sun and leave the confusion and stirred-up emotions behind. Judgement is about taking stock in life, either consciously or subconsciously. The numbers 0 and 21, Fool and the World, are on the top row, then from number 1 to 5, 6 to 10, 11 to 15 and 16 to 20 from top left corner to bottom right corner.
