Who Lives Here and Why When prospective clients contact me to live in Longboat Key and Sarasota they generally have a good idea why they want to move here. If they vacation here first they witness the splendid sites and activities this area has to offer.

If they vacation here first they witness the splendid sites and activities this area has to offer. To think of great year around weather your first thought is to draw a mental picture of the beaches and the amount of sunshine that this state has to offer. Florida is a larger state than it may appear, so the complexion of each area represents a different way of life. The hustle of Miami and Ft. Lauderdale, the equestrian lifestyle around Ocala or the college cities of Gainesville and Tallahassee each are attractive in their own ways. Sarasota and the six barrier islands attract a different type of resident. They are looking beyond the great beaches, golfing, restaurants, fishing and boating that other beach communities share in Florida and settle here for a more relaxing life with a home style atmosphere of luxury homes in quaint neighborhoods. For the most part they have worked hard all their life to achieve their status and want to share that with others of similar backgrounds. Neighbors are friends with similar backgrounds but security and privacy is a priority they all share. The list is impressive of those who have purchased real estate here in the Sarasota County area. It is likely that this area originated as an arts center through the contributions that famed circus promoter John and Mable Ringling brought to the area. Nearly a century later of classical arts Sarasota was voted the number one top art destination in the nation for small cities by readers of American Style Magazine. Sarasota is home to the oldest continuing orchestra and the oldest theatre company in the state. It is home to the first professional ballet and opera companies on the Gulf coast of Florida. An annual film festival for one week in April attracts visitors from around the world. A total of 16 teams from the National League and American League have a hefty pre-season schedule in March. Come to Longboat Key and Sarasota for the beaches and sunshine, stay for all that remains. It is my hope that your travels are safe and your visit with family is memorable. The Who Lives Here? series looks at animals in their natural habitats - rain forests, polar regions, deserts and wetlands - and explains how the body and habits of each animal are suited to the place it lives.

The protest, led by Black Lives Matter co-founder Alicia Garza, was organized in response to the grand jury decision not to indict Darren Wilson for the death of Mike Brown. Later, in , protesters and journalists who participated in that rally filed a lawsuit alleging "unconstitutional police attacks" on attendees. Bridge in South Carolina. Louis and across the country. During the encamped protest, protestors, and outside agitators clashed with police, vandalized the station and attempted to ram the station with an SUV. After the march, a group of men carrying firearms and body armor [] appeared and began calling the protesters racial slurs according to a spokesperson for Black Lives Matter. After protesters asked the armed men to leave, the men opened fire, shooting five protesters. The men fled the scene only to be found later and arrested. The three men arrested were young and white, and observers called them white supremacists. The march was held during a Super Bowl event. The shooting led to BLM protests. Richards was convicted of "attempting to unlawfully take a person from the lawful custody of a peace officer", a charge that the state penal code had designated as "lynching" until that word was removed two months prior to the incident. Anthony, Minnesota police officer, after being pulled over in Falcon Heights, a suburb of St. Castile was driving a car with his girlfriend and her 4-year-old daughter as passengers when he was pulled over by Yanez and another officer. As he was putting his hands back up, the officer shot him in the arm four or five times. At the end of the peaceful protest, Micah Xavier Johnson opened fire in an ambush, killing five police officers and wounding seven others and two civilians. The gunman was then killed by a robot-delivered bomb. Governor Dan Patrick and other conservative lawmakers blamed the shootings on the Black Lives Matter movement. To me, this is bigger than football and it would be selfish on my part to look the other way. There are bodies in the street and people getting paid leave and getting away with murder," [] a protest widely interpreted as in solidarity with the Black Lives Matter movement. The show featured more than 30 diverse multicultural artists on a theme exploring racial equality and justice.

Sometimes it is necessary to find out who lives around you, without going door to door introducing yourself. Either way, it is a good idea to see exactly who lives here. It is important that we all maintain a certain level of security in our lives. One of the ways that we can help to maintain our own safety is to know at all times who lives here. One way that you can do this is to use an online search service. All you need to note is the address and you can find out who lives here in the house you are curious about. There are several types of online search databases which are updated often. Several types of government offices collect personal data on a regular basis and then it is consolidated so that it may be referenced. If you have moved into the neighborhood and want to tap into this vast amount of data, all you have to do is do a simple search online to find a service which offers all of this information at your fingertips. You can easily find out who lives here if you use this type of service. When you first start looking for a property data service to tell you who lives here, you will notice that there are many companies which offer this service. You should be very careful which service you choose, because some of these are nothing more than scam sites. Some of these scam sites will want you to pay an upfront fee before you can do any type of search at all. Then when you finally paid in getting into the site, it will be no more than a phone directory, which does not tell you who lives here, because it is out of date. You can tell a quality property search data service in several different ways. First make sure that the website has been around for more than just a couple of months. The longer a site has been around generally is a good indicator that it is providing a legitimate service. Usually whenever a scam site is put up it is only good for a few months before it is shut down for being worthless. In order to find out who lives here, you need a reliable source of information. Most of the legitimate property data search sites will allow you to do a search to see if there is any data on a property, and find the owner who lives here, but they will give you limited information up front. After you pay the subscription fee, they will then allow you to see all of the details of who lives here, and all the information they have available for that particular property. Depending upon the service, you may be able to find even more information. The Internet has enabled the average citizen to take action steps to make sure they are secure in their own home. You will feel much safer knowing who lives here beside you. With just a few strokes of the keyboard it is possible for anyone to find out who lives near them by using a property data search service.

Animal Adaptations Animals all have unique adaptations that make it possible for them to live and survive in different habitats. Draw a line through the characteristic that does not belong with the animal.

Nicholas was famous for his generous gifts to the poor, in particular presenting the three impoverished daughters of a pious Christian with dowries so that they would not have to become prostitutes. In continental Europe more precisely the Netherlands, Belgium, Austria, the Czech Republic and Germany he is usually portrayed as a bearded bishop in canonical robes. The remains of Saint Nicholas are in Italy. In , the Italian city of Bari mounted an expedition to locate the tomb of the Saint. The reliquary of St. Nicholas was conquered by Italian sailors and his relics were taken to Bari [8] [9] where they are kept to this day. A basilica was constructed the same year to store the loot and the area became a pilgrimage site for the devout. These were collected by Venetian sailors during the First Crusade and taken to Venice , where a church to St. This tradition was confirmed in two important scientific investigations of the relics in Bari and Venice , which revealed that the relics in the two Italian cities belong to the same skeleton. Saint Nicholas was later claimed as a patron saint of many diverse groups, from archers , sailors, and children to pawnbrokers. This date was earlier than the original day of gifts for the children, which moved in the course of the Reformation and its opposition to the veneration of saints in many countries on the 24th and 25 December. So Saint Nicholas changed to Santa Claus. The custom of gifting to children at Christmas has been propagated by Martin Luther as an alternative to the previous very popular gift custom on St. Nicholas, to focus the interest of the children to Christ instead of the veneration of saints. Martin Luther first suggested the Christkind as the bringer of gifts. But Nicholas remained popular as gifts bearer for the people. Father Christmas dates back as far as 16th century in England during the reign of Henry VIII , when he was pictured as a large man in green or scarlet robes lined with fur. Schmutzli carries a twig broom to spank the naughty children. History Origins Pre-modern representations of the gift-giver from Church history and folklore, notably St Nicholas known in Dutch as Sinterklaas , merged with the English character Father Christmas to create the character known to Americans and the rest of the English-speaking world as "Santa Claus" a phonetic derivation of "Sinterklaas". In the English and later British colonies of North America, and later in the United States, British and Dutch versions of the gift-giver merged further. This has usually been a very busy day with me, preparing for Christmas not only for my own tables, but for gifts for my servants. No confectionary, cakes, or pies can I have. We are all sad; no loud, jovial laugh from our boys is heard. How disappointed she will be in the morning, though I have explained to her why he cannot come. Why must the innocent suffer with the guilty? This entry from Mrs. Army mop-up companies and stragglers during those intervening weeks continued to "forage", loot, burn, and liberate slaves, hence, the concern of Mrs. Burge and her household. It contained Old Santeclaus with Much Delight , an anonymous poem describing Santeclaus on a reindeer sleigh, bringing presents to children. Nick is described as being "chubby and plump, a right jolly old elf" with "a little round belly", that "shook when he laughed like a bowlful of jelly", in spite of which the "miniature sleigh" and "tiny reindeer" still indicate that he is physically diminutive. The reindeer were also named: Santa was dressed in an American flag , and had a puppet with the name " Jeff " written on it, reflecting its Civil War context. In , the poet Katharine Lee Bates popularized Mrs. The editorial, which included the famous reply " Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus ", has become an indelible part of popular Christmas lore in the United States and Canada. When Ak, Master Woodsman of the World, exposes him to the misery and poverty of children in the outside world, Santa strives to find a way to bring joy into the lives of all children, and eventually invents toys as a principal means. He is wearing a mask with a beard attached. The image of Santa Claus as a benevolent character became reinforced with its association with charity and philanthropy, particularly by organizations such as the Salvation Army. Volunteers dressed as Santa Claus typically became part of fundraising drives to aid needy families at Christmas time. In , Charles W. Howard , who played Santa Claus in department stores and parades, established the Charles W. Howard Santa School, the oldest continuously-run such school in the world. Eventually, the idea emerged that he had numerous elves responsible for making the toys, but the toys were still handmade by each individual elf working in the traditional manner. The popular song by George Melachrino , "Mrs. Claus in the popular imagination. Other modern additions to the "story" of Santa include Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer , the 9th and lead reindeer immortalized in a Gene Autry song, written by a Montgomery Ward copywriter. In popular culture See also: SantaCon By the end of the 20th century, the reality of mass mechanized production became more fully accepted by the Western public. Claus as executives or managers. A real-time warehouse management system WMS is of course required to run such a complex. The facility makes extensive use of task interleaving, literally combining dozens of DC activities putaway, replenishing, order picking, sleigh loading, cycle counting in a dynamic queue The WMS and transportation system are fully integrated, allowing the elves to make optimal decisions that balance transportation and order picking and other DC costs. Unbeknownst to many, Santa actually has to use many sleighs and fake Santa drivers to get the job done Christmas Eve, and the transportation management system TMS optimally builds thousands of consolidated sacks that maximize cube utilization and minimize total air miles. Santa has been described as a positive male cultural icon: Santa is much more organic, integral, connected to the past, and therefore connected to the future. Claus were running a sweatshop over there In the Kyrgyz capital, Bishkek , a Santa Claus Festival was held on 30 December , with government officials attending. The events are seen as moves to boost tourism in Kyrgyzstan. In pre-Christian Norse tradition, Odin would often enter through chimneys and fire holes on the solstice. In the tale of Saint Nicholas, the saint tossed coins through a window, and, in a later version of the tale, down a chimney when he finds the window locked. The hearth was held sacred in primitive belief as a source of beneficence, and popular belief had elves and fairies bringing gifts to the house through this portal. Nicholas" where the author described him as an elf. In the United States and Canada, children traditionally leave Santa a glass of milk and a plate of cookies ; in Britain and Australia, he is sometimes given sherry or beer, and mince pies instead. In Denmark, Norway and Sweden, it is common for children to leave him rice porridge with cinnamon sugar instead. In Ireland it is popular to give him Guinness or milk, along with Christmas pudding or mince pies. They get sweets in a bag if they were good, and a golden colored birch switch if not. On Christmas Eve "Little Jesus" comes and gives gifts for everyone. Children following the Dutch custom for sinterklaas will "put out their shoe" leave hay and a carrot for his horse in a shoe before going to bed, sometimes weeks before the sinterklaas avond. The next morning they will find the hay and carrot replaced by a gift; often, this is a marzipan figurine. Naughty children were once told that they would be left a roe a bundle of sticks instead of sweets, but this practice has been discontinued. Tags on gifts for children are sometimes signed by their parents "From Santa Claus" before the gifts are laid beneath the tree. A classic American image of Santa Claus. Ho, ho, ho Ho ho ho is the way that many languages write out how Santa Claus laughs. The laughter of Santa Claus has long been an important attribute by which the character is identified, but it also does not appear in many non- English -speaking countries. The traditional Christmas poem A Visit from St. Nicholas relates that Santa has: Some stories and legends include a village, inhabited by his helpers, surrounding his home and shop. In Denmark, he is said to live in Greenland near Uummannaq. In Sweden, the town of Mora has a theme park named Tomteland. Giant Santa Claus, Philippines Santa Claus appears in the weeks before Christmas in department stores or shopping malls, or at parties. The practice of this has been credited[dubious â€” discuss] to James Edgar , as he started doing this in in his Brockton, Massachusetts department store. Sometimes a photograph of the child and Santa are taken. Having a Santa set up to take pictures with children is a ritual that dates back at least to Quite often the Santa, if and when he is detected to be fake, explains that he is not the real Santa and is helping him at this time of year. Most young children accept this explanation. At family parties, Santa is sometimes impersonated by the male head of the household or other adult male family member. In Canada, malls operated by Oxford Properties established a process by which autistic children could visit Santa Claus at the mall without having to contend with crowds. In , the Southcentre Mall in Calgary was the first mall to offer this service. It blossomed into a second career for him, and after appearing in parades and malls, [63] he appeared on the cover of the American monthly Boston Magazine as Santa. Meath was a board member of the international organization called Fraternal Order of Real Bearded Santas. For the Muppet television film, see A Muppets Christmas: For the Polish film, see Letters to Santa film. Writing letters to Santa Claus has been a Christmas tradition for children for many years. These letters normally contain a wishlist of toys and assertions of good behavior. Some social scientists have found that boys and girls write different types of letters. Girls generally write longer but more polite lists and express the nature of Christmas more in their letters than in letters written by boys. Girls also more often request gifts for other people. These letters may be answered by postal workers or outside volunteers. Written and sent with the help of a parent or teacher, children learn about the structure of a letter, salutations, and the use of an address and postcode.

5: Going Gently: " Who lives here?"

Now I know "who lives here" and I completely understand why the house so impressed a young Rena Borovay when she drove by and decided to make it home for her family so many years ago. The KT "Who lives here" series takes a closer look at some unique homes and the people who live there.

Jonathan Henderson Sponsored link. Since the dawn of time, man has questioned life. Why are we here? And ultimately, what created us? These are but a few of the questions this essay has explanations for. But take heart; these are but the opinions, of one person. Nothing in this essay can be counted as fact, and nothing here can really be counted as fiction. For none of it, can be proven. As a child, I was raised into a Christian family. No one is born with any belief of their own. Beliefs, are fed to people as they grow older with time. Ideas are nurtured into peoples minds. In an ideal world, everyone would be the same, but because of different ethnicities, different cultures, and different religions, none of this is possible. People are born nothing; they are raised something. As I was growing up I was raised Christian. But, like all things in life, you must not let others make your decisions for you, you must take the bull by the horns and make your own decisions. Life is what YOU make it. You must make your own decisions in life, you control your own destiny, you are your own worst enemy, you are your own best friend. What you are is the result of your efforts, and what no one else has made you to be. You make choices everyday. Some of them small; some of them large; some, well just not important enough to really care about. But your choices are affected by your environment and how you were raised, unless you have a strong willpower and are able to make your own decisions early in life. Some philosophers of old condemn humans, some, praise them. Confucius, a philosopher of great renown from ancient China, said: How could a baby be born evil, how could a sweet innocent child be born evil? How can an innocent child, a new born baby be born perfectly good, and not mischievous. As we all know, some babies can be VERY mischievous, some also can be perfect little angels. If that is true, how can they be born good or evil. The view that I believe to be true is that all human beings are born into a state of neutrality, they gain positive emotions, or negative emotions as they mature. Their environment can greatly change their state of mind. I believe that, for a person to be an independent, self aware, decent human being, they should accept the following guidelines: You must deal with the repercussions of all your actions. Have an open mind. Treat others, as you would treat those you love. Condemn no one, for it is not your place. Have opinions, and be free to express them. Have faith in your beliefs. Now to explain these things into detail: You are responsible for your own actions, no one can be at fault for something you have done, for you ultimately, choose your own path. To deny any repercussion of an action you have committed is blasphemous to your self and to your own beliefs. So before taking action, think of the reaction. First figure out if you can handle it. If someone truly believes something, then it is right for them. It may be not right for you. But respect their right to differ. Be conscious of everything around you. Do not resent others, or the ideas of others. Keep an open mind; human nature is always subject to change. Treat others, only as you would treat those you love. The human spirit is fragile. Anything said or done to it is taken into account and affected in either a negative or a positive way. Be careful of what you do, harm no one. Make no judgments of others. Your place is not to judge, nor is it to be judged. Every human being is entitled to their own life, without judgments. If you truly believe in something express it, do not be scared to share it. If you believe it, what is the harm of expressing it to others? If you practice the art of having an open mind, then you will consider all opinions that are given to you, and think about what they mean. Do not brush off someone because of their opinion. Have faith in what you believe in. Always have faith in you beliefs. If you do not, then you are just following a set of guidelines uselessly, and aimlessly. Without examining your faith, how do you know what you believe in is right? Without questioning, you will receive no answers. The universe is a void of small rocks we call planets and empty, blank, black, space. How did it get there? This is a question for which there will be no definite answer, in the living part of your existence. It never began; it always was; nothing created it; it was just here. Of course people will throw facts at you about carbon dating and such. They will say that the earth is so many billions of millions of years old, or we have blah blah blah amount of time until the sun explodes in a big mass of fire, killing us and destroying the earth and the rest of the solar system. Everything happens for a reason, because something willed it that way. People have control of their own lives, as planets and stars, and moons have control of their own existence. Something is created or fades out of existence when it feels like it. After all humans do have finite life spans. But, being conscious of things, your life limit may be under the average, or go beyond the average. The earth as a central form of power: We live on this earth. Why not believe it to be the central form of power in our lives? My belief is that it created us, somehow. But this obviously cannot be exactly explained until we reach the afterlife, in which I also believe. If we follow the guidelines above, all will be revealed to us. Human-beings have the ability to do whatever they wish to do. You are in control of your own destiny. What you wish you can do, you can. You have the resources, and the abilities, and the potential to do anything. Life is full of infinite possibilities. No one can impede your progress. If you stay steadfast, concentrated, and stuck to that one goal. The life or condition of a person in a religious order. A set of beliefs, values, and practices based on the teachings of a spiritual leader. A cause, principle, or activity pursued with zeal or conscientious devotion. It defines "Belief" as: The mental act, condition, or habit of placing trust or confidence in another. Mental acceptance of and conviction in the truth, actuality, or validity of something. Something believed or accepted as true, especially a particular tenet or a body of tenets accepted by a group of persons. A belief is separate from a religion. You can believe that there is a God, without making that your religion. However religions have sets of beliefs. This is analogous to the observation that all squares are rectangles, but not all rectangles are squares.

Incredible Women Often Have The Worst Dating Lives – Here's Why "Breezing" Is The New Dating Trend We Should ALL Be Following | Didn't Understand Why I Kept Attracting Toxic Guys Until I Stopped Doing These 10 Things.

By David Robson 2 October As soon as I was born, I was already destined to die earlier than half the babies in my maternity ward – a curse that I can do little to avoid. Simply due to the fact that I am male, I can be expected to die around three years earlier than a woman born on the same day. What is it about being a man that means I am likely to die younger than the women around me? And is it possible for me to break the curse of my gender? Although this puzzling divide has been known for decades, it is only recently that we have started coming close to some answers. One early idea was that men work themselves into an early grave. Whether working in a mine or ploughing the land, they put extra stress on their bodies and amassed injuries that caught up with them later in life. Yet if that were the case, you might expect the gap to be closing, as both men and women converge on the same, sedentary jobs. Getty Images The survival advantage of women is seen in every country, in every year, for which reliable records exist In fact, the difference in lifespan has remained stable even throughout monumental shifts in society. Consider Sweden, which offers the most reliable historic records. In 1880, life expectancy at birth was 33 years for women and 31 years for men; today it is 83 for women and 79 for men. As one recent article put it: There may be no more robust pattern in human biology. Factors such as smoking, drinking, and overeating may partly explain why size of the gender gap varies so widely between countries. Russian men are likely to die 13 years earlier than Russian women, for instance, partly because they drink and smoke more heavily. But the fact is that female chimpanzees, gorillas, orangutans, and gibbons also consistently outlive the males of the group, and you do not see apes – male or female – with cigarettes hanging out of their mouths and beer glasses in their hands. Instead, it would seem like the answer lies in our evolution. There are many potential mechanisms – starting with the bundles of DNA known as chromosomes within each cell. Chromosomes come in pairs, and whereas women have two X chromosomes, men have an X and a Y chromosome. Having two X chromosomes, women keep double copies of every gene, meaning they have a spare if one is faulty. The result is that more cells may begin to malfunction with time, putting men at greater risk of disease. The result is delayed risk of cardiovascular disease later in life. Or it could also be a simple matter of size. Taller people have more cells in their bodies, meaning they are more likely to develop harmful mutations ; bigger bodies also burn more energy, which could add to wear and tear within the tissues themselves. Since men tend to be taller than women, they should therefore face more long-term damage. Eunuchs were times more likely to reach 100, compared to other men. Even the pampered kings did not come close But perhaps the true reason lies in the testosterone that drives most other male characteristics, from deeper voices and hairier chests to balding crowns. Evidence comes from an unexpected place: Korean scientist Han-Nam Park recently analysed the detailed records of court life from the 19th Century, including information about 81 eunuchs whose testicles had been removed before puberty. His analyses revealed that the eunuchs lived for around 70 years – compared to an average of just 50 years among the other men in the court. Overall, they were times more likely to celebrate their hundredth birthday than the average man living in Korea at the time. Even the kings – who were the most pampered people in the palace – did not come close. Although not all studies of other types of eunuch have shown such pronounced differences, overall it seems that people and animals without testicles do live longer. View image of Credit: Getty Images The exact reasons are elusive, but David Gems at University College London speculates that the damage may be done by the end of puberty. For speculative evidence, he points to the sad cases of mental health patients, institutionalised in the USA in the early 20th Century. Like the Korean eunuchs, they too lived for longer than the average inmate – but only if they had been sterilised before the age of 18. Testosterone might make our bodies stronger in the short-term, but the same changes also leave us open to heart disease, infections, and cancer later in life. View image of Ageing differences may be down to testosterone Credit: Once the children are born, the men are more disposable Kirkwood and Gem both think of this as a kind of evolutionary pay-off that gave both men and women the best chances of passing on their genes. During mating, women would be more likely to go for alpha males, pumped up on testosterone. But once the children are born, the men are more disposable, says Kirkwood. As it is, the scientists admit that we need to keep on looking for a definitive answer. But the hope is that eventually, the knowledge may provide some hints to help us all live a little longer.
