Pork Photo: Like any other language, American has its idioms. Here are a selection of them. Does something resemble birdseed perhaps? Was the meal too small? Put up your dukes Your what? Bought the farm So, did someone actually close on a real estate deal? Perhaps they bought a farm instead of a house and financially over-burdened themselves? Of course not, that would be far too easy. There are a few supposed etymologies knocking around, mainly to do with WW2 soldiers crashing planes, but lexicographer Dave Wilton pooh-poohs them and claims the phrase has been around for much longer. Again, there are several versions of the origin but its general association is with drugs. Brits in the U. Shoot the breeze So, you see a friend and end up shooting the breeze for an hour? Did you a get out your air rifles, or b take advantage of the weather and fly kites? One explanation is that in the old days, particularly in the Wild West, people with time on their hands would literally shoot into the air at nothing. The phrase is a reference to one John Hancock, a signatory of the Declaration of Independence; his signature was one of the more flamboyant on the document. They carried their belongings in over-sized carpetbags. Originally a rain check was a baseball term whereby, if the game was rained out, spectators received a rain check or ticket to allow them entrance to a future game. These days it has little to do with weather and is used more widely, to mean that the event will be re-scheduled for a mutually agreeable date. When turning down a dinner invitation, for example, you can subtly communicate your desire to be re-invited by asking for a rain check. Pork Ah yes, I know this one.

Treasury of great American sayings by Leonard Spinrad, Thelma Spinrad, , Parker Pub. Co. edition, in English.

Not all these authors are from the U. I like to see a man proud of the place in which he lives. I like to see a man live so that his place will be proud of him. It must be sung together. Browne May the glory of America never cease to shine. He means that he loves an inner air, an inner light in which freedom lives and in which a man can draw the breath of self-respect. Your country is the land where your parents sleep, where is spoken that language in which the chosen of your heart, blushing, whispered the first word of love; it is the home that God has given you that by striving to perfect yourselves therein you may prepare to ascend to him. It is the American dream. Finding and maintaining that perfect, delicate balance between freedom "to" and freedom "from. It is a political and moral fact - the first community in which men set out in principle to institutionalize freedom, responsible government, and human equality. Smith, "America" Ours is the only country deliberately founded on a good idea. America is a human brotherhood or it is chaos. By uniting we stand, by dividing we fall. Well, that is the way I know I am an American. America is the only idealistic nation in the world. So it was in the beginning. So it shall always be, while God is willing, and we are strong enough to keep the faith. Johnson America is another name for opportunity. Our whole history appears like a last effort of divine providence on behalf of the human race. Ingersoll It is the love of country that has lighted and that keeps glowing the holy fire of patriotism. Horace McFarland "Our country, right or wrong. Roosevelt Some Americans need hyphens in their names, because only part of them has come over; but when the whole man has come over, heart and thought and all, the hyphen drops of its own weight out of his name. How little do my countrymen know what precious blessings they are in possession of, and which no other people on earth enjoy! Clinton My favorite thing about the United States? Lots of Americans, one America. It is also owed to justice and to humanity. Patriotism consists not in waving the flag, but in striving that our country shall be righteous as well as strong. May those who seek the blessings of its institutions and the protection of its flag remember the obligations they impose. Grant For what avail the plough or sail, or land or life, if freedom fail? Brandeis Men love their country, not because it is great, but because it is their own. The people who inhabit its hills and valleys are its soul, its spirit, its life. Cohan We need a type of patriotism that recognizes the virtues of those who are opposed to us The old "manifest destiny" idea ought to be modified so that each nation has the manifest destiny to do the best it can - and that without cant, without the assumption of self-righteousness and with a desire to learn to the uttermost from other nations. Wilkie We on this continent should never forget that men first crossed the Atlantic not to find soil for their ploughs but to secure liberty for their souls. But we must not let America grow old in spirit. Humphrey A real patriot is the fellow who gets a parking ticket and rejoices that the system works. And it is a solemn and weighty responsibility, and not lightly to be flung aside at the bullying of pulpit, press, government, or the empty catch-phrases of politicians. You cannot shirk this and be a man. To decide it against your convictions is to be an unqualified and inexcusable traitor, both to yourself and to your country, let men label you as they may. If you alone of all the nation shall decide on way, and that way be the right way accordng to your convictions of the right, you have done your duty by yourself and by your countryâ€”hold up your head. Humphrey You cannot spill a drop of American blood without spilling the blood of the whole world We are not a nation, so much as a world. God gave all men all earth to love, But since our hearts are small, Ordained for each one spot should prove Beloved over all. Kennedy The American Revolution was a beginning, not a consummation.
