This Book shall be called Eskra, because it is the history of the heavenly cycle, Bon. It shall contain the substance of the heavenly records of three thousand three hundred years, of the first regions of the resurrection of the dead. My words are not of the earth, but of heaven. For of the history of the earth ye know already; wherefore I reveal things ye know not of. Be ye profited therein understandingly, for my heavenly kingdoms will be presently for your habitation. And to know also that that heaven referred to in Eskra is not of the higher heavens, etherea, but atmospherea, which heavens travel with the earth around the sun, which heavens were called the lower heavens by the ancients, and by some, the intermediate world. Through which heavens all souls must pass, being first purified and risen in wisdom, ere they can inherit the emancipated worlds in etherea. Nor are these my revelations to mortals only, but to thousands of millions of the spirits of the dead, who know not the plan of the resurrection to higher heavens; but who wander about on the earth, not even knowing the organizations of the kingdoms in my lowest of heavens. Whom I reach by coming to mortals, and to places on the earth where they abide. For many such angels believe the heavens to be as an unorganized wilderness, void of government and instruction and discipline. And by virtue of their presence with mortals, though invisible to them, do inspire mortals with the same darkness. These matters shall be set forth in brief in Eskra; the fullness of which shall be opened unto mortals and angels in time near at hand; for they shall see and read the books in the libraries of these heavens, and learn to know of their own knowledge. Therefore the light of this Book of Eskra is not of one God, or one Lord, or one recording angel, who are constantly succeeding one another, but of the body of the first heavens of the earth for the period of this cycle which is now at the close. God, Son of Jehovih, said: And ye mortals of the earth; for I have said: The time shall surely come when all things shall be revealed to the inhabitants of the earth. Be patient and wise in understanding me; my words are for your resurrection forever, and for the glory of the Creator. And ye angels of heaven, draw near; for I will reveal to you that which is for your own good. The multitude of my kingdoms shall be opened up to your understanding also. And O ye, my high raised Lords and officers of heaven, call up your hosts from far and near. Hear ye the words of your God. Call ye up the mighty ones of Yoganactra and the inhabitants of Theovrahkistan. And call ye up the successors to Hibin, and the primal Gods under him of his six mighty heavens. And to their primal Gods and successors, and to their generals and captains. And to their primal Gods and their successors, and to their generals and captains. And to the plateau of Narid, in the second resurrection, with her two hundred heavenly kingdoms, their Gods and generals and captains and high teachers, Sons and Daughters of Jehovih. And to the plateau of Yakabba, two thousand miles high, with her six hundred heavenly kingdoms, and their Gods and high officers. And to the plateau of Yannurib, two thousand one hundred miles high, with her four hundred heavenly kingdoms, and their Gods and high officers. And the seven plateaux of Havagamatris, with their two thousand heavenly kingdoms, and their Gods and high officers. And the six plateaux of Vraggaomen, with their fourteen hundred heavenly kingdoms, and their Gods and high officers. And the fourteen plateaux of Ghemayumaistra, with their three thousand four hundred heavenly kingdoms, and their Gods and high officers. And to all other plateaux in the heavens of the earth, the atmospherean regions, and to the Gods of all heavenly kingdoms in these lower heavens; the intermediate world of the angels raised up out of the earth. Jehovih called upon me, His Son, saying: Call aloud in My name; with My Voice stir up all these heavenly regions I have named. For My Gods and high-raised officers shall open unto thee their libraries of heavenly books which shall yield up My treasures. I will make the angels of heaven know Me and My word! They shall come together from their countless heavenly kingdoms and places; for My hand and My strong arm is upon them. The labors of My lower heavens shall be clothed in mortal words, and handed down to mortals. My Gods and My primal Gods and generals and captains shall uncover their proceedings before the heavens and the earth. They shall come together and be as one man with one voice, and their word shall be My word. For My prophets have proclaimed it abroad, that the time would come when I would reveal all things unto men; and things that were dark made plain; and things in the light made as heaven, rejoicing. Hear My voice, O angels and mortals! The words of the heavens of the earth are My words, orderly and well disciplined. No man can imitate Me; angels can not counterfeit Me. My words are from the Fountain, that erreth not forever. Whoso seeth My way can not fail to understand; I quibble not, nor beat about the bush. Even Lords and Gods are as nothing in My hands. I trim them up, and prune their orchards in Mine own way; I sift and weigh and assort, for I am Jehovih, the Almighty! I am the sum of the Voice of all the lower heavens; the doings of Gods and high officers; the Person of the word of three thousand years. And My record shall be the standard for mortals and angels for thousands of years to come. Other books and other worlds will be written and spoken, and they shall pass away and be remembered not by angels nor men. But My words, the words of Eskra, will live and endure forever. Then spake God, saying: I am as a link in a great circle, the section of Bon in the solar vortex. During every cycle I come and speak, and my words are not like other words. I plant them on the low earth, and they take root, and grow into a tree that reacheth up into heaven. And the angels of heaven come thither and gather my words, for they are the fruit of everlasting life and of the resurrection of mortals and of the spirits of the dead. Give ear, O ye nations of the earth, and magnify your understanding, for the wisdom of the Almighty. He singleth not out one man or one God, and saith: Behold, by him judge ye Me and My works! Or giveth the history of all the living in one book; the pith of things is the unit sprung from all. Give ear, O man, and be wise in thy judgment, of sure perception and good discernment in the revelations of my words in the cycles past and present. For I summed up all the Gods of the hadan regions of the earth, and all their high officers in the plateaux and heavenly kingdoms thereof, and I named them, God! And in their dominions with mortals I named them, Lord! As one, even God, made I them in my past revelations on the earth. That I might not confuse the judgment of men! And all the heavenly places of the earth, the atmospherean heavens, which travel with the earth around the sun, I named, hada, the intermediate world, the lower heaven. Through which none can pass to the etherean heaven till purged of self, and made spotless, pure and strong in spirit. Of this hadan heaven, and of her Gods and their labors made I two words, God and heaven, and Eskra is the sermon thereof. In which ye nations of the earth, and ye angels of heaven shall profit in spirit; as by experience past, the future becometh fortified in wisdom and strength. And whoso loved evil and practiced it, I named, satan; and whoso combined, as angels or as mortals, to make anarchy, I named, evil workers for hell. As God and heaven are of the resurrection, so are satan, hell and the devil of the declension. To one or other, resurrection or declension, belong all men on the earth, and to one or the other belong all the spirits of the dead. None can stand still; all the living are on the move forever. Jehovih is Life, Motion, Individual, Person! In proof of which, He gave unto thee life, motion, individuality, person. To develop these four entities is resurrection toward Him, more and more, which is heavenly. To neglect them, or pervert them, is to go away from Him, which is declension, which can lead to entire destruction. No man can be life for another; nor motion, nor individuality, nor person for another. For himself, and to himself, hath Jehovih created him with these. Nor can any of the Gods, however exalted, give to or take away these things. For even though the highest-raised angels may attain to turn the earth over, or to dissolve it, as the air in the firmament, or create a new earth, yet none of these can create life, or motion, or an individual, or person. These are from Jehovih and in Him; and all angels, the Gods and Lords, and generals and captains and chiefs in heaven are but the brothers and sisters of mortals and the spirits of the dead. And yet, O man of the earth, and thou, angel of the heavens of the earth, be not puffed up or make light of the Gods, or Lords, or Saviors, or Chiefs of the heavens, for thou art compared to them but as a drop of water is compared to the ocean. As a man amongst you employeth a thousand men to do his bidding, so have I, your God, thousands of millions of angels to speak in my name. Put not off my words, saying: It is but your conscience speaking. According to the capacities and talents of such mortals as practice my commandments, so do I appropriate them to assist in the resurrection. And in the same way do I allot my ashars to abide with you; to the musician, angel musicians; to the philosopher, angel philosophers; to the historian, angel historians; to the cosmographer, angel cosmographers; to the revelator, angel revelators; even so unto all men who seek to serve Jehovih by doing good. And these my ashars, which I place over you, are not individual angels, merely acting and speaking their own notions, but are organized companies of thousands of millions, who labor through a chief angel, called

Lord; and all of them are in concord with me and my kingdoms, directed by my Holy Council, of millions of angels high in wisdom, which is directed by me, your God, even as I am one with other Gods, who are one with Jehovih. What my angels do in truth and wisdom, for righteousness sake, these I ratify in heaven; what I do in heaven, my angels do and reveal unto you in my name. This is the labor of God after the dawn of the arc of Bon: And God allotted to every one of them one hundred messengers and fifty heralds, and gave them authority to provide their own attendants in their own way. That I may hear the voices of my Lords, when ye are within your own kingdoms, ye shall appoint representatives unto my throne. And there shall be of such representative Lords one for every four hundred Lords of the Hosts. And the representative Lords shall be speakers for the kingdoms that appoint them, and have power on important occasions to summon to my throne all their constituent Lords. And the representative Lords shall be known in heaven and entered in the libraries thereof as the Holy Eleven, for they are symbolical of the seasons on the earth. Now therefore the Lords of the Hosts elected the Holy Eleven, and God anointed them, and their names were entered in the libraries of the heavens. These then are the Holy Eleven, to wit:

Twelve families bid farewell to their loved ones with grief stricken hearts as they search for justification in an indefensible act. Parents burying their children is a disruption in life's natural process, for it is children who should lay their parents to rest.

The discussion page may contain suggestions. October The Twelve Kingdoms is a series of novels that focus on a world inspired by Chinese mythology, where twelve different kingdoms exist under the rule of an individual chosen by the Tians. The series does not exclusively focus on one character, though the stories of Youko Nakajima, the protagonist of the first novel, and Taiki, the protagonist of the second book, are most prevalent in the series. List of Twelve Kingdoms characters One of the major stories of the series centers around a red-haired girl named Youko Nakajima from Japan who is suddenly transported to the world of the Twelve Kingdoms and searches for her destiny. However, neither the series nor the anime concentrates solely on Youko and they do tell stories of other characters. The anime uses Youko as a framing device for telling other stories while the novels do not. The novels focus on several characters other than Youko, including Taiki, a timid rare black Kirin who serves the ruler of Tai, and Enki and Shouryuu, the Kirin and King of En respectively. Each of the Twelve Kingdoms has a monarch and a kirin, a mythological beast who first selects and then serves the monarch of his or her kingdom and can assume human form. Though only a few rulers and Kirin are in the main focus of the story, many are encountered in the series and play a significant role. Setting[ edit ] The Twelve Kingdoms tells several stories from the world of the Twelve Kingdoms, located on several islands in another dimension accessible from our world through portals created from naturally-occurring magic though the other way around is normally impossible. On the islands, magic works and societies similar to classical Japan and China exist. While the inhabitants of the kingdoms are aware of the existence of our world as the lands of Hourai Japan and Kunlun China , the reverse is not true for the inhabitants of Hourai and Kunlun. The inhabitants of the kingdoms speak a different language than the languages of our world, both of which can be learned by either side. Only through extraordinary circumstances can the two worlds affect each other to a respective certain extent. In this world, there are a total of thirteen lands. At the center of the world lies the Koukai the Yellow Sea and Five Mountains where the Gods communicate their will to the Twelve Kingdoms of the world. The ruler will have immortal life as long as they keep the kingdom healthy and their heads are not severed from their body. The Koukai, known as the Yellow Sea , is surrounded by four inland seas: Five Mountains - A group of mountains that is located on an island in the center of the Yellow Sea. Mount Ka - A mountain in the western part of the Four Mountains, it is said to be the residence of Seioubo. Mount Kaku - A mountain in the southern part of the Five Mountains. Mount Kou - A mountain the northern part of the Five Mountains. It is said to be a good place to hunt for Youjyuu. Suukou - The highest of the Five Mountains which is said to be where Tentei resides. Kongou Mountains - A series of mountain ranges that surrounds the Yellow Sea and separates it from the other four inland seas. Each of its four ranges is between the four major gates. A shoku is the only way to cross the Kyokai. Kyokai separates the outer kingdoms of Hou, Ren, Shun, and Tai from the eight mainland kingdoms. Twelve Kingdoms[ edit ] Map of the Twelve Kingdoms. En - The Kingdom of En is a flourishing kingdom of the Twelve Kingdoms that is between Kei and Ryuu and is one of the four "middle" kingdoms. It is ruled by Shoryu who has reigned for years. Han - The Kingdom of Han is the westernmost kingdom which is known for its artisans and craftsman. It is ruled by Ranjou. Hou - The Kingdom of Hou is the northwestern outland kingdom that is separated from the eight mainland kingdoms by the Kyokai. It was ruled by Chuutatsu until he was killed by Gekkei. It is ruled by Youko Nakajima. Kou - The Kingdom of Kou is the first kingdom that Youko Nakajima sets foot in and is one of the four "middle" kingdoms. It was formerly ruled by the unnamed King of Kou. It is ruled by Shushou. Ren - The Kingdom of Ren is the southwestern outland kingdom that is separated from the eight mainland kingdoms by the Kyokai. It is currently ruled by Seitaku. It is currently ruled by Rohou. It is currently ruled by Kouko. Shun - The Kingdom of Shun is the southeastern outland kingdom that is separated from the eight mainland kingdoms by the Kyokai. It is known for its precious stones and medicinal springs. It is currently ruled by Senshin whose year reign is longest of the current rulers of the Twelve Kingdoms. Tai - The Kingdom of Tai is the northeastern outland kingdom that is separated from the eight mainland kingdoms by the Kyokai. Known for its harsh winters, the kingdom was ruled by Gyousou until his disappearance. Publication[ edit ] There are eight novels in the Twelve Kingdoms series, including two short story collections. The novels are illustrated by Akihiro Yamada. Some of the novels have been published in two volume editions such that the total number of volumes consists of twelve books as released in Japan.

3: Virtual World: Close Combat Mage - Chapter - Thousand Miles Drunk's Reply - Gravity Tales

Hope you enjoy this music lyrics. My first one, hope it's good. Please comment, and hope you love this song like I do!

This meant that each of them had sent two or three letters on average. While there were some who had only sent one letter, most had sent two or three letters over; in fact, a handful of them had mailed him four or five letters. What was regretful, though, was that none of the mails was a letter of challenge that Gu Fei had been hoping to find. Through their joint effort, Gu Fei and Young Master Han managed to compose one hundred twelve letters of reply; the name of each recipient was written properly across the surface of every envelope. Gu Fei nodded his head, hugged the stack of letters, and left for the mailbox. Arriving at the mailbox by one of the city gates, Gu Fei slowly slotted each letter into the mailbox and was charged a nominal fee for each letter. While the one hundred twelve players bore the cost of their letters separately, Gu Fei now had to pay the full cost of all by himself when replying. Gu Fei only closed the lid of the mailbox after putting all the letters in it for a bit, but when he opened it again in the next moment, he saw that the mailbox was already empty. All of the letters he had put inside it were already sent out. Accomplishing this task, he looked at the time and saw that only thirty minutes were left until the start of the mercenary PvP tournament. He had been waiting for a reply to his letter from last night until now. As time went by and he still did not get a reply, Youthful Reflection began to wonder, Just how did my beautifully crafted letter fail to sway him? He then decided to give up on the matter. Youthful Reflection was glad he did not brag about his plan to his men after sending that letter last night; otherwise, he would really be shooting himself in his foot. As he was thinking of this, the system suddenly notified him: He was an Archer with a full-Agility build, so he swiftly arrived at the mailbox. Heart filled with trepidation, Youthful Reflection opened the mailbox and gingerly retrieved the letter within. Since the system generated the name itself, how else could it be faked? Youthful Reflection sprinted toward the teleportation array while he rapidly tore off the envelope to retrieve the letter within. However, this letter was written by Young Master Han, so Youthful Reflection was abruptly sent straight up to the pearly gates of heaven "for now. Thousand Miles Drunk revealed in the letter. As for how this could be done, Thousand Miles Drunk asked Youthful Reflection to think of this himself since he was regrettably not good at coming up with any combat strategy. Did he wish for everyone to participate in the match or just the elite members? This was a question that the whole of Yunduan City was also wondering about. Youthful Reflection hurriedly sent out a message on the mercenary channel before rushing over to the teleportation array by the Hall of Mercenaries. Out of the thirty members he was choosing for this match, he made sure to include ten Archers and ten Thieves before filling up the remaining spots with the other job classes. Youthful Reflection had always been the commander and tactician of Traversing Four Seas Guild, so he had always had more authority than Guild Leader Oathless Sword when it came to this matter. No one objected to his decision once he announced it. They are very afraid of it! Youthful Reflection would definitely be shedding bitter tears if he could see Gu Fei right now. How about we just kill them all directly? It reminded him of the times he had fought alongside Amethyst Rebirth. We should also learn to enjoy this tournament from time to time. He never questioned anything and always exuded an aura of resolve that bolstered the confidence of the people around him. Brother Assist habitually looked over to Sword Demon to search for his own self-confidence, which he successfully managed to find this time as well. The key here is to save your strength. The three immediately spotted a group of people in the distance upon securing a vantage point, but they could not discern how many players there were due to them being very far away. Is that all thirty of them? He felt that something was off with how Young Master Han had positioned their group today. Usually, they would all head to a high ground to spy on the enemies first before sending the attack squad on their way. Why did he split the group from the get-go? Just as he said this, several arrows could be heard flying toward their flank. Although the enemy Archers used the same skill, due to their individual equipment and stats, they had different range and attack speed, and this caused their arrows to fly toward the three at different speed. Young Master Han accurately grasped the timing and heading direction of these arrows and swiftly bestowed Heal on War Without Wounds. The arrows were indeed aimed at War Without Wounds. War Without Wounds was an experienced combatant, so he reacted swiftly to this surprise attack. Advancing a few steps forward, he unleashed Cyclone with his two claymores. As expected, the Archers were not the only ones trying to kill him off; Thieves were also trying to stab him sneakily from behind. The Cyclone he had unleashed insta-killed these two Thieves on Stealth. Things are looking dire! Youthful Reflection, who had personally led this team over to conduct the ambush, was currently quietly giggling to himself. Two points were mentioned in the letter: This was because anyone could easily find out the amount of players participating in the match through the system. If the letter was fake, then the opponent would surely use this particular point to set a trap and lure them into an ambush. War Without Wounds turned his head around after killing the two Thieves, only to discover that Young Master Han had already been surrounded by three Thieves! Furthermore, the Archers had fired off a second volley of arrows toward him. He simply had no means to save himself from such a concentrated attack no matter how skilled he really was and turned into a beam of white light in a matter of seconds. War Without Wounds let out a furious bellow as he aimed his Charge toward the Thieves. War Without Wounds knocked a Thief into a Dizzy state as he cut the hapless sap down with a few broad strokes of his claymores. Meanwhile, the other two Thieves used this opportunity to get away from him. This was when an innumerable amount of arrows came flying straight to him. It was under this concerted assault of all the speed-based job classes that War Without Wounds had finally been sent out of the map. As for Brother Assistâ€¦ He was also taken out unceremoniously by the enemies. With this successful ambush, Youthful Reflection sighed in relief as a delighted smile formed on his lips. It was at this point that he spoke the line that Young Master Han had been waiting for. It was a command that would ultimately affect the outcome of this match. It is technically for sending instant messages via a mobile provider that constitutes about one hundred sixty characters.

4: The Twelve Kingdoms - Wikipedia

A Thousand Miles of Wind, the Sky at Dawn, éç"ã•@ä,†é†CE é»Žæ~Žã•@ç©º, Kaze no Banri, Reimei no Sora is the fourth novel in The Twelve Kingdoms fantasy series written by Fuyumi Ono.

Every person, both young and old, of every race and color, naturally believes in a god, or in a supreme being of some kind, if he is endowed with a normal mind. We find a longing for God in hearts all over the world. Plutarch said that in his day one might travel the world over, and still would not be able to find a city without temples and gods. I do not say there is no God. The Bible makes no attempt to prove, or to argue for, the existence of God. Everywhere and at all times it is a fact taken for granted. The Bible simply accepts God without any proof. How can we account for all the things around us that we see and experienceâ€”the birds, the rocks, the trees, the stars? There can be no effect without a cause; no book without an author; no creation without a creator; and so there can be no design without a designer. And since this universe on which we live is a great effect, there must of necessity have been an original cause sufficient to produce it. Suppose there was a man walking along the road. He strikes his foot against a watch lying in the dust. He picks it up. He sees that it consists of a metal case, and inside the case a complicated arrangement of wheels and levers and springs. He sees that the whole thing is moving and working in the most orderly way. What then does he say? The atoms simply danced together from the ends of the earth by chanceâ€”and by chance made themselves into wheels and levers and springsâ€”by chance assembled themselves into this complicated mechanismâ€”by chance wound themselves up and set themselves going. If there is a design, there must of necessity be a designer behind that design! We look at the world about us and we see a vast machine which is in perfect working order. We have discussed an evidence for the existence of God outside the Bible, but we can never really know God through observing the stars and rocks and the flowers. From these we know that God is all wise and all powerful, and that He loves things beautiful and colorful, but we can never know His name and who He is, just by looking at the stars and the trees. Nature reveals the existence of God, but it tells nothing about His moral character. And remember, it is not enough to simply have a belief in a god, we must come to know the one true and living Godâ€”and the one true God Jehovah, the Self-Existent One has chosen to reveal Himself in the Holy Scriptures. And so in the Bible we have a full revelation of what God is really like. The Nature of God God is infinite. There is no limit to His Being, and therefore He cannot be compressed into any one definition, but we can put into verbal form our understanding of the Almighty as He has chosen to reveal Himself in the Holy Scriptures. The fourth chapter of John records the conversation of Jesus with the Samaritan woman. It is true that God is said to have hands and arms and eyes and ears, but these are anthropomorphic expressions used to bring the infinite within the comprehension of the finite. It is true that God revealed Himself to men in various physical forms. God is invisible, without body, and therefore free from all limitations. It is difficult for us to understand this because we are trying to understand Him with our finite minds. God is not apprehended by the senses, but by the soul. A spirit can be a person. God is not merely a cloudy vapor, or an influence, or subconsciousness. He is a living Person having knowledge, feeling, love, and all the qualifications that distinguish persons from the animal world. God walked in Eden in the cool of the day. God was a friend to Abraham. God is a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children. God is not a blind unconscious force working in this world. He is a Person in the sense that He thinks, feels, forgives, sympathizes, and has all the other expressions of personality. God is not a hazy, indefinite, blindly operating, omnipotent Force. God is a person. It is a deep mystery. I do not understand it all, and we have no space to discuss it further here, but the Bible teaches that God is one in essence, and yet at the same time He is three in Person. Concerning the nature of God, God is spirit He has no material body ; God is person He manifests all the expressions of personality ; God is triune He is one in essence, but three in person. For additional information about the Trinity, see Bible Helps booklet No. Father, Son, and Holy Spirit. The Attributes of God By the attributes of God, we simply mean the characteristics or the qualities which describe His Being. He knows all things. He knows your name, your address, your telephone number, and even the number of hairs on your head. Not a single thing occurs in any place without His notice. He knows our thoughts before they are fully developed, and our sentences before they are spoken. He is everywhere present. This does not mean that God is everywhere present in the same sense, for there is a sense in which He is in Heaven, His dwelling place, and yet God is everywhere and in every place. Do not I fill heaven and earth, saith the Lord? He is all powerful. And in Genesis He had neither beginning nor ending. He never came into being, He never began to be, He always was! Before the beginning began, God was. The Bible declares Him to be the Light in whom there is no darkness at all. God is the one Supreme Being without blemish or flaw. Justice is that attribute which leads God always to do right. Actually, God is both merciful and gracious. There is a difference between mercy and grace. Instead of inflicting pain and poverty and death which are the wages of sin, God has spared our lives, and increased our blessings, and given us eternal life. Christianity is the only religion that sets forth the Supreme Being as love. The gods of the heathen are angry, hateful beings and are in constant need of appeasing. But the true God who is revealed in the Bible is Love. He is not only loving, but God is Love. This passion to give others blessing and happiness is the very essence of His Being. It does not mean that God overlooks sin, but it does mean that in spite of the fact that we have sinned, and that His justice demands a death penalty for our sin, yet His love provides a way of salvation, by which sin can be taken away. These have been the attributes of God. The Bible reveals Him as an all-wise, all-powerful, eternal Being, who is gracious and merciful, slow to anger, and yet righteous in all His doings. The Greatness of God The whole Bible, from the tremendous words of Genesis one to the last verse of the Revelation, gives voice to the infinite greatness and majesty of God. The Bible says in Isaiah I, even my hands have stretched out the heavens, and all their host have I commanded. It staggers the imagination and defies the powers of human understanding. The distance from the earth to the sun is computed at 93 million miles. If you were able to journey to the sun, traveling at the speed of two hundred miles per hour, without any stops, it would take one hundred six years to make the round trip. The sun is more than a million times as big as the earth. If the earth were as large as the sun, and everything on it were as large in proportion, a man six feet tall here on earth would be an eighth of a mile high on the sun; his arms from shoulder to finger-tip would be one hundred sixty feet long; his eyes would be nine feet in diameter; his nose would be fourteen feet long; and his hair would look like a haystack! And this huge sun is a ball of fire. Its great flames flash, miles out into space. Let me ask some questions: How does the sun generate its heat and keep up a temperature of more than twelve thousand degrees year after year, producing a heat that blinds and blisters even at ninety-three million miles? Who keeps shoveling coal into this furnace? The poet Addison says: Our own universe the Milky Way is only one of millions of others, and the Milky Way is so big that it would take light traveling at, miles per second one hundred million years to travel from one end to the other. These heavenly bodies are spinning their way through the skies at amazing speeds. Right now we are moving at the dizzy speed of one thousand miles per hour around the sun, and by this time next year we will have traveled more than nine million miles—all without a creak in the machinery, and so smoothly that scarcely anyone will know that we are taking the journey. The timetable of our movement is so accurate that astronomers can state years beforehand exactly when the next eclipse of the sun or of the moon will take place. The earth circles the sun every days 5 hours 48 minutes 48 seconds, and this pattern has been so accurate that it has not varied one single second throughout the past thousand years! Each year more than ten billion American birds move north and south according to a seasonal schedule. Their habits of migration are fascinating indeed. Some species arrive and depart on the exact day each year. How do these frail and feathered birds find their way over the long stretches of land and sea without a chart or compass? How is it that they can return each summer to the same cluster of trees? Who gave them the instinct or the intelligence to do what seems like the impossible?

1 John Beloved, let us love one another, for love is from God, and whoever loves has been born of God and knows God. Anyone who does not love does not know God, because God is love. Anyone who does not love does not know God, because God is love.

And, even, also, namely. Height, heaven; dignity, eminence. From a derivative of huper; elevation, i. Many interpreters are nervously anxious about the monstrous appearance of a city whose walls measured three thousand stadii the word rendered "furlongs" is properly stadii ; but there is no need to be nervous about the symbols; the city is not designed, any more than the vision of Revelation 4, or the vision of Ezekiel Ezekiel 1 to be represented by painting to the eye: It is not needful, however, in this case to suppose the actual wall to have been 3, stadii in height; the city is placed on a hill, the foundations are upon the holy hill, and the deep strong mountain foundations may be included in the measurement. The main thought, however, is to realise the harmony and proportion of that community, in which broad and low and high will meet, and in which no truth will be exaggerated or distorted; in which no disproportioned adjustments will mar its social order; in which all those who are inbuilt as living stones will be measured, not by the false estimates of worldly thoughts comp. Pulpit Commentary Verse The shape is doubtless typical of that which is complete and symmetrical, to which nothing is wanting to render the shape perfect. And he measured the city with the reed, twelve thousand furlongs. That is, in each direction. The number twelve thousand, which is the number of the sealed in each tribe Revelation 7. The length and the breadth and the height of it are equal. The plain meaning seems to be that the city forms a vast cube, and this is typical of its perfect nature. The account given is that of a vision, and not of a reality, and therefore there is no need to attempt to reduce the enormous dimensions given here, as is done by some writers. The holy of holies was thus cubical in shape 1 Kings 6: Matthew Henry Commentary Sometimes they sound the trumpet of Divine Providence, and warn a careless world; sometimes they discover things of a heavenly nature of the heirs of salvation. Those who would have clear views of heaven, must get as near to heaven as they can, on the mount of meditation and faith. The subject of the vision is the church of God in a perfect, triumphant state, shining in its lustre; glorious in relation to Christ; which shows that the happiness of heaven consists in intercourse with God, and in conformity to him. The change of emblems from a bride to a city, shows that we are only to take general ideas from this description. The wall is for security. Heaven is a safe state; those who are there, are separated and secured from all evils and enemies. This city is vast; here is room for all the people of God. The foundation of the wall; the promise and power of God, and the purchase of Christ, are the strong foundations of the safety and happiness of the church. These foundations are set forth by twelve sorts of precious stones, denoting the variety and excellence of the doctrines of the gospel, or of the graces of the Holy Spirit, or the personal excellences of the Lord Jesus Christ. Heaven has gates; there is a free admission to all that are sanctified; they shall not find themselves shut out. These gates were all of pearls. Christ is the Pearl of great price, and he is our Way to God. The street of the city was pure gold, like transparent glass. The saints in heaven tread gold under foot. The saints are there at rest, yet it is not a state of sleep and idleness; they have communion, not only with God, but with one another. All these glories but faintly represent heaven.

6: 20 Inspirational Bible Verses About God's Love

We left the Merry Maidens, still buzzing with the magic of the stone circle in the mist. Finding nowhere else to park, we turned around, parked once more at the Maidens and walked back to look at what had caught our attention. From the road, it seems to be no more than a couple of stray boulders in the grass of the verge, but in fact, it is a superb example of a Neolithic entrance tomb—a rare type of passage grave. It was once covered by a mound of earth, with only the entrance visible and blocked by a carved stone, but now it stands open to the winds, its capstones exposed, and its occupants long departed. Plan from photograph of information board Hirvedh Treguhyon or Tregiffian Burial Chamber; was first built four to five thousand years ago. Only half of it is now visible, as the road that was built in the late nineteenth century obliterated the rest and its mound is long since gone. Even so, what remains is well worth stumbling upon. The fifteen-foot-long central chamber was constructed with a lining of granite uprights and capped with massive stones, some ten feet long, of which four still remain. The entrance enclosure is still in place, and a replica of the carved stone that once marked its threshold stands guard. The original stone was thought to be so significant that it was taken to the museum in Truro some years ago to protect it from weathering and vandalism. At first glance, the cast reproduction of the cup-marked stone seems no more than a meaningless jumble of depressions, but closer inspection shows the cups to be a mix of circular and elliptical carvings, numbering twelve of one and thirteen of the other. Given the position of the tomb, at the heart of an ancient, sacred landscape littered with standing stones, circles and barrows, many with astronomical alignments, experts began to look at possible meanings. They came to the conclusion that the stone probably refers to the annual lunar cycle—as every year holds either twelve full and thirteen new moons, or vice versa. Quite why our ancestors chose to carve the lunar cycle into stone, we may never know and can only speculate. Some alignments may be easier to understand and explain on a mundane level—full moons would allow activity after sundown, including travel and hunting. Solstice and equinox, for example, would have a bearing on agriculture and the breeding cycle of animals—and we still welcome the ending of the cold, dark womb of winter. The understanding of our dependence upon Nature for survival has always engendered respect for her forces—and respect may, over time, evolve into reverence—and devolve into supplication and propitiation, before seeking another focus and dismissing its former gods as primitive. We tend to forget that our initial respect was for the natural forces that allow us to live on this beautiful planet. If we perceived Spirit in the rocks and trees, the clouds and the rivers—maybe there was a reason for that and by entering into communion with the life around us, we gained a deeper understanding of our own. That our ancestors had deeply-held spiritual beliefs, is evidenced by the care with which they laid their dead to rest. From the simplest stone-lined cist, to the elaborate tombs of monumental stone, no effort was spared. Gifts were given to the dead in the form of grave goods—often the best and rarest of objects would be sent with the dead into the otherworld, and their mortal remains were treated with care and respect. In this one small tomb, half buried beneath the modern road, layer upon layer of burials were found, showing that the tomb was used for generations. Offerings of flint tools were left—and who knows what else—food, or perhaps flowers, that have been devoured by passing millennia. For the two of us who entered the forgotten tomb, our feet washed by the morning and our faces damp with mist, there is always a sense of reverence. We do not know the stories of those whose remains were laid to rest in this place, we do not know their hopes and dreams, their fears, loves or beliefs—but we know that they were not so very different from our own. Millennia apart, they are still our kin, and our bodies remember what time has forgotten. Their past is our future and the dead guard the gates of life. Press a button or two to share

7: God's Book of Eskra

That's five trillion, eight hundred and seventy-three billion, three hundred and twenty-seven million, seven hundred and twelve thousand miles!!! Now multiply this times light years to see how far the NEAREST star is to the earth.

Next Can you finish this well-known saying? Just choose one item to pick up and that will get you going in your quest to clean up your room. But you know, not every journey begins with our effort of placing one foot in front of the other, or of picking up one toy after the next. Take the journey of faith for example. But such a maneuver would bring our journey to a ruinous end. Abraham, or Abram as he was first called, lived about years ago in B. But scatter the people God did when he mixed up their languages. So by the time Abram came along, the Chinese were setting up ruling dynasties, the peoples of the First Nations were planting corn and maize here in North America, and somebody set up eighty big stones in England which we now know as Stonehenge. Abram himself was born and grew up in a city named Ur, which is in present-day Iraq. Ur was a sophisticated city, but it was also a stronghold for idol worship. Although everyone in the world had at one time known that there is only one God who created everything, over time people had begun to come up with their own gods, often making them look like mere mortals. Listen to the way the Bible describes idols. Putting your trust in idols might seem like a silly superstition from the ancient world, but that superstition is still with us. There are still people today who bow down to metal and stone statues, but just as foolish are those who bow before the latest fashions and fads, or who stake their trust on getting a good education and job—as if those things will guarantee them a comfortable life and the smarts to save the world. PhDs and billionaires still get cancer and die in road accidents like the rest of us. Thankfully there is a higher power who is watching over us. It was this God who appeared to Abram. Had God not done so, Abram would have ended up like millions of others—lost and blinded by his own sin and destined for eternal punishment in hell. This same God has also appeared to you. He does care because he wants each one of us to embark on a journey of faith that will end in heaven where we will get to see this God with our own eyes.

After a devastating war, the immortal tribe paid a heavy price to seal the demon lord. years later, in an attempt to re-seal the demon lord who broke free, Bai Qian was sent to the mortal realm.

However, when Enho is kidnapped, Yoko finds herself thrust into an all-out war between the kingdoms. Friendships and alliances are put to the test during the Battle of Wa Province. Can Yoko summon the strength to take up her responsibilities as king? Overview Edit The recently crowned ruler of Kei , Youko Nakajima , has grave doubts about her own suitability to rule. She is surrounded by advisors who bicker among themselves and offer contradictory advice. The only advisor she trusts is the kirin Keiki , and she is unsure whether listening to advice from the softhearted kirin is a good idea. Desperate to learn enough about her kingdom to rule wisely, Youko is sent by Keiki to study with a wise teacher named Enho. When Enho is abducted, Youko seeks to solve the mystery of his capture, only to discover that the corruption in her kingdom runs much deeper than she ever imagined. Suzu Oki , a Japanese girl who was swept away into the Twelve Kingdoms, lives a life of misery serving the cruel mistress Lady Riyo. When she is ordered to climb down a cliff to fetch the kankin plant, she decides that she must run away. She beseeches the help of the queen of Sai , only to be told that she must go elsewhere to seek her destiny. On her way, she meets a curious near-sighted boy named Seishuu. Suzu tells him that if they go to Kei, the queen will restore his vision. However, when they arrive, Seishuu dies when Shisui lord Shoukou drives his carriage over him. On the edge of despair, she discovers that there are others who are willing to fight Shoukou, if only they can be convinced that the time is ripe for revolution. Shoukei is a pampered princess of the Kingdom of Hou. Her idealistic father is killed after being tricked by his scheming wife into executing her harmless rivals, and Shoukei is forced to live secretly as a peasant. When the other peasants discover who she really is, she flees the kingdom. On her journey, she meets the hanjyuu Rakushun , whom she attempts to blame for her thievery. When she arrives in Kei, she witnesses a crucifixion ordered by Wa lord Gahou. Only then does she realize that her calling is to correct mistakes like those made by her father.

9: A Thousand Miles of History XII: Hirvedh Treguhyon | Sue Vincent's Daily Echo

Text says "A journey of a thousand miles begins with a single step" I love this ring! Ordering is easy. A Walk with God.

This is my Beloved, and this is my friend! Song 5: I refer to them as seven garments of light that God wears. How thick is each layer? The Lamb is its light. The angels see even more of His beauty, as the protective covering is lifted—they are overwhelmed as they collapse in the very weight of His Presence. The very light that protects us from His Presence is in itself beautiful but God is even more beautiful than that which protects Him. When Jesus stands up in the eternal city and just moves the weight of His Presence, we will feel it a thousand miles away. There is a tenderizing effect in the weight of His Presence that emanates out of Him. All of the hosts of Heaven and all the redeemed tremble with tenderness in their spirit; the atmosphere is charged with the beauty of God. The fragrance of Jesus is manifold with many dimensions to it. How many scents emanate from God? I assume that there are different fragrances for different occasions in the Eternal City. The Throne of God is described as the mountain of spices. Many diverse types of music are seen on earth in the different cultures and tribes. The voice of God is awesome in power and impact. There are awesome, majestic sounds, including thunder, that shake everything. His face is holy, powerful and awesome, yet warm and inviting. The smile on His face will conquer our heart in love. His eyes are filled with beauty. Seven lamps of fire were burning before the Throne—6 Before the Throne there was a sea of glass, like crystal. His Throne is adorned with seven lamps of fire, an emerald rainbow and the sea of glass like crystal that is filled with flaming fire. In designing ones dream home, some work with the architects from the beginning. They pick the land next to a lake then design the landscape with trees and a flowing brook. They position the house so the sun comes up at just the right place and in the right angle, so that the light is reflected with just the right contrasts. The decor and furniture, etc. God designed His city with the landscape, and the light with colors, as an extension of His beauty. The glory of man is His wife. He chose you as His partner. He imparted His beauty to you. Your beauty is higher than all the rest of created order. The script that God is operating from as He leads history and accomplished redemption reveals His beauty. When we hear a great poem or see an excellent movie, we observe that the poem or movie is beautiful. This reflects its author. God has devised His blueprint for history from before creation. We will be awed by His great mind as we are intoxicated and enthralled with each dimension of the script in which God orchestrates all of history. When God heals, delivers, and provides for us in surprising ways, we see His beauty. His power shows forth His beauty in the earth and heavens; His power manifestations have such beauty in them. There are a million stories behind the manifestations of power in creation and history. He has desire when He looks at you. There is gladness in His heart when He looks at His weak people. Just and true are Your ways, O King of the saints!
