Waves and Splashes Fall Summer Leaves Us. Fall is here and it's time so say goodbye to summer. It was a great summer with plenty of hot days for swimming and.

We visited Aquatica for a media preview day prior to opening, and had an amazing time! We LOVE the lush landscaping, beautiful flowers, fun and colorful buildings, and music playing throughout the Park. Attractions Aquatica San Diego has fun for thrill seekers and kids alike. The Park has water slides, a lazy river, wave pool, and so much more! We love the timer located in the top right hand corner of the attraction, counting down the time until the next set of waves will start rolling in, and the 43, square foot sandy beach area surrounding the attraction. This is a fun area where little ones can slide down short slides, and splash and play all day. Our kids loved it! Plenty of Splashing For The Littles! The older of our three kids are now 5 and 8. Our kids did very well on the big slides they went on, and Big Surf Shores is an area that even our not so strong swimmers can enjoy. They can splash in the shallow area in between the big waves rolling in, and have a blast! We love that big countdown timer to tell when to anticipate the next set of waves! Our kids loved floating down Loggerhead Lane, the lazy river. We even let them go float together without us. Of course, they wore their life jackets. They went over and over. Big Surf Shores is an area that you could totally sit with a baby in between waves as well! We sampled a few different items from different restaurants and enjoyed everything we tried. We ate a full lunch at Banana Beach Cookout, and loved it. This area is buffet style, and when we ate there they served hamburgers, chicken fajitas, macaroni and cheese, salad, and a variety of other items. I believe the menu will mainly stay the same. The birds are up close, allowing you to get a great view of their beautiful wings. We spent close to ten minutes observing them, and visited them several more times throughout our visit. Fresh water turtles also have a home at Aquatica San Diego. These cute little turtles are located near the entry to Big Surf Shores. Be sure to take a few minutes to stop and take a look. When we visited the Waterpark a few special animal guests from SeaWorld San Diego paid a visit, including an American Alligator, a sloth, and a bunny. A rental area is across from the flamingos, close to the entry. Discounts Aquatica San Diego offers discounts for groups of 15 or more persons in a party. By the way, kids age 2 and under are free! Once at the Park, buy a reusable Aquatica beverage cup, and receive discounts on refills when you bring it to each of your visits. Visit the Aquatica San Diego website for more details about group discounts and admission discounts. He loves being social! Tweet to us as well, at socialwithkids! All in all we think that Aquatica San Diego is a super fun Waterpark. For more information, including pricing, hours of operation, and further details about the Park, check out the Aquatica website HERE.
