For so many of us, our trust has been broken. Your job is to build it back. Trust your flow, trust your intuition, and trust yourself. Has this struck a chord? Which of the three is hardest for you? XO with love and Flow!

But they all will die in about a year. Telling parents that their healthy little boy is going to die in a year sucks. But no matter how that conversation starts, it nearly always ends with the same lines from the parents: So you can see why a person would get cynical in a job like this.
