I've been hoping to read Victoria Michaels' contemporary romance Trust in Advertising for some time. The romance is fun and flirty, the villain unspeakably vain, and the character development quite strong.

Read Online Lexi White finds herself at a crossroads. After putting everything on hold to care for her ailing father, its finally time for her to start living her life again. An exciting new job holds the promise of a fresh start, until she comes face to face with someone from her past who has always stopped her dead in her tracks, and who evidently still has the power to make her forget her own name. This time around, Lexi is a grown woman who refuses to back away from her dreams, even if it requires working with her old high school crush. Will he end up being her downfall or exactly what she needs? Vincent doesnt even remember Lexi from high school, but he begins to take notice when the fiery young woman is hired as his new assistant. Quickly, Lexi turns his world upside down and becomes an invaluable addition not only to his team, but to his life. Having learned a few hard lessons about trust in the past, Vincent is reluctant to let down his guard, especially when it appears that someone is out to sabotage his familys advertising agency. Professionally, they are dynamite together, but when sparks fly between them personally, will Vincent let lies and jealousy ruin everything between them, or will he finally learn not only how to love, but ultimately trust Victoria Michaels once again delivers a cant-put-it-down novel loaded with engaging characters, cheeky dialogue, and powerful emotions. Trust in Advertising is a cleverly woven tale about two people getting to know each other and ultimately themselves The romance is fun and flirty, the villain unspeakably vain, and the character development quite strong. Lexi White is a twenty-something young woman trying to find her way. When her father became ill, Lexi decided to forgo an Ivy League scholarship to take care of him until his death. Hope convinces Lexi to take a chance on her dream job in advertising. But Lexi the former wallflower is no shrinking violet. She stands her ground with sweetness and determination. Hope gets into the act when she comments on why so many of the male models around Jade are gay: Immediately, Lexi felt something hard beneath her foot. Madison rummaged through the bag before pulling out the biggest, pinkest, most disgustingly feather-laden hat. She told me when she got here. It was a very big deal. I really enjoyed the exploration of trust in the story, and I totally swooned for Vincent. My one criticism is that I think the editing could have been tighter. In particular, I think the dialogue toward the end was a bit too long and flowery. Vincent is your typical Alpha hero; tall, dark, handsome, rich, and distrustful. Lexi is the independent, tenderhearted, sassy heroine. I loved them both! The author was just as dedicated to fully developing all the friends, co workers and family. I will read whatever I can get my hands on from V. The only thing missing for me was a steamy love scene, especially after all the playful teasing. This is a PG read. He was a major dickhead who spent most of the book in a relationship with someone else, but not allowing that small detail to put him off flirting with the female lead who is also his employee. But, since I am a silver lining kind of gal I will take several learning points from this experience: Should Lexi ever need to take a few days off, I could totally step in and cover her duties for her. Everything from answering the phone to operating the photocopier to preparing a PowerPoint presentation for a big pitch was covered so thoroughly and in so much detail that I know I could be that girl. It took me a lot of patience to finish the book. At least I finished it. Not my cup of tea. This book is SO boring!!!! Not even a little flirting!! And the rest of the story line just rambles on and on This is supposed to be a romance right!? So I give up! So I went back and finished it. It was like reading a Harlequin from thirty years ago where the secretary is in love with boss. A boy who had no At the risk of sounding like a pervert. A boy who had no idea she even existed except for when he was cheating off her in class. She gets a job to only be surprised when her boss is Mr. Popular from high school. With all the mixed signals he gives her and the fact that he stays with his evil girlfriend most of the book, I was ready to write him off as the hero and was wishing that Lexi would find someone better. She kept things interesting when the hero and heroine failed to do so. Kids sports, meetings, homework and general family fun take up twenty-seven hours of her day. In her thirty seconds of free time, Victoria likes to read, write and travel the country with her husband. She most enjoys writing about love and laughter, two things that are central to her everyday life. If you would like to Trust in Advertising 73 Author: She told me when she got here. The way the sunlight sparkled off the rhinestones that outlined the hat sent Lexi into hysterics. But, sure, Lexi, you can wear it and be a cowgirl! Vincent leaned in even closer, pretending to adjust her hat. Lexi was saved from any more embarrassment by, of all people, Sean. Sean swung her around in circles as her feet dangled above the ground. I was waiting for you. She had forgotten all about it with the excitement of the presentation, but now she was swamped with guilt for not confessing sooner. She was thrilled to have them all there, one big, happy family. There was no way Lexi would ruin that for her, so she agreed to table her confession until later. But first thing tomorrow, she would tell Vincent everything and accept the fallout. Madison clapped her hands as she skipped across the room. And I need to find a hat for Uncle Sean. This was kinda juicy gossip. Between that and the blow up with Tony, the rumor mill had plenty of fresh fodder to work with. Then an even more horrible thought popped into her headâ€”Jade. The unresolved conversation between the two of them could be the source of the gossip. And if it was Jade spreading the rumor, Lexi knew it would be more horrible than anything she could ever envision. What were you talking about? Do you two have something to confess? Lexi wished the ground would open up and swallow her whole at that moment. She knew the mere suggestion that she and Vincent had slept together was insane. Lexi understood that he was way out of her league. A tiny angel swooped in at that moment and saved her from her thoughts. Lexi, want to trade? Anna walked over to her husband and tossed Erik what appeared to be a dunce hat with large plastic ears attached to it. Wherever did you find it?

Lexi laughed every time Vincent moved, because more feathers would cascade down from his hat and land in his tea. When he caught Lexi laughing, he picked up the pink nightmares and blew them in her direction. Sean lost a few grapes every time he bent down to sip his tea, and the occasional banana sprang free and tumbled onto the table, making Maddie laugh. The tea party was in full swing. Madison was a wonderful hostess, leading the group in songs and telling stories. She even convinced Sean and Vincent to arm wrestle for the last chocolate chip cookie. As Sean victoriously wiped the crumbs from his chin, a sultry voice halted him. Sean spun around so fast, he nearly fell out of his chair. Grapes spilled off the top of his hat and scattered everywhere. I hope that was okay. Here pick out whatever one you want. Why do I have to be the fruit? Madison excused herself from the table to go search for a magic wand she insisted she needed. When Sean opened up his mouth to complain again, Hope nudged his shoulder. They leaned against the counter and chuckled as Sean continued to stare at Hope. Nice to finally meet you. Really, what the hell are you doing here? Did you miss me, babe? Anna covered her mouth to hide her laughter while Vincent and Erik shook their heads at Sean. Lexi, however, patiently waited for the comeback. Hope sat back in her chair and gave him a long, slow appraisal from head to toe, then shrugged. I was bicycling my arms. The word was bicycle. Nothing about that says bicycle. Madison, your dad stinks at this game. Can we be done? I need to give Maddie her bath anyway and start getting her ready for bed. That noise was a belt. I changed it and fixed the leaking hose. I had to keep it the extra day because the moron sent me the wrong part. She grinned proudly as they ran over to get a closer look. His mouth fell open when she nodded her head. Give it a start.

Trust in Advertising 32 Author: Should I call her? I mean, she wanted to know when you were coming back from your meeting. Before he went in his office, he looked back at Lexi. Want me to go get you a burger for lunch early so you have time to hide the evidence? When she returned to the office, she walked in on a very heated conversation between Sean and Vincent. What are we supposed to do? The shoot is in three hours, and the star of that shoot is currently sitting on the curb with a giant dent in the fender. I hit a card table, not a stone wall. So, I showed up and they handed me the keys to an extremely hot Ferrari Scuderia Spider, a yellow one. The purr of the engine as I went down the highway was â€¦ orgasmic. The gas pedal is very sensitive, and I might have given it a bit too much gas as I dialed my cell phone, and I might have clipped a street vendor. He dove behind a newsstand. But the fake Prada bags and sunglasses went flying when I took out the table. What the hell are we going to do? You are the one up Shit Creek. I need a favorâ€”a huge favor. I have a Ferrari Scuderia with a card table-induced dent that I need fixed. No â€¦ yeah â€¦ I have no idea. Someone I work with did it. I assure you it was an accident. Listen, if I bring it by, can you fix it? We have a photo shoot in three hours. When Lexi flashed him a thumbs up, he began dancing around the room. Run away with me and be my assistant, please? And make sure you bring your checkbook. Where are you and I speeding off to? Then he turned to Sean. The yellow paint glistened in the sunlight. A crowd of people had gathered around and were taking pictures of each other beside the vehicle. Everyone step away from the car.
